Introduction

Introduction mainly contains 1) the research problem, 2) the insight and problem-solving plan, 3) the research aim(s), and 4) the resume of the theoretical study. Sometimes, in this part, author/s stated the result that is intended to be reached by the researcher through the study. A preface is 1-3 pages long.

The heading of a section should be in Times New Roman 12-point bold (Section Heading Style). Sections should be numbered and in sentence structure. Generally, everything but the title is Times New Roman 12-point font. A reasonable manuscript structure would be: Introduction, Review of Literature, Research Objectives/Questions, Methodology, Results, Implications, and Conclusion, but this may vary based on your research.

Method

This part explains how the research is done. The main content of this part are 1) research design, 2) population and sample, 3) the technics of collecting data and instruments developing, and 4) the technics of data analyzing. Any tools and materials used in the research should be mentioned specifically.

1. Page size and columns

On each page, your material should fit within the margins of this template in a single column. Right margins should be justified. Headings of sub-sections should be in Times New Roman 12-point bold in sentence structure (Sub-Section Heading Style).

2. Text

Content paragraphs like this one are formatted using the Normal style (Times New Roman, 12 points). One spaced

In-text citations

In-text citations should be in APA (7th edition) style, and all citations must appear in the references at the end of the document. All references in the reference listing must be cited in the manuscript. References should be published materials accessible to the public and mostly peer-reviewed.

3. Section headings are in sentence format

The heading of a section should be in Times New Roman 12-point bold (Section Heading Style). Sections should be numbered and in sentence structure.

4. Sub-sub-subsections

Headings of sub-sections should be in Times New Roman 12-point bold in sentence structure (Sub-Section Heading Style). No more than three tiers of sections.

5. Table and Figure Style

Use Tabletext style (as in Table 1) for all tables. Table captions should be placed below the table. Figure captions should be placed below the figure. Captions should be Times New Roman 10-point bold in sentence structure

Tabel 1. Data Responden Berdasarkan Perbedaan Generasi

Perbedaan Generasi	Jumlah	Persentase
Generasi X	38	33%
Generasi Y	23	20%
Generasi Z	55	47%

Number all tables or figures with the appropriate label followed by a period, one space, and the caption. Whenever possible, place figures and tables at the end of the paragraph in which the figure or table is referenced. Captions should be Times New Roman 10-point bold (Caption style). They should be numbered (e.g., "Table 1" or "Fig. 2"), centered, and placed beneath the figure or table. The words "Figure" and "Table" should be spelled out (e.g., "Figure" rather than "Fig.") wherever they occur in the text. Use high-resolution images, 300+ dpi, legible if printed in color or black-and-white. Number all figures manually followed by a period, one space (e.g., Fig 1.), and the caption.

Results and Discussion

The results that appeared in this part should be the main result. The data analysis process such as statistical calculation, the hypothetical testing process is no need to be presented. Tables and charts can be used to explain the result presented verbally and should be commented on or discussed.

Conclusions

This part contains a summary and suggestions. The summary presents the resume of the results and discussion of the article and is based on the research aim. The suggestion can be based on practical action, new theory development, and/or further research.
