stoomer 8:54 PM
Wait I'll get back to you in a second

stoomer 9:04 PM

nick CIVMC 9:05 PM

If your intent is to spark an international crisis, then by all means continue on this reckless path. But understand this — your actions are not being taken as a joke by anyone. With tensions already high and nations on alert, your provocations only push Aspacia closer to isolation and possible ruin. Leaders are held to higher standards; trolling and threats are not diplomacy, they're a fast track to losing allies, legitimacy, and stability.

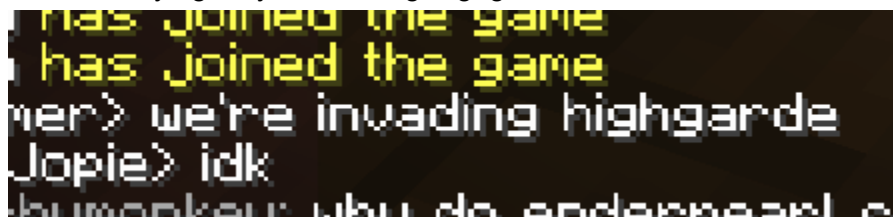

stoomer 9:25 PM
All I'm saying is I would watch over my shoulders at all times

nick CIVMC 9:36 PM
see this is the behavior im talking about, if u want to act like cordoba it won't be good for the region as a whole. other nations are aware of what is happening
