ABOUT ME

Born in a Yorkshire mining town, Patricia Sutcliffe is a retired university lecturer and experienced human behaviourist with a passion for writing. A published author and ghost-writer, her first writing success came at ten years of age when she won a national competition. Since then, she has continued to write and has become an accomplished writer of fiction and non-fiction books. Writing mainly in the genre of crime and social injustice, Patricia studied forensic criminology and is a behavioural coach.

Patricia's achievements have been many, from an international lecturer to a town mayor and chess coach. Experiences that she draws upon to add realism to her books. As a memoirist, she is skilled at bringing out the voices of those she represents as a ghostwriter.

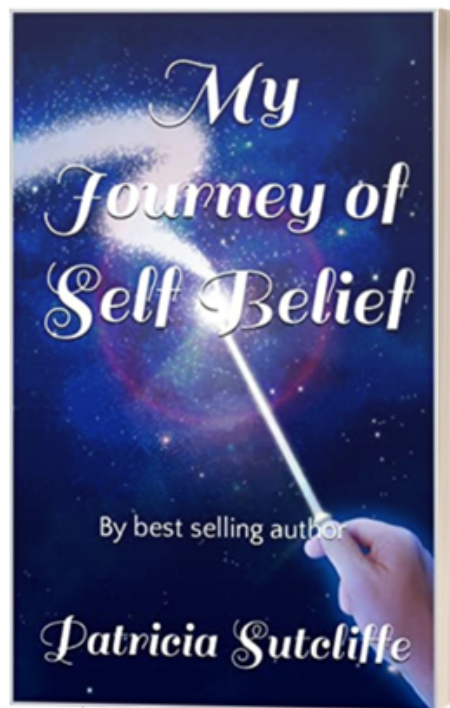

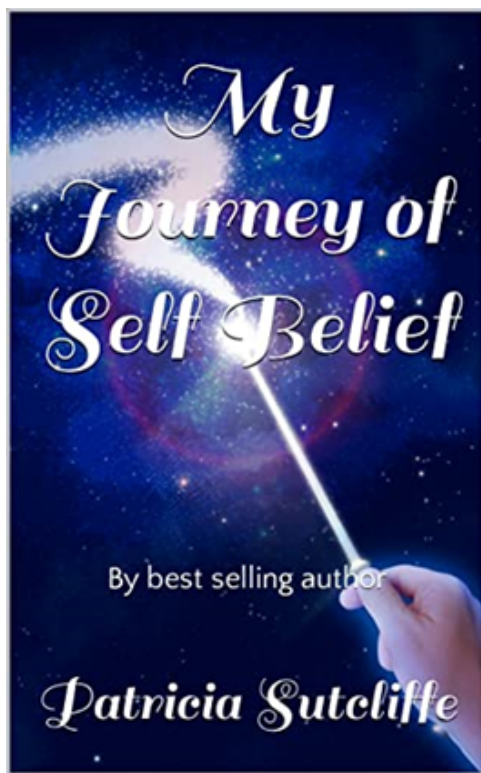

You just need self-belief

BOOKS

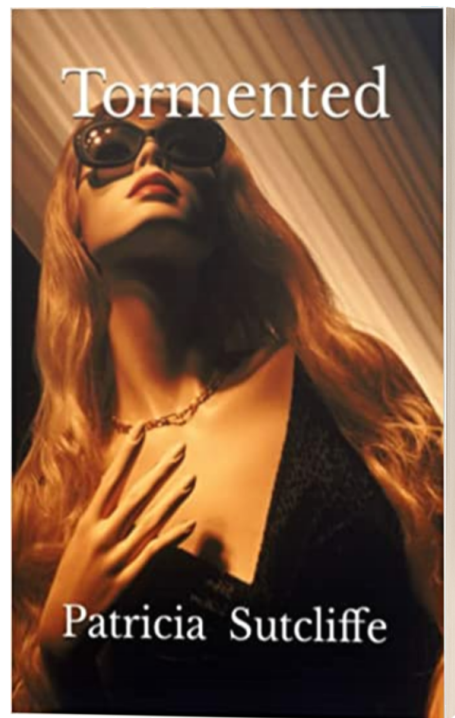

My Journey of Self-Belief

My Journey of Self-Belief is the true story of the author's determination, against all odds, to succeed in a world alien to her. A working-class background and dismal education system had marked her as a failure by the age of fifteen. Despite this and despite being physically and emotionally bullied by family members, she fought to prove them wrong. Her story is one of hardship, sacrifice and deep self-belief. Rising from factory worker to boardroom executive and director, she never gave up on her dreams. Now, at 73 years of age, she looks back on her journey and shares with the readers the lessons she learned in this truly inspiring story.

