

THE MOCK PI & GD INTENSIVE

Built for MBA Summer Internships & Final Placements

Your CV gets you the interview. Everything after that is a skill.

And a skill can be trained. This programme trains it, end to end, before the stakes are real.

WHAT YOU GET

1 4 × One-on-One Mock Personal Interviews

- Every mock covers BOTH the domain round and the HR round, exactly as the real process runs
- Live, personalised, and recorded feedback after each round
- Progressive difficulty, i.e. your fourth interview is harder than your first, by design

2 4 × Mock Group Discussions

- Run across domains and the topics that actually come up, i.e. abstract, case-based, and current affairs
- Assessed on entry, structure, contribution quality, and the summary, not just airtime
- Learn to lead a GD without dominating it, which is what separates a selection from a rejection

3 2 × Personalised 1:1 CV Sessions ★ THE HIGHEST-LEVERAGE HOUR OF YOUR PREP

Session 1 — Review & Rebuild: We tear it down honestly. Every bullet interrogated, every claim quantified, every gap addressed.

Session 2 — Finalise & Lock: We finalise and lock it down, so you walk into every interview knowing exactly what you'll be asked and how you'll answer.

Your CV is the single document that drives 80% of your interview questions. Most students never get an expert to sit with it line by line. You will. Twice.

4 Multiple Live Sessions — Tactics, Cases & Core Concepts

- PI tactics: how to structure answers, handle stress questions, and control the narrative
- GD tactics: how to enter, how to build, how to summarise, how to recover a losing GD
- Case solutioning across domains, i.e. how to structure and crack the case whatever the sector
- Guesstimates for core consulting interviews, i.e. the frameworks, the assumptions, the sanity-check
- Core concepts across every domain, i.e. the fundamentals interviewers actually test

SEVEN DOMAINS. COVERED PROPERLY.

Interviews are domain-specific, so the preparation has to be too. Both the mocks and the concept sessions span:

Marketing	Finance	Consulting / Strategy
Business Analytics	Product Management	Operations
Human Resources	Specialise in one. Stay credible in the rest.

INDUSTRY STALWARTS ARE THE BACKBONE

This is the part that cannot be replicated by a peer group or a YouTube playlist.

Every mock interview, every CV session, and every live tactics session is led by senior industry professionals, i.e. the people who have spent years on the other side of the table, in the roles you are targeting, at the companies you are applying to.

Which means you get:

- Feedback from someone who has actually rejected candidates for the exact reasons you're about to be rejected for
- Domain questions that mirror what is really asked, not what the internet thinks is asked
- An honest read on your CV from someone who has screened hundreds of them
- Judgment you simply cannot get from practising with friends, because your friends do not know what good looks like

WHY THIS MATTERS ACROSS YOUR ENTIRE MBA

Summer Internship (SIP)

Your first real test, and it arrives fast. SIP shortlists are CV-driven and SIP selections are PI and GD-driven. A strong SIP is what converts into a PPO, and a PPO is what removes the pressure from your final placement entirely.

The lifecycle point: The CV you lock down here carries you through SIP, PPO conversations, and finals. The PI structure you build works in every round for two years. The GD skill compounds. You are not preparing for one interview, you are building the capability that decides every placement outcome of your MBA.

Final Placements

Higher stakes, sharper interviewers, deeper domain questions. By then you should be refining, not learning the basics. The students who struggle are the ones doing their first serious mock in the week the process starts.
