MONDAY - FRIDAY	3-5

OVERVIEW

Sharing your civic power ❤️

We made it to week #5 of the 2022 summer! Yay!

During this week, Monday, July 11 through Friday, July 16, 2022, we want to remind you about your amazing civic power and for you to get creative and share it with your friends, peers, family, partner(s), mom, dad, co-workers, dog, cats, pets, and everyone!

In this toolkit, you will find different activities for each day of the week to share your thoughts, knowledge, and creativity about your civic power with your networks. These activities are meant to make you feel connected and grounded with the work you are doing and influence others to understand their power!

By asking your friends to get registered and reminding them that together our votes can influence not only who wins the elections but the policies and issues that are addressed in the coming years, together, we can make a real difference!

"You might not be a big fan of politics, but you can still participate. You need to vote for people you believe will work on these issues, and if they don't work the way they should, then it is your responsibility to call them, organize, and demand they show up - hold them accountable" - Emma Gonzales
