This year I know more than ever before about Pesach and I am more tired than ever — rabbinical school, baby! I am so delighted to fall back on the traditions we've built together the past four years at our sacred hybrid table. As a heads up, we won't be stopping to eat the dinner meal together, as I want to keep the timing tight and make sure we get to share all the blessings together, so make sure you're set up to be nourished when you need it.

List of things to prepare if you can on the next page!

Zoom Seder Preparation

I believe in the power of DIY Judaism and have suggested substitutes—including drawing or printing pics of the ritual items. Also, it is ABSOLUTELY fine to tune in with only you and your device. All are welcome at this virtual table, however/wherever you are!

Seder Participation Items:

- ❏ Wine/grape juice (or any juice) and a cup to drink from
- ❏ Seder plate to display these items (the bold ones will be eaten, the others are symbolic and can be replaced with images!)
  - ❏ Maror: Horseradish
    - ❏ Substitute: any bitter green like arugula, kale, or endives; or anything spicy like mustard, wasabi, ginger, Sriracha, hot sauce.
  - ❏ Karpas: Parsley
    - ❏ Substitute: any leafy green, boiled potato, celery, radish
  - ❏ Beitzah: Roasted/Boiled Egg
    - ❏ Substitute: any symbol of fertility like seeds or flowers
  - ❏ Z'roa: Shankbone
    - ❏ Substitute: roasted beet, yam (paschal 'lamb'!!), or chicken neck.
  - ❏ Charoset: homemade fruit/nut mixture
    - ❏ Can be made with basically any fruit/nut mixture, with wine/juice + spices. I'll be using an ashkenazi trio of apples, raisins, and cinnamon in our no-nut house. Google "Charoset recipes" to get ideas!
  - ❏ Orange (opened, in slices)
- ❏ Matzah (3 pieces, covered, on a plate)
  - ❏ Substitute: any unleavened crackers or get crafty with decorated cardboard! You can also make your own matzah with just flour, water, and salt.
- ❏ 2 candles and matches/a lighter
- ❏ Havdalah materials: candle (braided or not), wine (or juice, beer, water), spices (anything with a smell)
- ❏ A jug of water to pour over your hands, a bowl to pour into, a hand towel
- ❏ Small bowl of heavily salted ~~water~~ tears
- ❏ Cup of wine for Elijah, cup of water for Miriam (ideally a special cup of some kind)
  - ❏ I will have these for us for the ritual moment, but you can join in!
- ❏ Plate to catch your saltwater/wine drops.

PSA: I highly recommend watching The Prince of Egypt animated film as prep homework if you can find it!
