Introduction

The following information brings together in one reference most of the guidelines, procedures, business practices, and explanations that pertain to the “business” of LD&T Commission activities. It has been developed in a format that helps facilitate the constant updating that will be necessary as the Commissions continue to work and grow. As you become increasingly familiar with the “ins and outs” of the many facets of Commission business, you will undoubtedly contribute to the refinement of this manual and help others in this valuable and important work.

This manual will be reviewed every 3 years for policy and procedural revision content and on an annual, or as needed basis, for Commission leadership updates.

Everyone who participates in Commission Leadership is a Volunteer, including the commissioners themselves. As a body we recognise, appreciate, and value the time and efforts of every volunteer in the commission. Everything that happens throughout the year, at conference, and through our ongoing work on recommended practices and documentation only happens because of volunteers like you. We honor the volunteers who came before us and try our best to pave the road for those who will volunteer after us.

Mission, Values, & Vision

- USITT's most up-to-date mission, core values, and vision can be found online at: <https://www.usitt.org/about>
- The Mission of the USITT Lighting Design and Technology Commission is to serve the lighting profession by providing a forum for dialogue and information relating to excellence in lighting design, technology, and production, associated research and development, and lighting education.

Leadership Structure

Commissioners

Commissioners

The Commissioners are the principal leadership and guidance humans for the Commission. These individuals are charged with determining and facilitating the short and long-term vision and goals for the commission. They are appointed by the board of directors for a 1-year term with a maximum set at 6 terms. (The specific duties of the Commissioners are numerous and may vary, but some of them are enumerated below). Specific duties may be divided as needed between Commissioners. The three co-commissioners are co-equal in responsibility and authority, and serve staggered terms to ensure a smooth leadership transition. With one commissioner's term ending every year to allow for onboarding of new leadership. Each year, one commissioner will serve as the "Programming Commissioner" For the national office to maintain a single point of contact for eShow contents, scheduling, session chair information, and materials conversations.

Duties and Responsibilities:

1. Provide leadership and oversee the day-to-day workings of the commission while working to fulfil the commission current goals.
2. Seek new projects and maintain forward momentum on existing projects.
3. Develop and maintain interest in Commission activities with our constituents (a balance between professionals, manufacturers/distributors, educators, and students).
 - a. Solicit engagement within the Commission to support the projects, programs, and initiatives of all areas of USITT.
 - b. Communicate regularly with the other Commissions and membership through appropriate USITT print and electronic channels as well as through outlets like email, Basecamp, LINK, social media groups, or Listservs
