

Preamble

For the sake of brevity, I will be referring to the document written by Latte with the accusations against me as “the document” or “the doc”. I will be referring to WolfyGaymin as simply “Wolfy”, and I will be referring to Totally Vicious, a pair of Sonic horror OC’s (and their world) who were created by Wolfy, and that I previously co-ran, as “TV”.

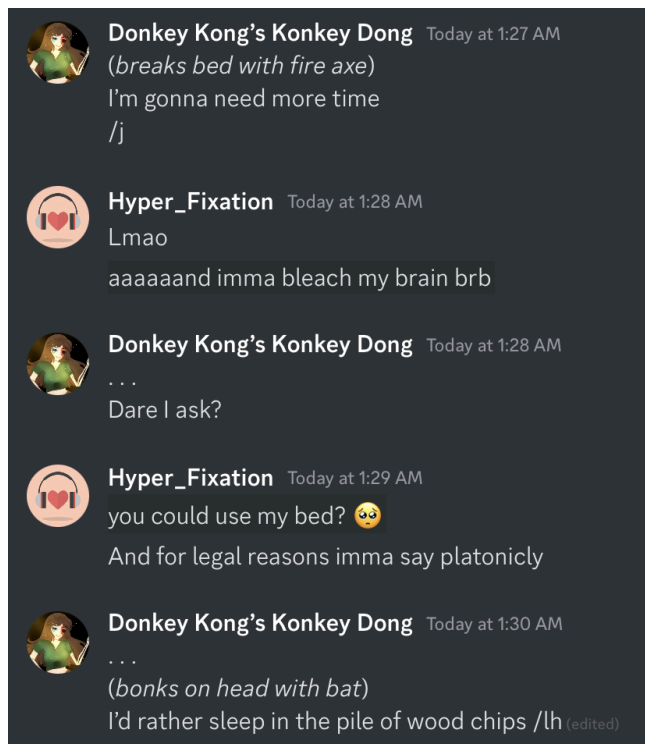

The response document is ordered by the order the allegations appear in the original document. There is a document outline you can use to jump to any chapter of this response document. At the bottom, there will be links to the original document I’m responding to, Wolfy’s video where she posts the document, to Y3LLOW’s slideshow that was used as an early defense (details as to why it was made are explained at the bottom of the response document), and another relevant document.

Grooming and Pedophilia

Firstly, yes, I did shut down discussions of anything sexual.
(For reference for the top picture, “like before” refers to when Zia sent me “Mwah”, and afterwards said that it was meant to be a passionate kiss on the lips)

(“bonks on head with bat” is a reference to the “No Horny” meme)

I had no interest in doing anything sexual with Zia, and I didn't want something to pull us apart. I was in the relationship to make them happy, and I had developed a minor romantic crush on them throughout our interactions (my therapist said that was okay to have, since it's based on our interactions and not Zia's physical appearance), not to rape them or anything like that.

However, I cannot find any instance of me hinting at anything sexual with Zia. To my knowledge, this never happened.

If he feared getting in trouble, he shouldn't date a 16 year old to begin with. Person 1 also talked about how he would "occasionally hint" to sexual stuff, but that was it.

My fear of other people finding out wasn't because I thought we were doing something wrong. It was because I was scared people wouldn't listen to our explanation, and assume the worst (a fear I feel was justified, given people's reactions, and the document I'm responding to). The document later shows me saying this to Y3LLOW.

Wolfy has also spoken with one of her mutuals, who just so happens to live in the same state ZG does. They have confirmed that it is in fact illegal to have a minimum of a 4 year age gap when it comes to dating minors, ZG's and Person 1's age gap is of one year more. This means, it is in fact illegal for them to be in a relationship.

To my knowledge, there is no limit on specifically dating in any state in America. I originally thought there was one, which is why I originally said no to Zia. I only said yes after being informed that there wasn't a law against it. If I had learned of one while we were dating, I would've broken up with Zia as soon as I learned that.

The document says that there is one, but I cannot find anything about it online. The closest anyone I know has been able to find is this picture from a court case in California, and is the result an attorney came to. Outside of this picture, I cannot find anything, and I can't take the document's claim of "I know someone who knows a lawyer that says it's wrong" without evidence. I also asked my therapist, and she says I didn't break any laws.

Is it illegal to be in a non-sexual relationship with a minor?

No, it is generally not illegal to simply be in a non-sexual relationship with a minor.

However, just because it is not illegal to date someone underage does not mean that everything in the relationship is permissible. Some non-sexual conduct that is common in dating relationships may still be illegal. For example, in California, someone who dates a minor will still have to take precautions to avoid breaking the following laws:

- providing alcohol to a minor (Business and Professions Code 25658 BPC),
- lewd acts with a minor (Penal Code 288 PC),
- loitering on school grounds (Penal Code 653b PC),
- solicitation of a minor (Penal Code 288.4 PC),
- annoying or molesting a child (Penal Code 647.6 PC),
- child pornography (Penal Code 311 PC), and
- lewdness in the presence of a child (Penal Code 273g PC).

Many of these laws can be broken without any physical sexual conduct, at all.

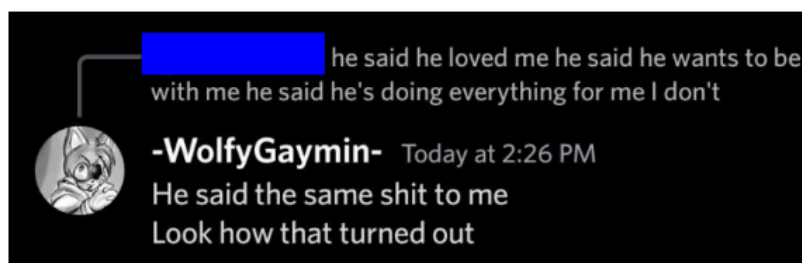

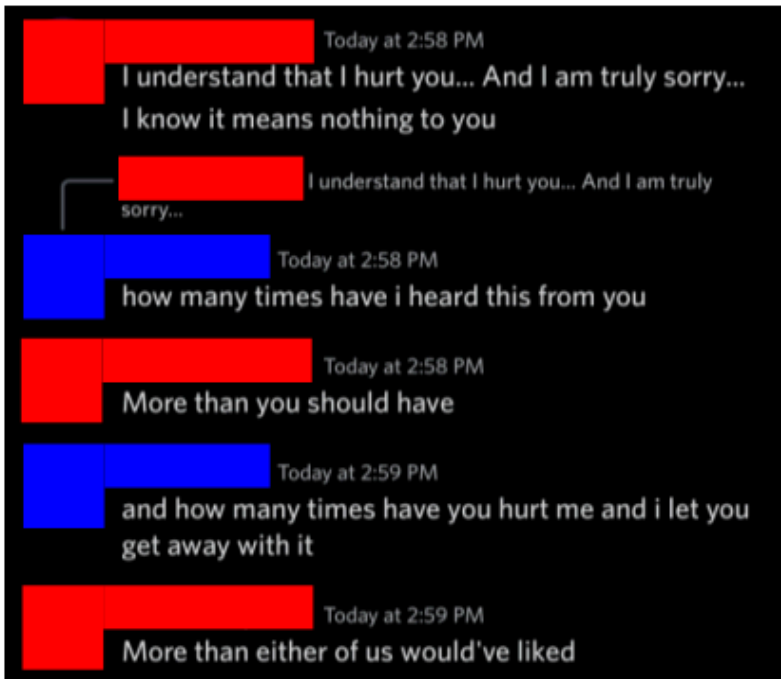

I also would like to add that ZG had once criticized a 4 year age gap between an adult and a minor, calling it disgusting, but then is okay with a 5 year age gap between himself and a minor. Another thing; as of last

My criticism of the age gap the document is referring to was because of this (this is the victim talking about the adult).

