Where's The Food Report: Nikhil Patel

- Met with Sidney Klein
    - I went over the Wake County Food Security Plan, looked at how to format and plan the story map.
        - Wake County Food Security Plan
        - https://static1.squarespace.com/static/5ab3da3875f9eeb8d16a6667/t/5ad53711f950b7baba1b4306/1523922707689/Wake+quick+reference+guide+8.5x11-02.jpg

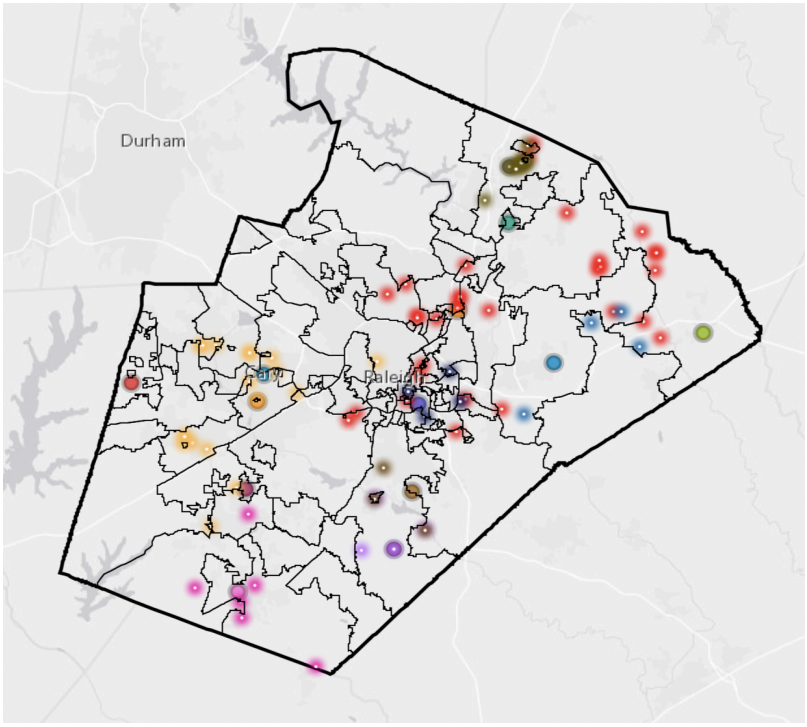

- Story Map (November 17)
    - Will evaluate how to get to SNAP retailers, primarily grocery stores, maybe convenience.
    - We would have a pre nutrition survey
    - The intro into the story map would be a snapshot view of Wake, evaluating demographic data.
        - Looking into barriers families and communities in Wake might face when trying to get/access food
        - Pictures of SNAP retailers looking at the type of foods they offer may prepare a My Plate to see that you cannot get a proper meal (They can create their My Plate to evaluate if they can provide the correct nutrients properly).
    - A transportation section, can people get to these SNAP retailers?
    - How did we get here?
        - The decision-making process to get to the point where we are at
        - Where would we make recommendations
    - Community awareness
        - Hubs around the community and are they doing community-level delivery
        - Map out; these are the communities- where is the overlap, do they have access

- I have a spreadsheet with all of the SNAP retailers in Wake County
    - I am organizing them into different categories whether it is grocery, convenience, variety, banking/tax, etc.
        - This data was added to a story map and filtered down to just grocery stores
- Developed a survey to ask people at different Wake County hubs about their access to grocery stores.
    - SNAP Survey

12-month plan

https://wake4-hgis.maps.arcgis.com/apps/webappviewer/index.html?id=837e08486cb840569750575acca2a513

- November- GIS Day
    - Present a simple story map projecting what our plan is
    - Shows where the current food hubs are, where the neighborhoods are, where the surveys will be conducted, the Wake County Food Plan

Neighborhoods that the surveys will be administered

- December 17
    - Presentation to Sidney Klein, the Wake County Food Security Officer
- January
    - Completion, and analysis of survey's
- February/March
    - Story map creation
        - History since the start of COVID, history of Food hubs, info of collaboration of WCPSS, CES, Alliance Health, and other community partners
        - The methodology we used for neighborhood selection
        - Ground-truthing/survey results
- April
    - Final edits and revisions
    - Review with stakeholders (county food security manager, the food security team)
- May
    - Presentation to Youth Food Security Council

- June
    - Presentation to county commissioners
- July
    - Presentation to ESRI Conference
- August
    - Presentation to local civic club (Rotary)
- September
    - Incorporate feedback to plan