

After reading this story (Claire's Other Leg), I figure out that nothing is impossible if you just keep trying, and never give up. In the end, your dream will be realized. I definitely would recommend this story to all the people I know because this is a true story and offers an insight into our everyday lives. Clair is a disabled person, and she always has to wear a prosthetic leg. What a terrible life! However, I'm thoroughly impressed with her because she is a very optimistic person and never complains. What's more, she is very active and sometimes races and beats swimmers with two legs in swimming contests. Claire has inspired me to live optimistically and teach me to look on the bright side. Therefore, when I face a challenge next time, I will be brave and find a way out, just like her. In addition, I think the author tries to tell us that we are very lucky people with perfect body conditions, so we 've really got nothing to complain of. Finally, I believe Claire will reach her goal and become a lawyer in the future because she is a very determine person with strong willpower.
