Dear [Mention the name of the recipient]

I was happy to find your position for an [Mention the Specialist] since I feel that my expertise in [Mention the engineering specialist] from college and my devotion to Apple goods will benefit your business. I am sure that my familiarity with your products and careful attention to detail would enable me to be a valuable member of your team.

I supported [Mention the number of staff members] at the [Mention the University] while I was a student at [Mention the College] by providing them with basic troubleshooting techniques for both Apple and PC-based equipment. I firmly feel that the knowledge and abilities I've gained from our time at [Mention the University or college] will enable me to carry out my duties in a very efficient manner. I am convinced that I will succeed at Apple because I have accomplished the following:

Create an inventory hardware list for each site, including all the details required for auditing and traceability.

- without losing any data, move over [Mention number of email servers] between different domains.
- providing [Mention the number] PC and Mac users with [Mention the Level] desktop support (students and staff)

- Viruses should be removed from desktops and laptops while end users are taught how to be secure online.

A major step forward in my career would be securing the tech support position at a recognized corporation like [company]. I'd be happy to talk about my credentials and demonstrate how your Apple site could benefit from the same outcomes I achieved at the university.

Sincerely,