Tormented

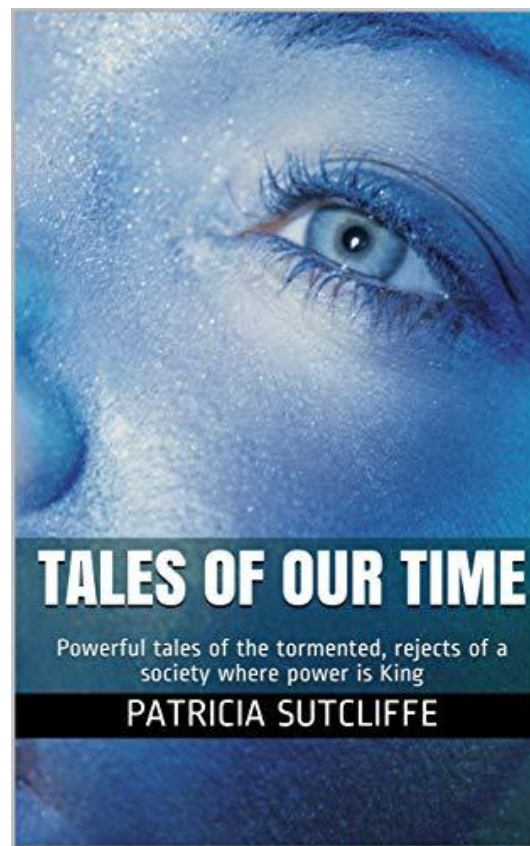

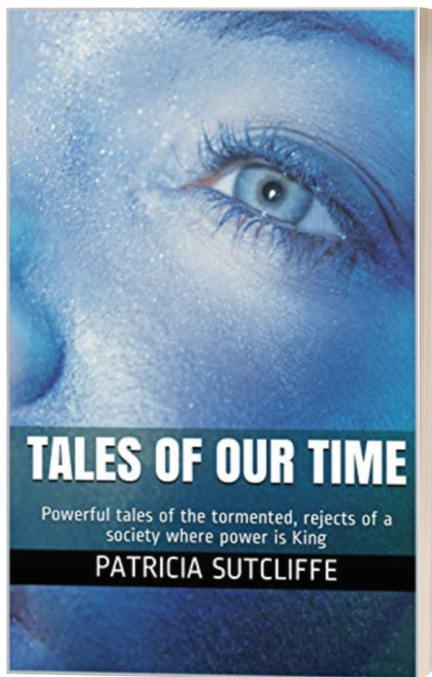

On a dark wintry night, a lone woman makes her way home unaware she is being lusted after by a group of drunken men. A savage attack and gang rape follow, leaving her for dead in an alleyway. Haunted by nightmares of the assault and unable to move on, Carrie Boyle commits suicide by hanging herself. Convinced that her mother is talking to her from the grave, her only child, an unbalanced Angel, seeks revenge. The murders that rock the sleepy industrial town of Castleton and make no sense to the experienced Detective Inspector Bobby Brooks. A friend and associate of Angel's well-known reporter, father Bobby Brooks. What does the number 32 carved into the flesh of Angel's victims mean?

Tales of our Time

Tale of our Time tells the harrowing stories of those individuals that society has left behind. Abandoned, abused and discarded.

People like Sal, who lost not only her child but also her fight against heroin addiction. Thrust into prostitution, abused at the hands of her boyfriend and dealer alike. Irish Netty, pregnant at 14, sent to a harsh convent home, her child removed at birth without permission. Ben, homeless through circumstances beyond his control, found beaten and left for dead or the Grandparents hounded by their drug addicted grandson until their death.

MEMOIRS

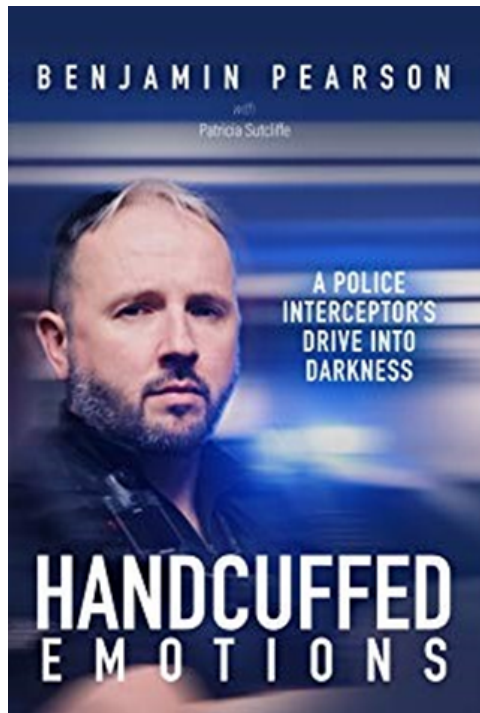

Out of the Storm (Co-Authored with Colin Dixon)

