

CLINICAL, SOCIAL, AND ADMINISTRATIVE PHARMACY CONSULTANCY

Program Brief:

The Clinical, Social, and Administrative Pharmacy Consultancy is designed to provide specialized expert guidance in designing, conducting, and analyzing research studies pertaining to various fields of pharmacy practice: clinical pharmacy, social and administrative pharmacy, and pharmacogenomics. This program allows healthcare professionals and organizations to improve pharmacy services and patient care through rigorous, evidence-based studies.

Consultancy Areas: The Clinical, Social, and Administrative Pharmacy Consultancy covers the following areas:

1. Pharmacy Practice Research Consultancy

This consultancy provides extensive guidance on research related to pharmacy services, healthcare delivery, and patient-centered care. It caters to healthcare providers and organizations aiming to address complex, practice-based questions through robust research design, implementation, and analysis. The consultancy draws on the expertise of seasoned pharmacy researchers to address complex practice-based questions.

2. Pharmacogenomics Research Consultancy

This consultancy offers guidance and expertise in the field of pharmacogenomics research to assist various stakeholders in designing, conducting, and interpreting pharmacogenomic studies. This ensures that pharmacogenomics research is conducted effectively, and its findings are appropriately applied to clinical practice.

Program Expected Outcomes:

Specifically, the program aims to:

1. To provide expert research consultation in pharmacogenomics, clinical pharmacy, and social/administrative pharmacy
2. To support healthcare professionals and organizations in applying research findings to clinical practice and policy

Program Organizers:

Faculty members from the Department of Clinical, Social, and Administrative Pharmacy, through the department chair.
