The Case of the Missing Caramel Apple.

Ms. McDonald wanted to have a fall party for her 1st grade students. Fall was Ms. McDonald's favorite season. She was really excited to decorate her room and make treats for her students.

For the party tomorrow Ms. McDonald planned to make her yummy caramel apples for the kids. She brought in one caramel apple to show it to the class what it looks like and then she put it on her desk. When Ms. McDonald left at the end of the day the caramel apple was still on her desk.

When Ms. McDonald arrived at school the next day the caramel apple was gone! Ms. McDonald looked around the room and noticed a trail of hamster food coming in the room. The teacher across the hall had a pet hamster named Jefferey who broke out of his cage sometimes and he loved caramel.

The custodian was called to the room to see if she could help. The custodian has a sweet tooth and there was caramel stuck to the bottom of her shoe.

Ms. Nelson, the teacher next door, heard the noise and came in to look at the room. Ms. Nelson loved caramel apples and she had a key to Ms. McDonald's key.

What happened to the caramel apple?

☐

Did Jeffrey the hamster eat it?

☐

Did the custodian take it?

☐

Did the teacher with a key take it?

Let's learn some science words!

Claim: The answer to the question.

Evidence: Why your answer is right.

Question: What happened to the caramel apple?

- Claim:
- ☐ Jeffrey ate it.
 - ☐ Custodian took it.
 - ☐ Ms. Nelson took it.

What is your evidence?

Now what do you think?