Today at 3:15 PM
he did hell he always used to say "i wish i was 16 or even 17 again" a lot. he said it was because he wanted to be with me and not worry about the age gap

I also assumed that the adult had some sort of malicious intention (yes, I do see the irony). All of this happened before Zia and I started dating.

The adult there also mentally hurt the victim several times, and was horrible to his friends (including Wolfy). The impression he gave off was that he didn't really care about the well-being of anyone close to him. (Blue is for the victim, red is for the adult)

The adult was also dating a known supporter of a pedophile for the longest time (though they have since broken up).

I never wanted to hurt anyone. I never wanted to get anything out of my and Zia's relationship other than both of us being happy.

between himself and a minor. Another thing; as of last night, person 1 has been telling people we forced them to tell their story. We didn't, and we tried our best to make them feel as safe and comfortable as possible.

Here's what I think happened in regards to the claims of one side forcing the other to say certain things. My guess is that Zia went to Wolfy due to being salty about our breakup (per Zia's own claim, this is why they said the things they said) (I should also note that the breakup was a mutual decision). Wolfy, Latte, and Person 2, assuming I was a pedophile who was trying to groom Zia, comforted them (which Wolfy has experience in doing). They then likely encouraged Zia to make their discord announcement, again, under the assumption that I was a pedophile. Later, when Zia and I talked again, Zia claimed that Wolfy forced them to say those things, which I told others (at the time, I was still under the belief that Wolfy was doing all this maliciously, rather than to help Zia, and I didn't want anyone to send Zia any hate). Later, Zia started using their being in a group chat with Wolfy, Latte, and Person 2 to get info on what they planned to do to me. At the time, Zia was genuinely terrified of Wolfy.

~♠️ProjectJ1NX♠️~ 03/06/2023 9:15 PM

But I wanted to tell you that Wolfy is definitely planning something

Something big

I'm scared

Hyper_Fixation 03/07/2023 11:16 PM

Yeah

They're still plotting a doc

What do i do??

I'm scared

So them spying on Wolfy was to let us (Y3LLOW, Zia, and I) prepare a response to whatever Wolfy and their friends were gonna do. I was fully aware of Zia doing this, and I supported it because I thought Wolfy knew that I wasn't a pedo, and just wanted my life ruined because they felt I wronged them in some way. Since then, my opinions have changed, and I regret supporting it. I should also mention that Zia is bipolar, which explains the huge change in opinions on me and Wolfy.

~♠️ProjectJ1NX♠️~ 11/13/2021 8:59 PM

the other day I got diagnosed with Bipolar Disorder

Another thing to put on the list of things i have

So I wouldn't say anyone forced anyone to do anything. Wolfy and their friends were comforting Zia and trying to make them feel safe, with the false assumption that I was a pedophile (given that assumption, I don't fault them for comforting Zia the way they did, though I would fault them for their assumption), which Zia later took as them forcing Zia to say things. Zia getting information from Wolfy about their plans was done because Zia was assuming that Wolfy had malicious intentions. This is just my best guess based on what I know about everyone involved, and what I've seen.

The document also implies that me calling Zia my best friend is a lie, and that I got their gender wrong in this situation:

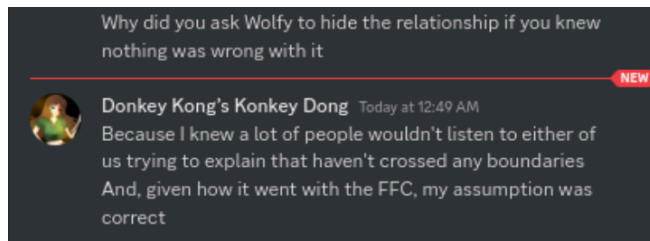

Firstly, no, I did not lie about Zia being my best friend. Two people can be dating and still be best friends at the same time.

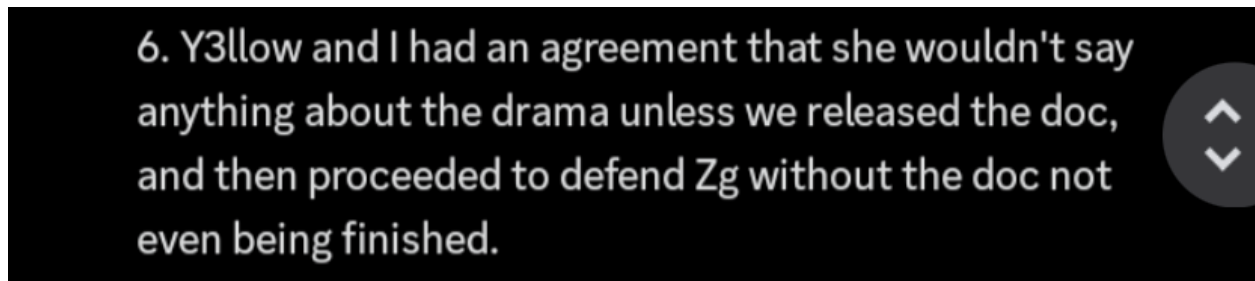

Secondly, yes, I got their gender wrong, but not intentionally. I hadn't checked up on what their gender was at the time, as they were so comfortable with being referred to with they/them that I assumed that they were non-binary. That was a mistake on my part, and I'm sorry.

The document claims that the above claims are "debunked here, with him [me] admitting..."

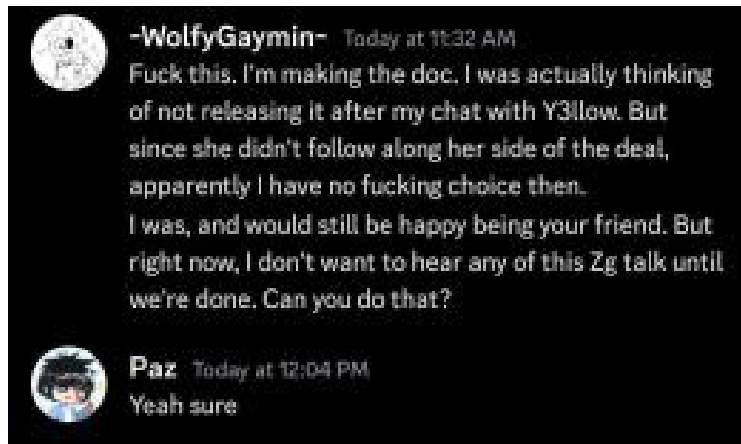

debunked here, with him admitting.

