Homebrew Subclass

The following subclass is designed for the 2024 version of Dungeons and Dragons 5th Edition.

Ranger

The Remnant Sentinel is a Ranger subclass inspired by Rudo Surebrec from Gachiakuta.

Homebrew Material
This subclass is homebrew content, created with care and refined through multiple design passes. While it hasn't been through full-scale playtesting, it's built with balance, clarity, and fun in mind. You may still encounter the occasional edge case or moment of friction during play, so feel free to adjust anything to fit your table's needs. If you find issues or have feedback, please share it [here]. As with all unofficial content, this material isn't legal for D&D Adventurers League or other official events. Getting your GM's approval or working with your GM to use this document in your home games is highly recommended.

Remnant Sentinel

Wield the Remnants of Power Within Objects

Remnant Sentinels stand vigil over the ancient grudges and desires infused in the ruins of ancient lands or in heaps of refuse that have accumulated for centuries. Their attunement to these lingering wills allows them to draw out powerful intentions seared into objects and wield them as weapons.

Level 3: Awaken Implement

You awaken powerful intentions within items. As a Bonus Action, you transform one nonmagical object of your choice that you are holding into a powerful item called an Awakened Implement. When the object transforms, it becomes magical, and you can use it as a Spellcasting Focus. You also determine any changes in its appearance. The effects of your Awakened Implement vary according to the object, and can be found in the "Awakened Implements" section later in this subclass's description.

Once you use this feature, you can't use it again until you finish a Long Rest. You can also restore your use of it by expending a level 1+ spell slot (no action required).

An Awakened Implement has the following properties.

Awakening Charges. The power that transformed an Awakened Implement is represented by its Awakening Charges, which are equal to 4. This increases when you reach Ranger levels 5 (6 Awakening Charges), 9 (8 Awakening Charges), 13 (10 Awakening Charges), and 17 (12 Awakening Charges).

Duration. The transformation ends after 1 hour. Before this duration ends, you can touch the item and expend a level 1+ spell slot (no action required) to extend it by a number of hours equal to the level of spell slot expended. The transformation ends early if you dismiss it (no action required), if you die, when its Awakening Charges reach 0, or when you transform another object into an Awakened Implement. When the transformation ends, it crumbles into dust.

Bonded Will. You are proficient with any attack you make using an Awakened Implement (including using it as an improvised weapon), and you use your Wisdom modifier instead of your Strength or Dexterity modifier for the attack and damage rolls. Similarly, if you use your Awakened Implement to force a target to make a saving throw, the DC is equal to your spell save DC from this class's Spellcasting feature. Finally, if an Awakened Implement lets you cast a spell, Wisdom is your spellcasting ability for it.

Remnant Empowerment. When you wield your Awakened Implement as an improvised weapon, it deals 1d6 Force damage on a hit. This increases when you reach Ranger levels 11 (1d8) and 17 (1d10). If your Awakened Implement is a worn item, such as a piece of armor or clothing, your Unarmed Strikes deal the same damage on a hit.

Level 3: Keepsake

When you gain this feature, choose one nonmagical object on your person to become your Keepsake. The object must come from the list of Awakened Implements. After finishing a Long Rest, you can replace your Keepsake with a different one from the list of Awakened Implements after you gain a Ranger level or when your Keepsake is on a different plane of existence. When you do so, the previous Keepsake loses its magical properties and becomes a nonmagical object.

Your Keepsake has the following benefits.

Precious Resilience. Your Keepsake becomes magical and cannot be destroyed.

Awakened Keepsake. You can use Awaken Implement on your Keepsake. When your Keepsake's transformation ends, it reverts to its original form instead of crumbling into dust.

Never Too Far. Whenever you finish a Long Rest, your Keepsake magically appears on your person, provided the object is on the same plane of existence.

Level 3: Remnant Sentinel Spells

When you reach a Ranger level specified in the Remnant Sentinel Spells table, you thereafter always have the listed spells prepared.

Remnant Sentinel Spells

Ranger Level	Spells
3	Mending, Tenser's Floating Disk
5	Rope Trick
9	Major Image
13	Leomund's Secret Chest
17	Animate Objects

Level 7: Remnant Impulse

When you transform an object into your Awakened Implement, or as a Magic action while holding an Awakened Implement, you unleash the powerful impulses within the item. When you do so, choose whether the impulse is Aggressive or Protective. This manifests as an incorporeal entity that hovers around you in a 15-foot Emanation. You determine the appearance of this manifestation. This lasts for 1 minute, and it ends early when the Awakened Implement's transformation ends. During this time, you and your allies within the Emanation gain the following benefits according to the chosen impulse:

Aggressive. You and an ally that starts its turn within your Emanation can take the Dash action as a Bonus Action. In addition, when you or a creature you can see within the Emanation makes a Strength, Dexterity, or Constitution saving throw, you can take a Reaction to expend 2 Awakening Charges and add one roll of your Remnant Empowerment damage to the save.

