2. MLA GUIDELINES (Critical Paper Guidelines page 5-6)

Needs Review
	Internal headings and subheadings are consistently formatted and follow MLA guidelines.
	Titles are formatted correctly depending on genre in either italics or quotation marks according to MLA specifications.
	Parenthetical citations appear before the period at the end of short quotations/paraphrase" ().
	Parenthetical citations appear after the period at the end of long quotations/paraphrase. ()
	Signal phrases are used correctly to introduce a quote/paraphrase, e.g. According to Harjo:
	Punctuation is used correctly after a signal phrase before a quote/paraphrase, e.g. Harjo said, "

	Punctuation is placed correctly inside quotation marks when there is no parenthetical citation," or."
	Punctuation is placed correctly outside the quotation marks and after the parenthesis when a sentence ends with a parenthetical citation ().
	When a quote within a quote appears, the single quotation mark ('') is used correctly inside the double quotation mark (" ")
	Citations include all the required information, such as author and page number, as applicable to the source and per MLA guidelines, e.g. (Harjo 10).

6. WORKS CITED (Critical Paper Guidelines page 8)

Needs Review
	Works cited should be referenced according to MLA style. Refer to the most current MLA Handbook for formatting guidelines and examples to determine the appropriate format based on the type of work being referenced (e.g. book, anthology, short story in a journal).
	Entries must be listed in alphabetical order of first element (e.g. author surname, title of work, etc.) as per MLA style.
	For multiple works by the same author, order them according to alphabetization of title, according to MLA handbook. Give the author's name in the first entry only. Thereafter, in place of the name, type three hyphens (---) or three em dashes (———). They stand for exactly the same name as in the preceding entry.
	Citations must use a .5" hanging indent from the left margin for second and subsequent lines.
	Unlike MLA: Works Cited are single-spaced within bibliographic entries; and Unlike MLA: Works Cited should include one single line space between each of the citations to create white space denoting separation.