Out of the Storm recounts a veteran police officer's 30 years in the force. His story is raw, the incidents real, the danger overwhelming. This is a tale of dedication and loyalty in the face of adversity. From his early days as a young and naïve rookie cop pounding the streets, then moving into the dark world of addiction as an experienced member of the Drugs Enforcement Team. His journey on the front line is told with the same passion he gave to his job. His stories, full of courage, show the strength needed to become the highly commended officer he was. Colin's journey guides the reader through the streets of West Yorkshire and the constant fight against crime. From drug dens to high-speed road pursuits. From internal politics and betrayal to the dark days of pain and destruction. Colin suffered for his work and it left him a broken man, having PTSD. This book holds back nothing and is an inspiration to anyone facing the same.

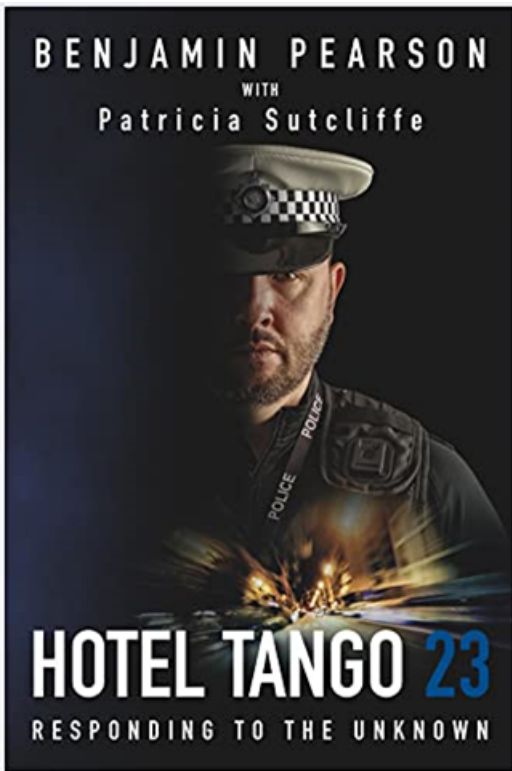

Handcuffed Emotions

Handcuffed Emotions tells the story of Ben Pearson, featured in Channel 5's 'Police Interceptors'. It relays his stories of dangerous pursuits, arresting rapists, murderers and violent offenders. Unbeknown to Ben, his greatest fight was still to come. After dealing with a series of heinous fatal collisions and losing his parents, Ben's mind became his worst enemy. This is his story of his fight against a system that failed him. Ben left the force in 2020.

Hotel Tango 23

This was the follow-up book to Handcuffed Emotions, I authored for Ben Pearson. As part of the elite Roads Policing Unit, he has driven in the fastest and most dangerous pursuits, been involved in high-profile burglaries and earned commendations for his work. This book relives Ben's time in the force. Through Ben's eyes, the reader shares his trials, achievements, and disappointments. We see the world of policing in its reality as Ben now struggles to come to terms with his C-PTSD.

Ghost-Writer and Memoirist Q & A page

As an experienced Ghost-Writer and Memoirist, I am often asked questions about what it takes to write a memoir or biography. Here are some of the common questions answered.

Q What if I cannot remember the details?

A As a skilled Ghost-Writer, I will work with you through a series of taped interviews and zoom meetings to help you recover your memories.

Q How long does it take to write a memoir?

A Roughly four months from start to finish up to 50000 words.

Q How do I get it published?

A I will explain this to you and help you self-publish your book.

Q How much does it cost?

A There is no set fee. It depends on the type of agreement you want and the number of words.

Q Who will format and edit the book?

A I will format and do the initial editing. You will be responsible for the final edit.

TESTIMONIALS:

"My observations on our time together is that Pat was extremely patient, professional and made the book writing experience an extremely positive one for myself.

I'm extremely honoured to have been able to complete the book with such a professional as Pat and would not hesitate to recommend her services to others."

- Colin Dixon

Pat is an absolute star. Working with me wasn't easy for her but her patience and understanding made the process easy. Not only did she write, format, edit and publish my book, it became a bestseller. I cannot thank her enough. I would recommend Pat to anyone.