Protective. You and an ally that starts its turn within your Emanation can take the Disengage action as a Bonus Action. In addition, when you or a creature you can see within the Emanation makes an Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma saving throw, you can take a Reaction to expend 2 Awakening Charges and add one roll of your Remnant Empowerment damage to the save.

You can create a Remnant Guardian once, and you can't do so again until the next time you transform an object into an Awakened Implement.

Level 11: Precious Pair

When you use Awaken Implement on your Keepsake, or as a Bonus Action while holding your Keepsake as an Awakened Implement, you can turn a second object you are holding into an Awakened Implement. You can't use Remnant Impulse on the second object. Both Awakened Implements share the Keepsake's pool of Awakening Charges. Similarly, the second Awakened Implement's transformation ends the moment the transformation of your Keepsake ends.

Level 15: Sentinel's Echo

Once per turn, when you take damage, you can choose to expend any number of Awakening Charges (no action required). When you do so, you reduce that damage by two times the number of charges expended. This increases to three times for each Awakening Charge if your Awakened Implement is your Keepsake or if your Precious Pair feature is active.

If your Remnant Impulse feature is active, and a creature you can see within your Emanation takes damage, you can take a Reaction to expend any number of Awakening Charges and reduce that damage by two times the number of charges expended. This increases to three times for each Awakening Charge if your Awakened Implement is your Keepsake or if your Precious Pair feature is active.

Awakened Implements

The following shows the special effects of specific objects when transformed into Awakened Implements.

Acid. You expend 1 Awakening Charge whenever you throw this object at a target. It reconstitutes in your hand the moment the target succeeds or fails on the saving throw. A creature that takes Acid damage from this item takes extra Acid damage equal to 1d6 plus your Wisdom modifier, or 2d6 plus your Wisdom modifier if the target is affected by your Hunter's Mark.

Alchemist's Fire. You expend 1 Awakening Charge whenever you throw this object at a target. It reconstitutes in your hand the moment the target succeeds or fails on the saving throw. A creature that takes Fire damage from this item takes extra Fire damage equal to 1d6 plus your Wisdom modifier, or 2d6 plus your Wisdom modifier if the target is affected by your Hunter's Mark.

Artisan's Tools. You have proficiency with the specific tool. As a Magic action, you conjure one item by expending Awakening Charges. The item you can conjure depends on the Awakened Implement's original tool. Any item conjured in this way immediately crumbles when you trade it for coins, goods, or services. Similarly, if an item has an asterisk (*), it crumbles to dust after 1 minute after the Awakened Implement's transformation ends.

In addition, some tools allow you to cast certain spells. If a tool lets you cast a level 1+ spell, you can cast it by expending Awakening Charges or by expending a spell slot as normal.

The Artisan's Tools have the following variations:

Ammunition. You transform a single piece of a certain type of ammunition into your Awakened Implement. When you make a ranged attack with a weapon using this ammunition, you can cause it to deal Force damage instead of its normal damage type, and it immediately teleports to the Ranged weapon you used with the attack the moment it hits or misses a target. Before this ammunition teleports to your weapon, you can take a Reaction to expend 2 Awakening Charges and cause it to curve toward another target within your weapon's normal range. You must make an attack roll for the second target.

Antitoxin. Whenever this item is used, the vial immediately refills, provided this Awakened Implement has at least 1 Awakening Charge remaining, which is then expended as part of using this item. In addition, when a creature drinks from the vial, it can expend 2 Awakening Charges to gain Resistance to Poison damage for 1 minute.

Arcane Focus. When you transform this item, you can cast one cantrip of your choice from the Wizard spell list. In addition, when you cast a Ranger spell while holding this Awakened Implement, you can take a Reaction to expend 2 Awakening Charges to add a +1 bonus to the spell attack roll or a +1 bonus to your spell save DC for that casting of the spell. This bonus increases when you reach Ranger levels 11 (+2) and 17 (+3).

Armor, Heavy. As part of transforming this armor, you can choose to don it immediately. While this armor is donned, you use your Wisdom score instead of your Strength score to meet the armor's Strength requirement. In addition, once per turn, when you fail a saving throw against the Grappled or Restrained condition, you can expend 2 Awakening Charges to succeed instead (no action required).

Armor, Light. As part of transforming this armor, you can choose to don it immediately. While this armor is donned, you add your Wisdom modifier instead of your Dexterity modifier to determine the AC granted by the armor. In addition, you can take a Bonus Action to expend 3 Awakening Charges and take the Dodge action.

