

Fursuit Care Guide

FOR YOUR HEAD AND PARTS!

Light cleaning

Spraying the inside of the head with a disinfectant spray will keep the inside fresh. Avoid spraying directly onto the eye area and make sure the interior is completely dry before the next suiting.

Spot clean the outside with a moist towel. If water doesn't do the trick, try a mixture of baking soda and water: make a paste and apply it to the stained area, rubbing gently. Rub until it's removed and then wipe it off with a wet towel or brush it off with a comb when it is dry.

Deep Cleaning

Spray the inside of the head with a disinfectant spray, avoiding direct spraying to the eye area, both inside and outside.

Mix water with a small amount of soap or detergent, soak in a small towel and wring it out slightly. Gently wipe the inside of the head, allowing the inside to soak in the soap water.

Using another towel with clean water, gently wipe the inside of the head to wash off the suds. Repeat several times until no suds remain.

Use a dry towel to absorb as much water as possible, and repeat several times until no more water can be absorbed.

Dry your head thoroughly with a high-velocity fan for at least one day.

Use a mixture of baking soda and water to make a paste and apply it to the stained area, rubbing gently. Rub until the it's removed and then wipe it off with a wet towel or brush it off with a comb when it is dry.

Using a smooth comb or brush, gently comb along the grain of the fur.

(You can also use a green machine!)