I do not see how my explanation debunks anything. I didn't think Zia and I were in the wrong, but I also didn't think anyone would listen to us explaining how what we were doing was okay, so I didn't want any drama to happen from it.

As for the claim that Y3LLOW broke their agreement, I'm not entirely sure what agreement is being referred to here. As far as I can tell, the document is referring to when Y3LLOW asked that everyone not talk publicly about the situation. Based on this interaction between Zap and Wolfy, my best guess is that the document is referring to when Y3LLOW showed Zap her slideshow defending me, leading to Wolfy being removed from the Friday Funky Crew.

That was done because Wolfy had destroyed my social life and mental health, so Y3LLOW wanted to undo it. While I haven't asked Wolfy or Y3LLOW about it recently, based on what I know of them, I believe Y3LLOW's "deal" with Wolfy was meant to be after she undid what Wolfy had done to me. It seems there wasn't a clear common understanding.

However, Zap quickly made an announcement about me once Wolfy convinced him to kick me out of the Friday Funky Crew, and many people posted screenshots of it in community posts on their YouTube channels, so even if Y3LLOW and Wolfy had made no mention of the drama in public once they agreed to keep it between themselves, no one else had agreed to that, and it was already somewhat public.

On the topic of Y3LLOW, it's not like they hadn't had a situation with each other before. ZG basically forced y3llow to congratulate him on 20k subs on youtube and it caused y3llow to make a rant on youtube.

In regards to the drama I had with Y3LLOW that the document refers to, yes, I've had drama with Y3LLOW in the past, and it was my fault. However, Y3LLOW and I have both since talked it out, sorted out the issue, I apologized, and we moved on months ago.

As for 😬 being used to convey a sense of surprise, what I meant was that I sometimes use it to express a sense of dumbfoundedness or speechlessness, or even sometimes surprise. I do this IRL when I'm dumbfounded or speechless, and I've actually used it several times with Wolfy:

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 02/17/2023 5:48 PM

Lol, I'll check it out

I have no idea what to say to it

-WolfyGaymin- 02/17/2023 5:50 PM

Ya that's fair lmao

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 10/15/2022 9:01 PM

Then I have no idea what to say 🙄

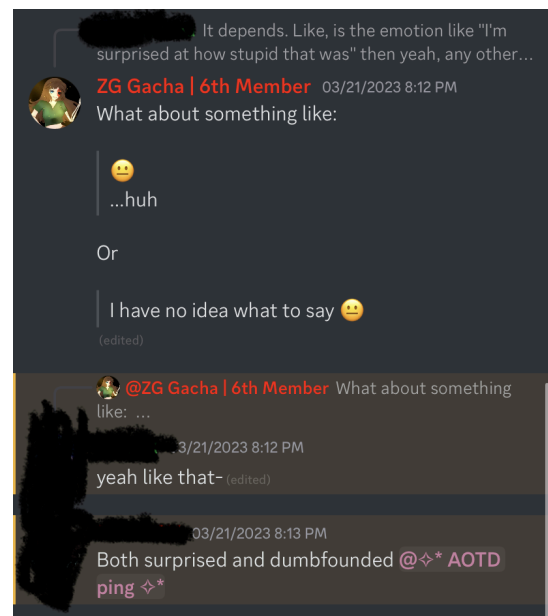

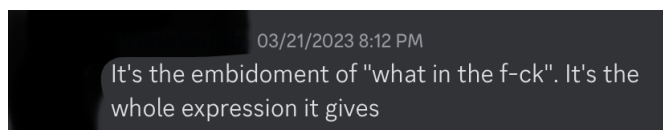

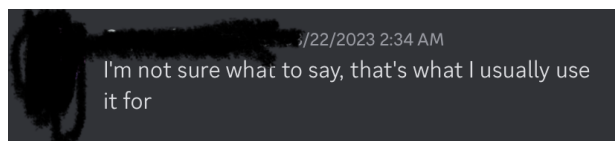

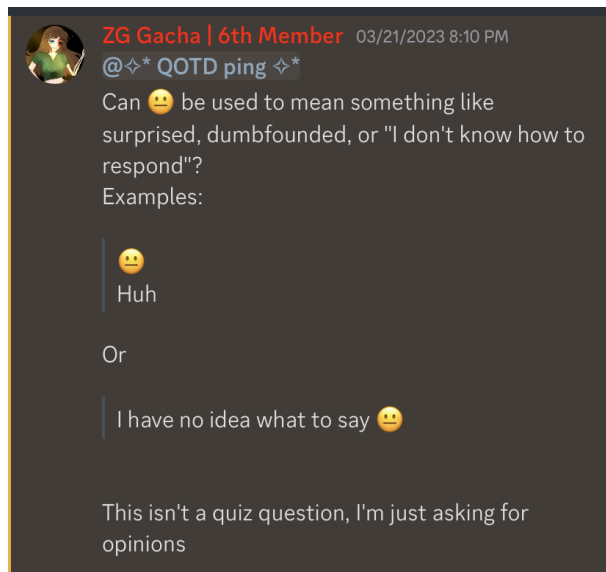

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 06/08/2022 12:47 PM

Lol

I have no idea what to say .__.

I also asked the people in the Friday Funky Crew Discord server, and several agreed with me.

Wolfy also mentioned how ZG made multiple sex jokes to her, even when he was well aware she was ace and uncomfortable by it.

As I told Wolfy, I had completely forgotten that they hated them (which was my mistake). As soon as Wolfy told me again, I stopped making them.

I would like to mention that I couldn't have assumed that Wolfy hated sex jokes just from the fact that they are asexual. I know and have seen plenty of ace people who make sex jokes a lot. For example:

(Here's him saying that he's asexual: https://youtu.be/-FT_KTBUqCI?t=763 (12:43))

While it wasn't addressed in the document, I'd still like to address the question of why I dated Zia in the first place. The simple but honest answer is just that I fell in love with Zia through our interactions and their personality. I did not date them with the intention of grooming Zia at all; I just wanted to make them happy.

Zia and I started dating on September 28th, 2022. I was 20, Zia was 16, and we had already known each other for about 2 years at that point (we met when I was 18 and Zia was 14, though I didn't learn their age until after they had turned 16). I had originally said no when they confessed their love to me the previous night, but decided to say yes after I was informed that there is no age limit strictly on dating in America (informed, not convinced; saying convinced was a poor choice of wording; I do not think Zia is at fault at all for us dating, as I was the one who ultimately said yes), and after Zia had told me that they asked their mom her thoughts on Zia dating me (Zia's mom was in full support of us dating). We agreed, with a mutual understanding that what we were doing was motivated out of love.