Armor, Medium. As part of transforming this armor, you can choose to don it immediately. While this armor is donned, you add your Wisdom modifier instead of your Dexterity modifier to determine the AC granted by the armor. your next turn. The next time you take Bludgeoning, Piercing, or Slashing damage during this time, you reduce that damage by one roll of your Remnant Empowerment damage.

Armor, Shield. As part of transforming this Shield, you can choose to don it immediately. As a Bonus Action, you expend 3 Awakening Charges to enchant this Shield for 1 minute. This enchantment ends early when this item's transformation ends. When you do so, choose one of the following enchantments and gain its effects for the duration:

Enlarge. The Shield emits a protective energy that radiates around you. You and any ally within 5 feet of you gain the benefits of Three-Quarters Cover, while allies beyond this range up to 15 feet of you gain the benefits of Half-Cover.

Hover. The Shield hovers a few inches from you. When you attack using this Shield as an improvised weapon, you can choose to throw it and make a ranged attack with it. When you do so, the Shield immediately returns to you the moment it hits or misses a target.

Bedroll. While a willing creature is lying on this item, you can take a Magic action to touch this Awakened Implement and expend 4 Awakening Charges. When you do so, the creature receives the Unconscious condition for 15 minutes or 2 hours (your choice). If the creature remains Unconscious for the duration uninterrupted, it finishes a Short (15 minutes) or Long Rest (2 hours), following the other prerequisites for gaining the benefits of a Short or Long Rest. The condition ends early if the creature takes any damage or if another creature uses the Help action to wake it. During this time, the item remains transformed, unless you dismiss it or you die (ending the condition early). When the creature's Unconscious condition ends, the item's transformation ends immediately if its duration is over or it has 0 Awakening Charges.

Bell. As a Magic action, you can expend 3 Awakening Charges to emit an invisible sensor in a 30-foot Emanation centered around the Bell that lasts for 1 minute, or when the transformation ends. When you do so, determine the attributes of a creature that would cause the Bell to produce a sound. It can be as broad as any creature other than you and your allies, as narrowed down to a type of creature, as specific as a creature that you know or creatures belonging to a group, or as exact as wearing specific articles of clothing. The sensor can detect creatures with the Invisible condition. When the Emanation enters a designated target's space, when a designated target enters this Emanation, or when a designated target starts its turn there, the Bell produces a sound that is audible to you and your allies within 30 feet of you.

Belt, Armor or Clothes. You transform the belt of a suit of armor or clothing into an Awakened Implement. As a Magic action, you can expend 1 Awakening Charge while touching a suit of armor. When you do so, the armor disintegrates and is absorbed into the belt. As a Bonus Action, or when you roll Initiative, you can summon the conjure that armor, donning it immediately. While this armor is donned, you can dismiss it into the belt as a Bonus Action, doffing it immediately. The armor reappears intact at your feet when this item's transformation ends or when you absorb another suit of armor.

In addition, each item inside is weightless to you and other creatures you designate. To all other creatures, an item inside this Chest weighs 100 times its normal weight. When an item is removed from this Chest, it reverts to its original size and weight. When this item's transformation ends, all of its contents spill out. Whenever you place an item inside this Chest, you must expend 1 Awakening Charge in order to shrink it.

If the target is two sizes larger than you, it automatically succeeds on the save.

Headwear, Armor or Clothes. While wearing this Awakened Implement, you have Advantage on Constitution saving throws that you make to maintain Concentration. In addition, you can take a Reaction to expend Awakening Charges when you receive one of the following conditions: Blinded (2 Awakening Charges), Deafened (1 Awakening Charge), Charmed (4 Awakening Charges), or Frightened (4 Awakening Charges). When you do so, you can repeat the saving throw, adding one roll of your Remnant Empowerment to the save, immediately ending the condition on a success.

Adjustments to Awakened Implements

The following Awakened Implements have the following changes for the 2014 rules of Dungeons and Dragons 5th Edition.

Acid. You expend 1 Awakening Charge whenever you make a ranged attack with this object. It reconstitutes in your hand the moment the attack hits or misses a target. A creature that takes Acid damage from this item takes extra Acid damage equal to 1d6 plus your Wisdom modifier.

