

Liceth was born and raised in Colombia. She has been a teacher for fourteen years with experience mostly in elementary education and dual language classrooms. Liz lived in eastern North Carolina for five years and obtained a Masters in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages from Greensboro College. She is passionate about learning languages and supporting English language learners in culturally responsive classrooms. She believes all students can succeed when they feel safe, valued and loved. Liz enjoys watching basketball and soccer games (go Nuggets!!), cycling, journaling and spending time with her husband Felipe and friends. Liz is very excited and proud of being part of the DCIS community.