Sometime after we started dating, Zia told their mom, dad, grandmother, doctor, and therapists about us, specifically stating that they were dating their (at the time) 20 year old friend, and all of them fully supported us. I also told Zia that if at any time one of the adults in their life feels our relationship is unsafe, then I'll back out. I'd rather Zia be safe than with me.

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 10/17/2022 12:45 AM

And if, at anytime, one of these adults feels our relationship is unsafe, then I'll back out
I'd rather my friend be safe then with me

This is something I stuck to until the end of our relationship, which was part of why it ended: Zia and I felt unsafe in the situation. Specifically, Wolfy knew about us, and was no longer friends with me. Even though they said they wouldn't expose us, which I trusted, Zia didn't trust her.

The breakup happened at 10:43 pm on February 27, 2023, the same night Wolfy and I officially went our separate ways. I had left Zia with the invitation that, if they ever needed a friend to talk to, I was always open. The following day, I sent Zia the following message:

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 02/28/2023 1:48 PM

Just checking in to see if you're still alive
You can just react with an emoji if that's easier
(Please don't hurt yourself) (edited)

Zia has a long history of self harm, which even manifested during the week I was writing this response.

Hyper_Fixation Today at 1:11 AM

~~I'm looking at the lighter~~
~~Tell me to stop~~
~~I need to not do it~~
~~Tell me not to~~

I was so scared that they'd kill themselves, especially after they told me several times (even before we started dating) that without me, they would've killed themselves by now.

Hyper_Fixation 03/18/2023 12:34 AM

But you didn't!

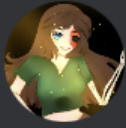

If it makes you feel better, I think you actually made me a better person

And if it wasn't for you I'd be dead!

I wanted them to know that, even though we broke up, I still cared about them as much as I always have.

However, on March 4th, I was a little concerned with their not responding or leaving a reaction (even though I told them before the breakup that I still cared about them and wanted to be friends, and they made it clear during the breakup that they still cared about me), so I had sent them a message.

March 4, 2023

Donkey Kong's Konkey Dong 03/04/2023 12:22 AM

Do you hate me?

Later that day is when Wolfy replaced me in the Friday Funky Crew, and got me blocked by most of my friends.

So, for the big questions:

Am I a pedophile?

No, and any claim to the contrary is false. My dating Zia was due to it making both of us happy, and us enjoying spending time together.

Did I groom Zia?

I know I never intended to, and while I don't think I did in any way, I'm not confident enough to say 100% that I didn't. Throughout my and Zia's interactions (both before and after we started dating), there were many times where I would say things like "I'm here. You're safe" or "I'm here for you". These statements were never meant to make them think that I'm the only safe option for them to be with. As stated earlier, Zia has been dealing with suicidal thoughts for several years now, and those statements were meant to convey the idea that no matter what, they still have a friend, and people who care about them. They were/are suffering, and I just wanted them to not suffer anymore.

However, there is a chance that this has led Zia to be more reliant on me, but was never a goal of mine. In grooming, the groomer generally wants the victim to be more reliant on them, often creating a divide between the groomer and the victim's friends and family. I never tried to do this, but grooming can be done unintentionally, which seems to have happened here, and I am currently taking active efforts to undo what I may have done.

Although, after explaining the situation to my therapist (and showing her my conversations with everyone involved), she says I didn't groom Zia, and I'm going to trust her judgment. My doctor also says I didn't groom ProjectJ1NX. I also was able to ask a lawyer who deals mostly with situations involving kids, and she says I didn't groom ProjectJ1NX (she also says there's no age limits on dating).

If I'm trying to undo what I did, why am I still interacting with Zia?

Two main reasons. Firstly, because Zia asked.

~♠ProjectJ1NX♠~ 03/06/2023 9:23 PM

This is a stupid question, and I understand if you just don't want to hear from me ever again... but... Friends?

Secondly, because I want to try again. Zia was and still is my best friend, and I want to try being a better friend than I was before. If I can't, then I'll step away. I also trust their judgment if they want to stay away from me.

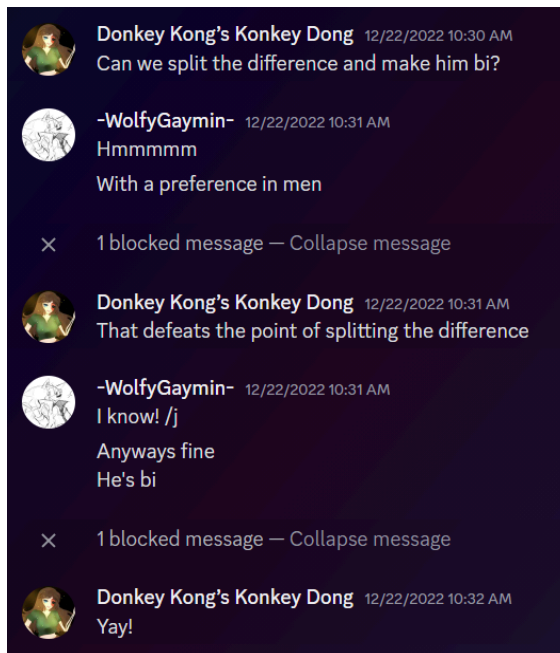

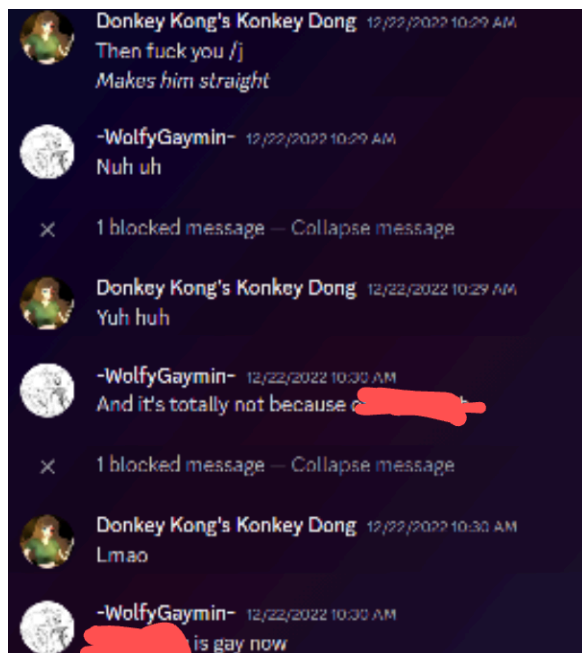

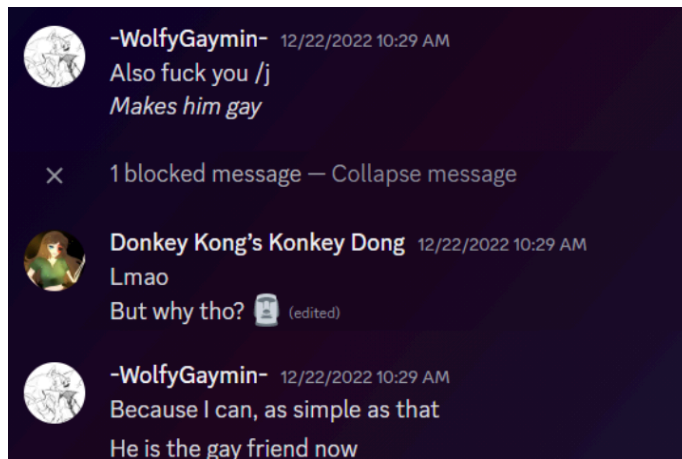

Update: Zia and I have cut contact with each other.

