

Chapter 1: The Letter

I opened the door to my house. The fireplace stared me directly in the face, the resonating heat made me warm instantly. Beside it sat a comfy light green colored chair. Windows were placed on each side of the fireplace. Windows were placed on each side of the fireplace. A bookcase was located towards the right. Behind that were the stairs leading up towards the bedroom. I didn't live in Cloudsdale but kept to the ground in Ponyville. My name was Horizon, a pink colored pegasus, who just went through something terrible a few months back but would rather keep it to myself. Just as I began to get comfortable on the couch a note slipped through the door followed by a knock indicating it was important. I got up and trotted towards it. I picked up the letter with my mouth and proceeded over to a little desk next to the bookcases. I opened it. It was a letter signed by Princess Luna, and The New Luna Republic. I started reading it, but by the looks of the writing it was done in a hurry.

"Horizon, something or someone has invaded Equestria and it's taking state by state quietly, the reason no one has been alerted because whatever is attacking can take over our bodies and use us as hosts. We need help and we need it now, please come to Canterlot and speak to me, and ONLY me in private immediately...trust NO ONE. Don't look behind you." I hesitated for a moment looking at those last words. I quickly ripped the letter and hid it in one of the books. I quickly side-stepped to the left and hurried to my study that was located upstairs in my bedroom to collect some things. I picked up a note that was stuck in between the floor boards of my stairs and placed it in my saddlebag without looking at it. I remembered those words meaning whatever she meant, something was right outside my door. I opened the window located above my bed and jumped out and landed softly on the grass below. The ponies stopped for a moment and stared at me and continued on with their lives. I started sprinting and then took flight towards the castle in the distance since it would be faster than taking a ride on the train.

The flight was longer than I expected, my wings were sore from the constant flying but I felt much better when I landed near the train station. Just about then the train arrived, I swore under my breath. I turned away and walked towards the main castle. Luna didn't say where to meet or how to get in but I'm guessing the Luna Republic would know who I am. I felt eyes on me. I continued to walk trying to ignore that feeling, that nerve feeling. I stopped once I was inside the castle. In the corner of my eye I saw a wooden door, I fully turned to it, but it was gone, from all the science fiction books I have read, I knew what it was. A perception filter. That was from many chapters of the famous Doctor Whooves and Derpy. I knew they were just made up stories but I had the knack to know what to do. I got the wall placed in the corner of my eye and side-stepped towards the door, I opened it. It was a circular room that was dark but had the Moons light illuminating off the walls and floors, it was Luna's personal room, I felt at peace. I was born under the moons sign and my family was part of the New Luna Republic. I heard hoofsteps , like an army coming from the walls, shadows appeared and sat down in reforming chairs. They then continued to form into ponies. Luna appeared and the whole room formed into a congress like setting, I knew what this was but it was just a myth developed in the Doctor Whooves books. It was the congress of shadows.

"Horizon, up front" Luna said, she tapped her hoof against the floor in a matter of urgency. I walked up to her slowly "As you all know something has invaded Equestria, we need to step up and stop it, the Solar Empire has not yet found out about this threat. I have picked Horizon for one reason, she was born under the sign of the moon! Only few ponies have that." I looked at the ponies who uproared in a cheer. I finally had some significance in this world. "But there are many dangers out there from the outer worlds that will hunt her down, as well as my sisters Solar Empire spies. To test her true potential , she must perform a Sonic Time-Boom which her last attempt ended in failure resulting in severe side-effects" I finally knew why that happened, it has always been a great mystery to me. I thought to myself. All of the congress got up and starting walking back into the walls, Princess Luna teleported both of us in a field with not a sign of civilization in sight. "Do it, open the universe, only way to stop them, even though it'll allow for the more hostile species to enter but we can take care of them" Luna said. I took a deep breath and launched into the air. I hit for the sky again, I went higher and higher until I couldn't breathe anymore, after that point. I darted downward as hard as I could, the force was tremendous, I was trying harder than last time and harder than any other time I've tried. I had to prove myself. My momentum gained, I was gaining speeds of possibly over thousands! A sphere formed around me, a black sphere. "oh no no no no no" I thought to myself, but then constellations and planets were showing up! I was pulling off a Sonic Time-Boom. There was a huge bang and I leaped forward and tilted myself, I saw no ground. I tried to slow to a stop by tilting myself upwards again. I landed right next to Luna when I pulled back to a safe speed. The view was beautiful, I opened a rift through space.

But she was right, little dots and these ship things started popping up, they headed everywhere in Equestria, there was nothing we could do, they made it in. But we completed one job. Those things went away, I could tell because the dark vibe lifted off of Equestria, and because there was an alarm at the castle, which was nowhere in sight. Luna casted a spell and a sphere disappeared and revealed that we were just in the courtyard of the castle but invisible. "I created a temporary dimension so you could pull it off, but it was still linked to this one." Luna said as she looked at me. The Solar Empire flag rosed just as the other one did. We teleported again.

