

Pancho's Initial Veterinary Costs

Office visit: $50
Fecal exam and blood panel: $225
Heart worm test: $50
Rabies Vaccine: $65
DAPP Vaccine: $23
Canine Leptospirosis Vaccine: $23
Bordetella Vaccine: $20
Heartworm Preventative $116
Neuter $200
Antibiotics $21

Leg Treatment - The abscess that is likely causing Pancho's limp is most likely a sebaceous cyst or a lipoma. It will need to be evaluated and removed.

Lipoma diagnosis: $100
Sebaceous Cyst removal: $200-$300
Lipoma removal: $300-$500

If the cyst removal does not fix his leg injury, he'll require a radiograph. This will be $320, and may require further treatment if a bone injury is detected.

If every test and treatment ends up being as least expensive as possible, Pancho's initial veterinary costs will be $1093. From there it may steeply increase.