Homophobia, Racism, Transphobia, and Ableism

The document claims that I have shown instances of homophobic, anti-hispanic racist, transphobic, and ableist behaviors. This is completely false, and the evidence they brought forth is either out of context, or completely missing my intentions

Firstly, the accusations of homophobia and racism are due to a misunderstanding of my intentions.

The document provides alleged examples of me requesting or demanding changes to TV with homophobic and/or racist intentions.

The reason behind these requests and changes wasn't due to a hatred against gay people or Latinos. It was because of the nature of the characters of Vicious Tails and Totally Sonic.

For a brief history, sometime after the creepypasta “Sonic.exe” was posted, there was a large group of fans who made their own Sonic horror/creepypasta characters in a similar vein (though usually more like an OC than a horror monster). These characters are usually called “exes”, and Totally and Vicious are Wolfy’s exes, who I used to co-own with Wolfy.

My intention with the changes shown are linked to the lore of TV. In short, Totally and Vicious (at least to my understanding at the time) were once the same Sonic and Tails as in the games, but with a slight change in the story that caused an event to happen (it’s a long story; I’ll leave a link at the end to the Google doc with their story on it). So my thought process was “if Totally and Vicious are supposed to be Sonic and Tails, then why change this kind of established canon?”

At this time, I had completely forgotten that Totally and Vicious were also vent characters Wolfy made to cope with various things in her life.

To get more specific, my problem with changing Sonic to be Argentinean was that Sonic already has a birthplace in the Sonic canon, which, according to the “Sonic the Hedgehog Super Interactive Annual 2014” Pedigree Books on page 14, is Christmas Island (which is based on the real life Christmas Island, which is part of the Republic of Kiribati).

https://sonic.fandom.com/wiki/Christmas_Island

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kiritimati>

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kiribati>

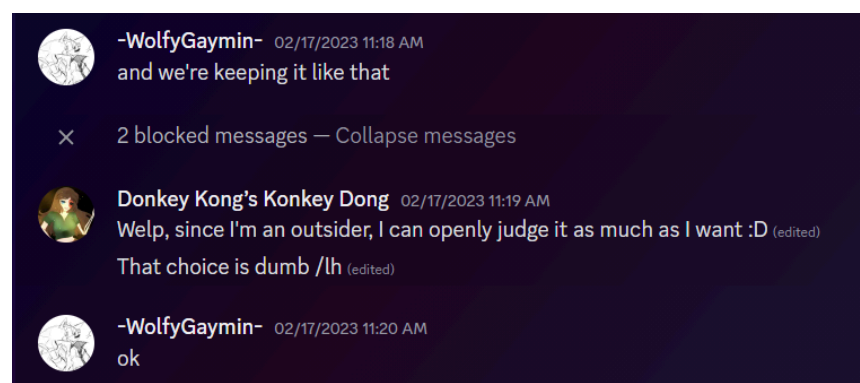

My issue with changing Totally’s ethnicity is the conflict with Sonic’s canon, since Totally is supposed to be Sonic. Same with Tails, though he’s from West Side Island (aka the location of most of Sonic the Hedgehog 2), and there doesn’t seem to be a clear real life location that inspired West Side Island, so he might be hispanic.

https://sonic.fandom.com/wiki/Miles_%22Tails%22_Prower

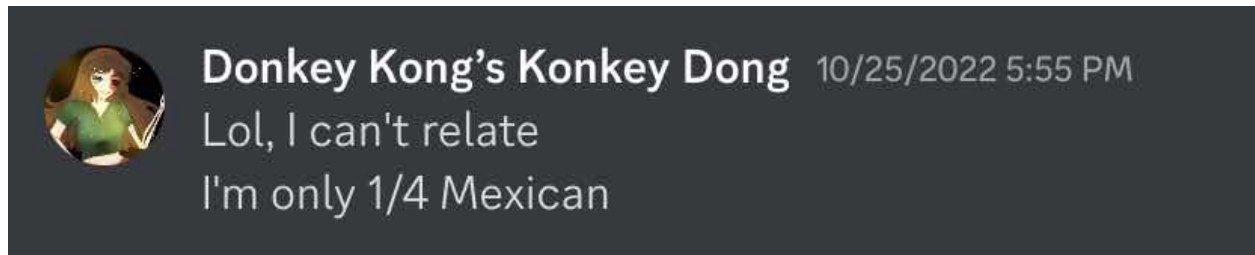

https://sonic.fandom.com/wiki/West_Side_Island

As for the change in sexuality, this was more so a change I just felt was pointless. At least how I saw it, it didn’t add anything Totally and Vicious, so I just saw the change as pointless, and making the characters very “OC-y”, which I thought went against the idea that they’re supposed to be the actual Sonic and Tails who went down different paths than in the actual canon. If Totally and Vicious are meant to be Sonic and Tails, then I saw changing their background and sexualities from that of Sonic and Tails’ went against that.

The “Then fuck you /j Makes him straight” was also meant to be funny.

I should also note that, while the document is correct in stating that I am white, I also have hispanic ancestry (specifically, I'm ¼ Mexican), and my family and I call ourselves Mexican.

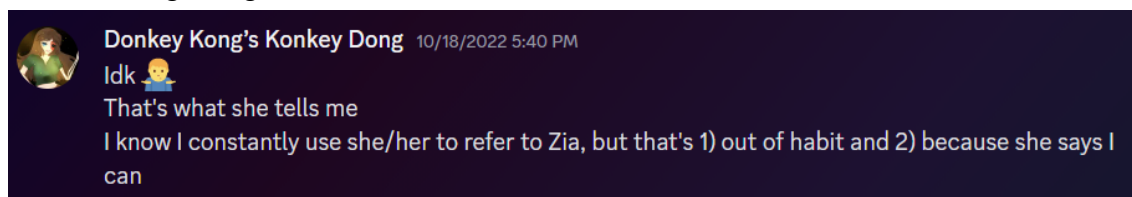

The /hj in the second picture was a poor choice of tone-indication on my part. I more so wanted to make a joke about how Wolfy was (as a joke) accusing me of being racist against hispanics, despite me being hispanic myself. Why it was a /hj and not a /j is because I wasn't joking about me being Mexican. (For those unaware, sometimes /j is used to indicate when something is a joke, with /hj meaning "half-joking")

Obviously, this does not give me a racism pass. Making racist remarks about any ethnicity, even your own, is wrong. But I am not racist against Latinos, and never have been.