We reappeared in Lunas bed chambers. "You have to stop them, you're the only one that can. But I've made a list of companions that can help you, don't hesitate if you ever thought they were real or not. Not everything in a book is fake." Luna said and handed me a piece of paper. I opened it.

Dawn Rider

Doctor Whooves

Derpy Hooves

Cosmic

Those were the names on it. I closed the letter, Luna smiled at me and everything went black.

Chapter 2: Even myths can be true

I woke up to the wailing of ponies. I got up from the position I was laying at, I was on a cloud. It was cloudsdales. Why would I be in cloudsdales? I thought to myself. I looked at the ground and found my saddlebag, I opened it and checked the piece of paper. Number on the list was..... Dawn Rider. I never thought he was in cloudsdales, he might be visiting. I once again thought to myself. I started walking to the sounds of destruction. Whatever was attacking can destroy clouds as well since half the cloud floor was gone by the time I reached the rainbow factory. "What are you doing? Get out of here! Cloudsdales is getting attacked!" Said a frantic pony who then flew off to Ponyville. The sky darkened and storm clouds came in. I spotted a familiar pony flying away. I ran and jump into the air and spread my wings and darted towards the pony whose name was Dawn Rider, he was on the list and whatever he could do would help since whatever force was coming, it was huge. "Dawn!" I yelled to him, he looked back and slowed down looking at me "I thou---" I interrupted him "Luna made of a list of specific ponies that have a chance of saving Equestria from certain destruction. Are you in?" I informed him "Luna? Hell yeah! Not everyday a Pegasus gets chosen to save the world, so who's next on this list of yours?" He questioned me "You're not going to believe me but... Doctor Whooves and Derpy" I quickly said, he looked at me if I was crazy, I shoved the piece of paper in front of his face and he took it to look at it for himself "Seems legit, but how will we find them?" Dawn asked, the things is I didn't really know the answer to that question but I answered at the best of my ability "I don't know, she ne-" I was cut off, we both were lifted up higher in the sky, everything went black again.

"Doctor? Where are you? A gray crossed-eyed Pegasus said looking around, she then looked at my, she stepped back. "Huuuzaaaah! Found it, Now all w---" A gray earth pony said with something in his mouth, he proceeded to look at me as well. "This is interesting" He said and walked closer. Dawn Rider and I finally immersed back into the world from a strange ripple across the air "Must be, oh! Hello! How? Nevermind, what are your names?" The curious pony said. "I'm Horizon and this is Dawn Rider, are you Doctor Whooves and that other Derpy?" I asked sincerely "I always wanted to meet a pink colored pony, oooh something new everyday. Yes, yes we are, what do you want?" He questioned us intently "Luna gave us a specific list of ponies we need to find, the names on the list are the ones that might have a chance of saving Equestria" I said and directed Dawn Rider to give Doctor Whooves the letter. "I see, but the last name on the list sounds familiar, wait, Cosmic as in Cosmic? I haven't seen him in ages, last time he were having a cup of tea and he got zapped somewhere, just disappeared in thin air, I'm pretty sure you can't find him anymore, well if he's still alive. Oh and yes we will help you" Doctor Whooves told us, Derpy trotted up next to him, there was a banging on the door and it broke open, it was made of metal, a metal shaped pony with red eyes. "Kill... Kill... Kill..." It kept repeating in a cold deathly tone. Dawn Rider out of instinct bucked a chair straight in the robots face knocking the head clean off showing the circuits on the insides "Oooh what do we have here?" The Doctor said and went up to the now twitching robot "It has some sort of weapon on it, no, it can't be. Oh yes it is, this is your version of a Dalek here. Don't let them have a chance to aim at you even though they are slow. If it shoots you, you're dead, oh and good reaction timing.. Ehhhh what was it?" The Doctor asked "Dawn Rider" "Ahhh yes, what a cool name, anyways we should gee-" Doctors voice was cut off by the wave of voices saying "kill" over and over. "We need to get out of here" I said looking around to find a way out "Here" Derpy said and opened a passage way in the floor, whatever she could do, she can easily find hidden passages. "I bumped into something and it opened" She said looking at The Doctor "Or maybe not" I thought to myself. We climbed down into darkness.

"This door won't budge!" The Doctor said and kept slamming into it, he looked at it once more, knowing the sonic screwdriver doesn't work on wood he didn't try. "Stand back" Dawn rider launched forward with all of his might and broke down the wooden door, it opened up into darkness with the moon partially covered, or was it destroyed? I couldn't tell. "This isn't good, I performed a sonic time-boom producing the same effects, well of course I was able to fix it, but I'm not sure if we can do it this time" Doctor Whooves said and continued to look at me, I looked down at the ground "I did it, Luna wanted me to test my potential so I had to do it" I shyly said "You mean you volunteered to do it, don't make her look like the bad one, nevermind that, this just means one more adventure" The Doctor said "What do you mean one last adventure" I said now looking him in the eyes "Shutting out the universe is very hard to do, plus we have to get rid of all these things unless we can manually do it, make a shield that will push back everything not known to ponykind" He said and continued "Remember Chrsyalis? What happened to her? If we can use that same effect we might be able to do it" He informed all of us and starting walking.

