

The amazing flapping Race

By Hllary

In the morning it was another ordinary and normal day at school but when i got to class i did not know what was going on inside Rm 10 Because when i got to class there was coloured paper on the ground and also the whiteboard was blocking our way to go inside rm 10 it said Rm 10 was closed because there was an special event that was going to happen in Rm 10.

When the 2nd bell rang we all had to grab our books and start reading. After we finished reading our books room ten's reading group had to go and sit on the big mat and rm nine's reading group had to go outside and line up to go somewhere. When all of the kids in room 10 reading group was all sitting on the big mat Mr Goodwin told us what was the event and then he said reading olympics and we had to sit in our reading groups next to little flags that had our reading groups logos on it in room 10. There were 5 different coloured papers sicked on the ground next to the tv the tv had a little blue camera on it that was connected to a game and the 5 different coloured papers stucked on to the ground.

When we started the game We had to chose a person in our group to stand on one of the coloured papers and the first person that we chose was Losehina. the paper that we had to stand on was the colour pink and we had stand still on the paper and flap our arms like a chicken but very fast because the person that flaps the hardest and fastest wins and goes to the finals and see if they could win again for their team and to get a lollie.

There are five reading groups in rm 10 reading class and the five reading groups are the HTMLs, Pythons, the Ruby's, Javascripts and the Xcode's the that i'm in is the javascripts and we did good because Naomi D got into the finals and she is in the javascripts so that means that the javascripts might get the chance to win.

Finally the finals was going to begin when it was naomi d turn to go up and do the finals she was flapping her arms hard as and very fast i was cheering loud as. Me and my friends in the javascripts were so happy we were jumping up and down because we won.

I was shocked after the game because Mr Goodwin told us that it was a trick he told us that we got tricked by him because the little blue camera on the tv was broken and the game wasn't connected to the camera or the coloured papers stucked on to the floor and we were flapping for no reason.