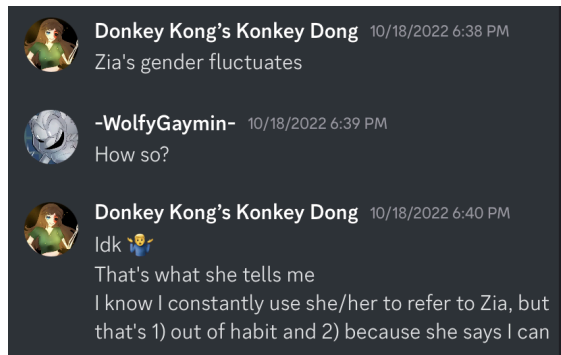

I'm also aware that the end of the document mentions that "ZG claims to be hispanic, when he's confirmed himself to be white", but I'm still responding to this section here because it's still in the document.

If you're curious as to how I could be white with hispanic ancestry, my paternal grandfather is Mexican (both his parents were immigrants from Mexico who met in America). The rest of my heritage is Irish, Russian, German, and Welsh, which is why I'm white (I'm primarily Irish).

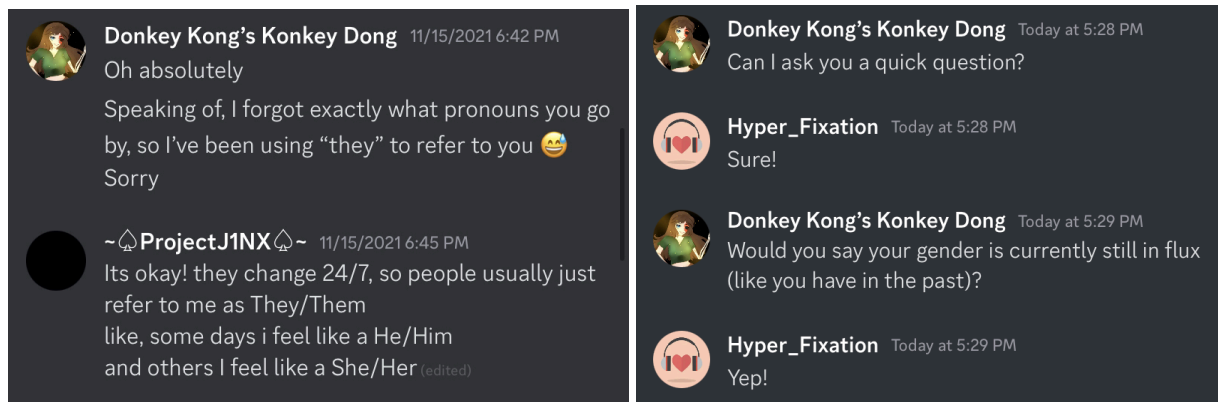

The document also claims that "he [me] refused to see his partner as anything but female (them having to allow it). Even when told they use they/them pronouns" with the following image as evidence.

This is completely false. What I said in the picture above is a response to Wolfy asking a question.

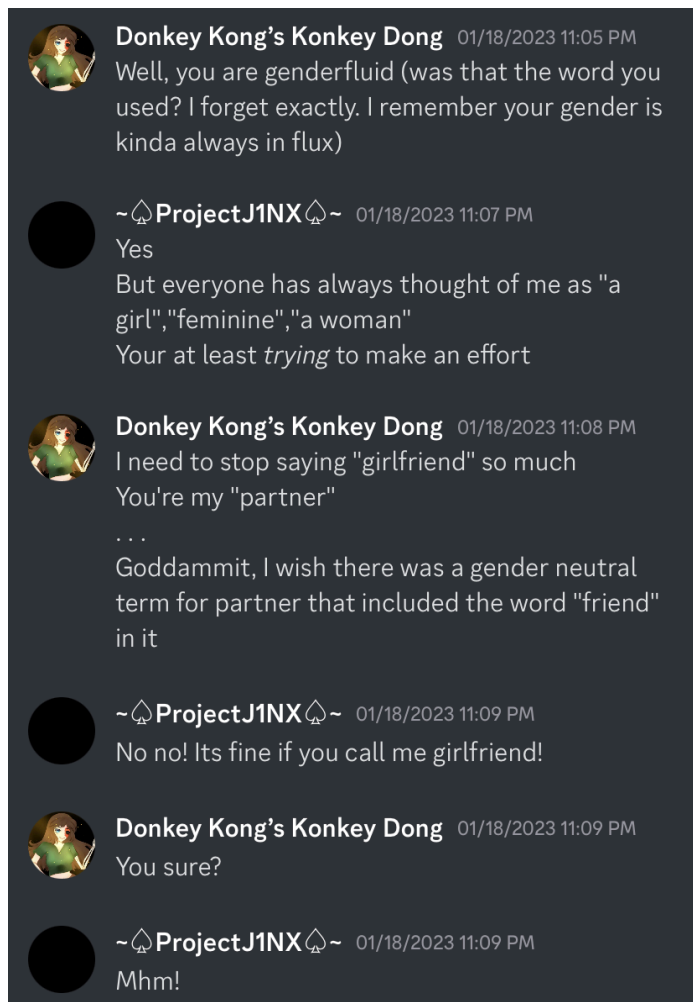

My answer being the answer that Zia had given me, and still gives to this day.

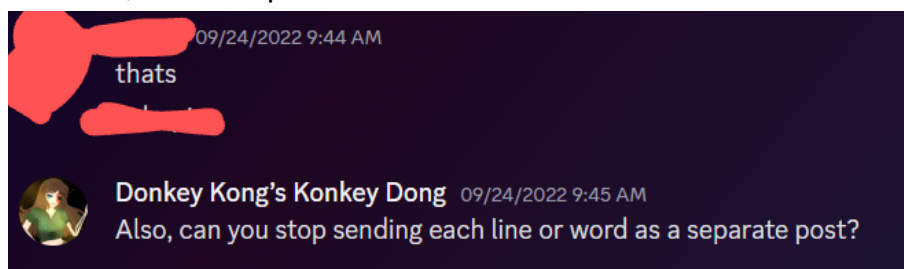

I also make an active effort to refer to them using they/them.

My response to Wolfy wasn't saying "I call them she/her because I'm lazy and forced them to let me use she/her", it was saying that I sometimes accidentally use she/her because of habit, not out of malice. Zia also has said that I can use feminine terms to refer to them.

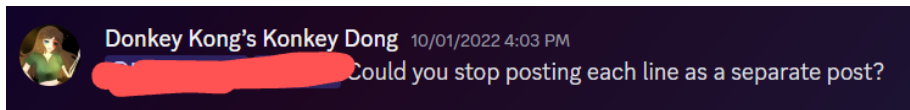

I still make an active effort to use they/them when referring to Zia, as it is their preferred pronouns.

Lastly for this section of the document, there's the claim "Also a sprinkle of ableism", with this picture.

This picture was followed by the claim "Person 2 does this as it's part of their autism, as it's a trait they had. He would constantly push this. This would also continue with multiple people.”, followed by this image.

