ABSTRACT (10 PT)

(Times New Roman 10) A well-prepared abstract enables the reader to identify the basic content of a document quickly and accurately, to determine its relevance to their interests, and thus to decide whether to read the document in its entirety. The Abstract should be informative and completely self-explanatory, providing a clear statement of the problems/points/topic of discussion, the theory, approach/research method, and point out the (expected) major findings/result results. The Abstract should be 150 to 250 words in length. Standard nomenclature should be used and abbreviations should be avoided. No literature should be cited. The keyword list provides the opportunity to add keywords, used by the indexing and abstracting services, in addition to those already present in the title. Judicious use of keywords may increase the ease with which interested parties can locate our article. The tenses to be used are the present forms.

1. Introduction (Times New Roman 12 bold)

(Times New Roman 12) The concerns in the article are important to the field of language, literature or language teaching. The main text format consists of a flat left-right columns on A4 paper (quarto). The margin text from the left, right, top, and bottom 3 cm. The manuscript is written in Microsoft Word, single space, Times New Roman 12pt, minimum 6 pages and maximum 12 pages.

The title of the article should be clear and appropriate for the content of the manuscript. It should be the fewest possible words that accurately describe the content of the paper (max 12 words). Omit all waste words such as "A Study of ...", "Investigations of ...", "Implementation of ...", "Observations on ...", "Effect of....", "An Analysis of ...", "Design of..." etc. Indexing and abstracting services depend on the accuracy of the title, extracting from the keywords useful in cross-referencing and computer searching. An improperly titled paper may never reach the audience for which it was intended, so please be specific. Organization and citation of the bibliography are made in Vancouver style in sign and so on. The terms in foreign languages are written italics. Authors are suggested to present their articles in the section structure: Introduction - Literature Review - Research Method - Discussion - Conclusion, all of which are presented in the present forms and free from any spelling or grammatical mistake. Quotations are adjusted to corresponding time and tenses.

Introduction should provide meaningful purpose(s) to the manuscript. It should provide a clear background, a clear statement of the problem, and the new value of research which it is innovation. It should be understandable to colleagues from a broad range of scientific disciplines.

2. Literature Review (Times New Roman 12 bold)

(Times New Roman 12) Literature review is a research activity of reading, seeking and reviewing research reports and library materials containing theories relevant to the research that will or is being carried out. The literature review provides an overview of the methods and techniques to be applied to relevant studies, introducing ideas, concepts and theories that are not yet known, providing space to explore the theoretical frameworks relating to the problems being studied and strengthening the existence of the research carried out free from duplication.

3. Research Method (Times New Roman 12 bold)

(Times New Roman 12) Research Method provides the proposed approach or solution, and describes the steps of the research, and the method used to support the analysis. The techniques used are appropriate for the collection and analysis of the data. The research method should be set systematically, explaining research chronological, including research design, research procedure (in the form of algorithms, Pseudocode or other), how to test and data acquisition. The description of the course of research should be supported by references so that the explanation can be accepted scientifically.

4. Discussion (Times New Roman 12 bold)

(Times New Roman 12) The research results and the comprehensive discussion are deeply and clearly presented. Results can be presented in figures, graphs, tables and others that make the reader understand easily. The discussion must be clearly and deeply conducted. The discussion can be made in several sub-chapters.

4.1 Sub Topic 1

5. Conclusion (Times New Roman 12 bold)

(Times New Roman 12) This section must be based on the findings. In this section, the prospect of the development of research results and application prospects of further studies (based on result and discussion) can be added.

References (Times New Roman 12 bold)

1. Use APA 7th edition for both in-text citations and the reference list.
2. Apply the author–date format for in-text citations (e.g., Purwarno, 2026); include page numbers for direct quotations (e.g., Purwarno, 2026, p. 17).
3. When citing multiple sources, present them in alphabetical order (e.g., Alpha, 2025; Beta, 2025; Charlie, 2026).
4. For works with up to four authors, list all authors; for five or more authors, use the first author’s name followed by et al.
5. The reference list must include a minimum of 25 sources, primarily drawn from reputable international journals or accredited national journals.

6. At least 75% of the references must come from journal articles published within the last five years.
7. Older sources may be included only if they are seminal or foundational to the study.
8. Format all references according to APA 7th edition guidelines, using a 0.5-inch hanging indent for each entry.
9. Arrange the reference list alphabetically; for multiple works by the same author(s), list them chronologically.
10. Do not number entries in the reference list.
11. Ensure that all in-text citations are included in the reference list and that all listed references are cited in the text.
12. Verify the accuracy of each reference against the original source (author names, year, volume, issue, page range, and DOI).
13. Avoid excessive self-citation and over-reliance on sources from a single region.
14. The use of footnotes is not permitted.
15. Authors are encouraged to use reference management tools (e.g., EndNote, Mendeley, or Zotero) to ensure consistency and accuracy.
