Tony, the eager senior

User Profile

Tony (full name Antonio) is a 17-year-old high school student living in a suburban area just outside Los Angeles. He is currently in his senior year of high school and is eagerly looking forward to graduating soon. Tony has big dreams for his future and is determined to break free from his current circumstances.

Tony's family situation is not ideal; his parents struggle to make ends meet, and they live in a modest apartment. Tony takes on part-time jobs after school to help contribute to the household income and save money for college. Despite his busy schedule, he is a dedicated student and works hard to maintain good grades. College is a top priority for him, as he sees it as his ticket to a better life.

In his free time, Tony enjoys playing the guitar, which he taught himself to play using online tutorials and borrowed instruments. He's passionate about music and dreams of forming a band one day. He also loves watching movies, especially classic films from the '80s and '90s. Movies provide an escape from his daily struggles and inspire him to pursue his creative interests.

While Tony has a few close friends at school, he often feels isolated because his family's financial situation prevents him from participating in extracurricular activities or going out with friends as often as he'd like. He yearns for a way to connect with people who share his love for music and movies, as he believes that finding like-minded friends could provide the support and encouragement he needs to achieve his goals.

Point of view statement

Tony is eager to connect with people who share his passion for music and movies, hoping to find new friends who can support him in pursuing his dreams of attending college and forming a band.