The claim of me being ableist is false for a number of reasons. The reason I request that people make single posts with multiple lines instead of multiple posts one after the other is to avoid confusion. I've seen several instances of people saying one thing, posting it, then continuing that thought in another post, but because someone posted sooner, the thought gets interrupted and people get confused on what's a response to who and what's just a continuation of another thought. I try to avoid that confusion by asking that people use a multi-lined post instead of several posts.

In addition, unless "Person 2" refers to Wolfy (which I know is not true based on context clues from later in the document, but I'll keep their identity anonymous in this response document), I did not know that they were autistic (I could not find any instance of Wolfy telling me, but I can't check the TV Group Chat for any instance of that, so it's possible that I was told and just forgot). I also have an autistic brother who also finds people posting in multiple posts instead of their entire thought in a multiple line post really annoying, so Person 2 being autistic doesn't immediately mean they can't help posting like that. (However, I know that many autistic people will post in several posts instead of long ones to get their thoughts out, something I also do when I'm in a rush (though I try not to). My request was purely motivated by wanting to avoid the confusion that can happen from several people's thoughts getting mixed up).

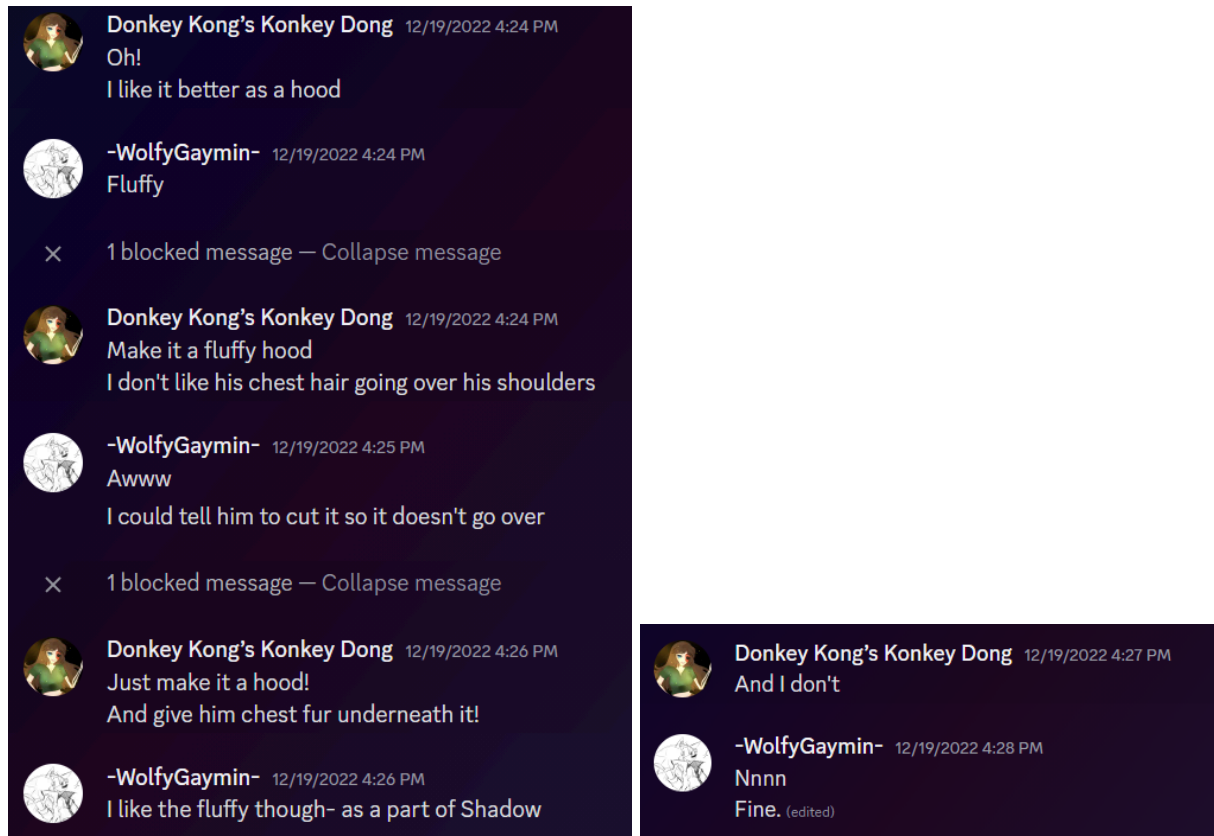

Harassment

The document explains a situation that happened last November. I spam pinged Person 2 to get them to stop tampering with something they were making for a project Wolfy was working on involving my videos (not knowing they were changes that weren't permanent, and not realizing how much I was overreacting). This situation was my fault, and soon after it happened, I regretted it, and wanted to apologize, but couldn't, as Person 2 had already blocked me (and apologizing in the group chat felt phony). I also got the impression that Person 2 didn't care about what I had done (which turned out to be false), so I didn't seek out an alternate way to send her an apology. I wasn't able to apologize until months later.

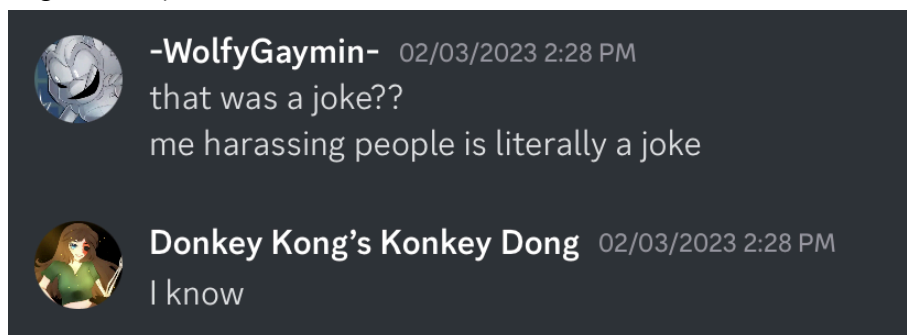

I have no excuse. That event was my fault, and I wanted to take it all back as soon as the next day.

As for the next claim: "Also, not necessarily harassment, but unnecessarily rude... And over a character's design choice is ridiculous".

Yes, that was somewhat rude, but there were two reasons I did that. Firstly, Wolfy, by their own volition, is often rude/mean to friends (because they know that it's all in good fun).

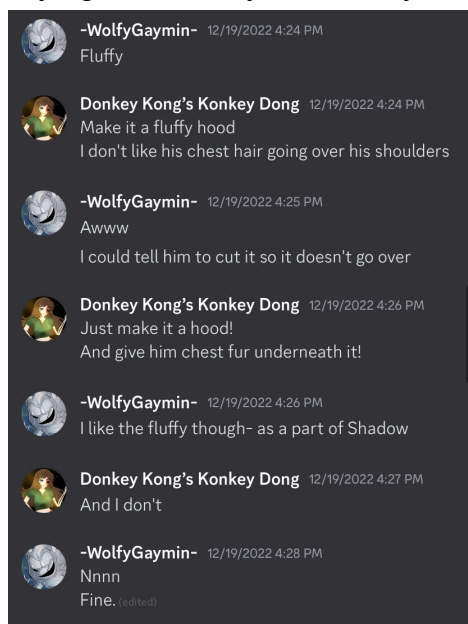

I thought what I was saying would come across similarly; the idea that "We're good friends, so it's okay to be a little meaner to each other, because we both know that we still love each other (platonically)".