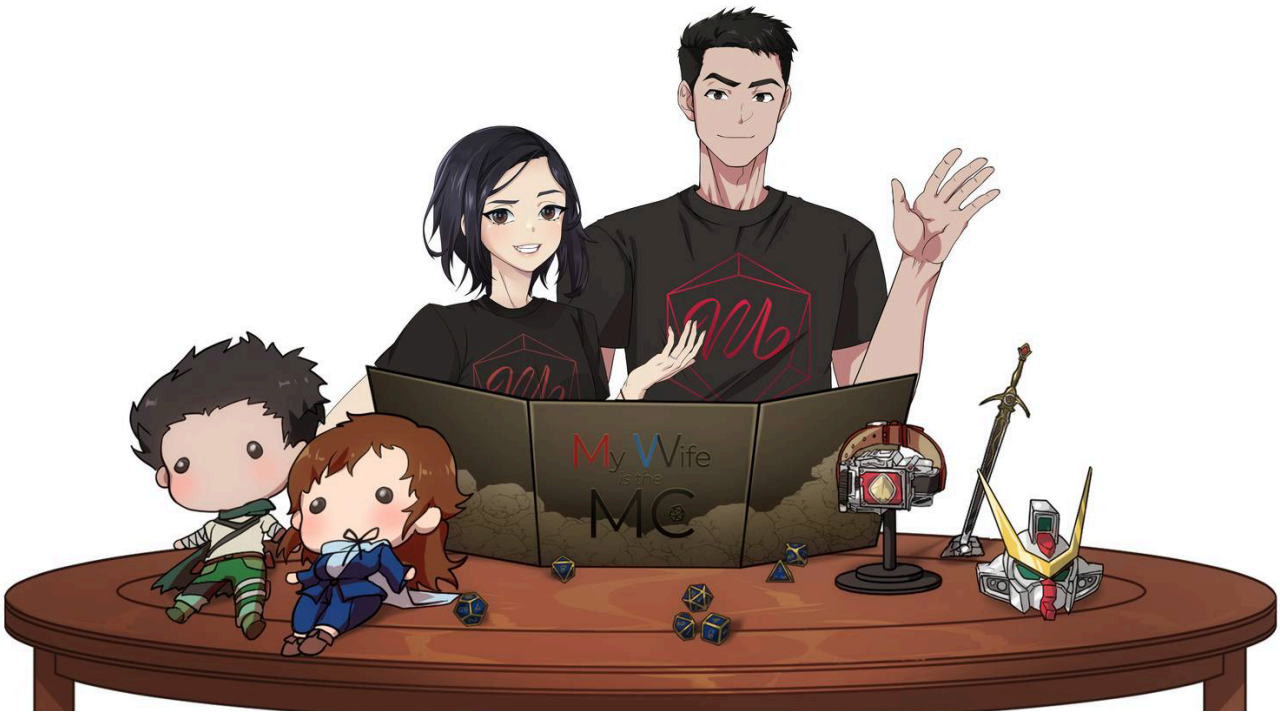

Alchemist's Fire. You expend 1 Awakening Charge whenever you make a ranged attack with this object. It reconstitutes in your hand the moment the attack hits or misses a target. A creature that takes Fire damage from this item takes extra Acid damage equal to 1d6 plus your Wisdom modifier.

Crowbar. When you wield this Awakened Implement as an improvised weapon and hit with it, you can expend 2 Awakening Charges to force the target to make a Constitution saving throw against your spell save DC. On a failed save, the target is knocked Prone.

Holy Water. You expend 1 Awakening Charge whenever you make a ranged attack with this object. It reconstitutes in your hand the moment the attack hits or misses a target. While holding this Awakened Implement, you can expend 2 Awakening Charges to cast the Protection from Evil and Good spell without Material components.

Manacles. When you wield this Awakened Implement as an improvised weapon and hit, you can take a Bonus Action to expend 2 Awakening Charges to force the target to make a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, this item binds the target's hands until you release it or until this item's transformation ends. While bound, the target has Disadvantage on attack rolls. On a failed save, you can choose to expend 1 additional Awakening Charge to conjure a chain attached to the Manacles. While holding the chain, the target has the Grappled condition, and you can use it as an improvised weapon as if using this Awakened Implement.

Block and Tackle. When you wield this Awakened Implement as an improvised weapon, it has the Reach property. When you hit a Huge or smaller creature with this item, you can pull it 5 feet straight toward you. In addition, once per turn, when you hit a creature with this item, you can expend 1 Awakening Charge to make one melee attack roll with this item against a second creature within this item's reach. On a hit, the second creature takes your Remnant Empowerment damage, but don't add your ability modifier to that damage unless that modifier is negative.

About My Wife is the MC

My Wife is the MC is a YouTube channel run by DM V, who creates homebrew content that translates characters from popular media into narratively themed 5e mechanics. This includes creating classes, subclasses, and magic items, or even putting homebrewed characters from various anime, movies, or video game titles into the 5e versions of their settings. By homebrewing content with the source material as a priority, we aim to capture how a pop culture character feels for any player who wants to take their favorite characters to a gaming table, all while keeping within the system's boundaries.
DM V also runs single-player campaigns with his wife, who plays the channel's titular MC.
