

Reader Response Organizer

Target text: The Adventures of Sonic the Hedgehog (video game by Sega)

My response (Reader #1):

Reader #2 response:

"The Adventures of Sonic the Hedgehog ... is a good show for kids because at the end of the show they always have a segment called Sonic Says ... that sends good messages to children and I think it's hilarious." (by "Kid")

Reader #3 response:

"If you wish to see your children fighting or running around trying to be fast at the same time, then go for it. Stuff like this sinks straight into their brains. The only lesson I learned ... here so far is protect your friends and destroy your enemies!" (by "Momma Bree")

Reader #4 response:

"I L-O-V-E Sonic the Hedgehog, but what I really like about this show is the "Sonic Says" segment at the end, where he teaches lessons about sharing, peer pressure, water safety, etc. There's some cartoon violence, but everyone turns out OK." (by "Anonymous")

- Where and about what exactly do these responses agree and/or disagree?
- What clues do you see that could help explain why these responses agree and/or disagree?