Secondly, I didn't like how Shadow's chest fur looped around his neck like a hood. So I thought it should just be a fluffy hood, as I also really liked how the fluff looked on Shadow.

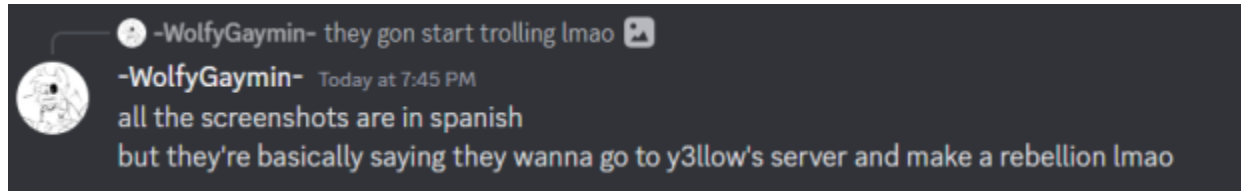

(Keep in mind that this was well after I forgot that me being the co-owner of TV meant I was 2nd to Wolfy, not their equal, so I thought that my opinion had equal weight.)

I also never got the impression that Wolfy was annoyed or angered by what I was saying, and if they were, they never told me until the document.

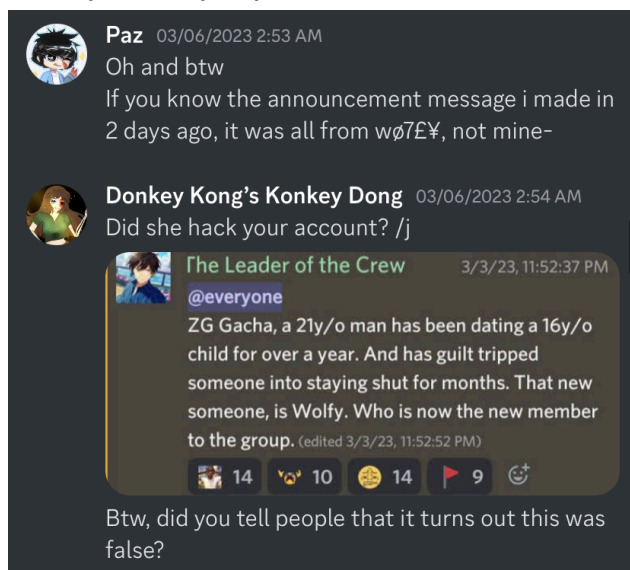

The document's next claim is that Wolfy never used the word "riot", and it was Wolfy's friend joking about causing drama in Y3LLOW's server. As far as I can tell, this is correct. However, Y3LLOW was informed about the joke by an unknown third party, who (to my knowledge) never told Y3LLOW that it was a joke.

Y3LLOW and Wolfy have a history of very much disliking each other, and Y3LLOW and I were genuinely under the impression that Wolfy was trying to ruin my life, so I wouldn't consider Y3LLOW's reaction to be unreasonable (I should also note that Y3LLOW is a 14 years old, so I feel her reaction is understandable).

I know that the end of the document shows that Y3LLOW didn't know it was a joke, but I'm still addressing the claim since it's still in the document.

No one that has harassed Wolfy since March 4th (the day I was kicked out of the Friday Funky Crew) did so because of me telling them to. The only thing I did ask was for Zap to tell people that his initial announcement of me was false.

(Looking back, the announcement wasn't entirely false (beyond the guilt trip part and the time frame), as I had in fact been dating a 16 year old, but it gives the wrong impression).

While writing this doc, I learned that the GachaTuber [SweetS0ulz !] (a friend of mine and member of the Friday Funky Crew) had harassed Wolfy about this drama, as well as claimed that Wolfy had forced me and Zia. I never said Wolfy forced us to date,

I never told Nisha to harass Wolfy, I do not condone her actions, and I never knew about these actions until a few days before posting this response document.

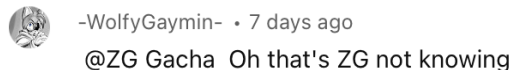

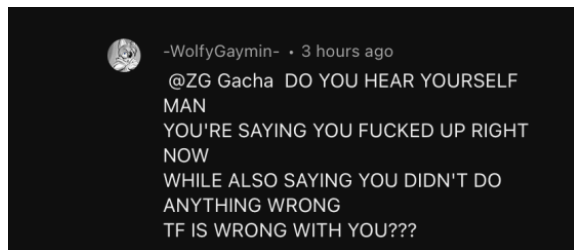

Additional Things I Want to Discuss

do you condone harassment of them then?

no, this is to indeed expose and make the issue public, as well as prevent anyone from getting away from condoning such horrible actions. i do not condone or agree with harassing of them, all i want is for people to be aware and for them to be deplatformed.

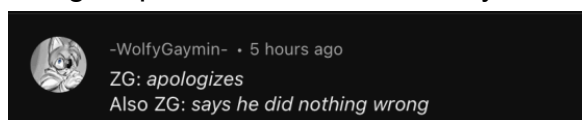

I'm going to assume that this is not from Wolfy, as Wolfy seemed to want to harass me (specifically in the comments of my YouTube channel's community tab).

While I unfortunately don't have a picture of it (as I removed the comment out of anger and a desire to be left alone to think), Wolfy did leave a mocking comment on one of my posts, where they denied my depression and yelled at me for wanting to be left alone for a bit.

This is why I was, for the longest time, under the impression that they just hated me and wanted my life ruined, rather than wanting to get someone she thought was a pedophile off the internet. This view has since changed, and I now recognize that Wolfy was just doing what they thought was necessary to protect people from someone they thought was a danger.

I'd also like to address the inconsistency of my opinions in my comments and community posts since Wolfy posted the document (something that Wolfy themselves brought up in the comments on my channel).

This was due to a combination of my fluctuating opinions of my own actions, and a desire to get Wolfy off my back and give me a break to think about everything. I do not respond well under stress, and I was frantically trying to lessen the drama going on while trying to get my thoughts together. My opinions on both my actions and Wolfy's motivations were also constantly changing, which is why I was so inconsistent with my stance on things.

I also really needed a break. This all happened during midterms, and during some of the busiest and most stressful weeks in my life. My mind was constantly focused on school, so this drama was not helping. So my main goal was to just lessen the hate going around just long enough that I could make it to spring break, and then I'd deal with the situation afterwards. I know I came across as someone who purposely hurt someone and was trying to justify it, but there was very little else I could do in the situation I was in.