We walked into a burning town, everybody was almost gone. What I meant by everybody was. Derpy slammed into an invisible ship, and fell back. The doctor noticed "Hmmm, Let me see if I can sonic it to disrupt the field" He said and turned it on. He was right, the invisibility field rippled and disappeared but the door opened. "Well,lets go inside shall we?" The Doctor said and went in, I hesitated by walked into it. The door locked behind us, and everything went black.

Chapter 3: Shutting down the universe

"Celestia, what should we do?" Luna said walking up beside Celestia "The only way we can stop this is to stop time, shutting down the universe" Celestia said and started smirking. They both looked at each other and casted a destruction spell blowing up part of the castle trying to aim at each other "Aha! You were up to this Luna! I should of never trusted you" Celestia said a they both clashed their horns together "Equestria is in chaos and you're blaming me! I saved us from those body snatchers, if I didn't we'd all be dead!" Yelled Luna still clashing against Celestia. The whole room exploded in a red glow

"Wait wait wait... One second don't move, I got this!" Yelled Doctor Whooves, he clicked his sonic screwdriver and started flashing it around the whole room until we heard the ship turn on. "Aha! Got it!" The Doctor said as we heard the ship rumble to life as if it had been sitting there for a while "Seems this ships been here for a while according to the last entry, I think this ship belonged to those things Luna told you about, well we're one step clo—" The Doctor paused looking at a set of hardware placed by the end of the ship "That... That is not possible, this, this stuff right here has the power to shut down the universe! I've never seen this technology since Galifrey! Whatever the body snatchers planned to do, it was big" The Doctor said "Can we use it or modify it to get rid of the invading forces?" I said looked at the Doctor has he fiddles around with it "Yes! I think we can but we just have to get it on the right setting... Ohhh that's not good!" The Doctor said as he fiddle with it more quickly "What? What's happening?" I quickly said stepping closer to the stallion "The energy source is depleting! It won't work unless we have a power generator or something" The Doctor said looking at me "I might know of a place, somewhere on top of the castle there's a huge machine that holds all of the power of unicorn magic, I'm pretty sure it can easily power that thing" I said "How do we get to it?" Dawn rider asked "There's an entry point in the castle located somewhere in the kitchen, it's a metal door" I told everypony "Well, let's hope it's not the fridge" The Doctor jokingly said.

The explosion shook the castle causing some of the old walls to collapse. Equestria was under heavy bombardement and was ripping the land to shreads, earthquakes came and tore down buildings. The crack was still opened in the sky, shutting down the universe to fix the crack was going to be difficult. The castle grounds were in pieces as the four of us walked towards the castle to save Equestria. I looked up to see the main throne room destroyed. "What if Luna and Celestia have perished inside?" I knocked the thought out of my head and kept walking towards the kitchen and started smirking as that comment The Doctor made about it.

"Just a little more" gasped Dawn Rider as he tried to push the debris out of they way that was blocking the entry way to the Kitchen "Almost..... Got it!" yelled Dawn Rider as the debris collapsed on the floor. We walked into a boxed room with different metal pans and wood drawers. Out of our instincts we started looking through everything until there was only one ting left, the fridge, we both met up at it. The Doctor opened the fridge revealing a bare metal box with only one thing left in it. "I knew it!" The Doctor said as he pulled out a pear "Every place has a pear, I hate pears" The Doctor grumpily said and threw it to a trash can at the end of the room. The fridge collapsed and opened to a stairwell leading upstairs "Well, that was unexpected" Dawn Rider said as he broke the moment of silence. We headed upstairs, the place was like a freezer and there was hardly any light so we just had to pray that we weren't walking into a trap or a rusty area which could lead to us falling down to our deaths.

We finally reached the top of the staircase and to a roof like area but it seemed like no one can see us, we all saw the huge machine that held all of the unicorns magic combined, well it was powered by unicorns so if we used it, it wouldn't harm any of the unicorns or weaken them in anyway, well at least I hope. The Doctor brought the device over to the machine and tried to find a plugin of some sort that would power the device but there were none, and then out of nowhere Celestia appeared "I knew you would make it, here let me get this for you" Celestia used her powers to pull the device out of The Doctors hooves and started looking at it until she smirked indicating she found the way to power it, she took a hidden wire from behind the machine and plugged it in and hit a switch on the device and it came to life and started whirring "Now all we have to do is press this button" Celestia said as she smiled at us all. She handed it to The Doctor and he pressed the button. Something went wrong, well not technically wrong but whatever the shield was bringing with it, brought me as well. It blasted every hostile species including me, I got sucked into outer space and I could breathe, a ship circled around the many species that were dying and it headed straight towards me. I lost conscinuous.

Chapter 4: The Betrayal

"Now that she is out of the way, it's time to get rid of you three" Celestia said and started walking towards them "Why are you doing this?!" Screamed Derpy as Celestia aimed for her first "My Sister thought she could overthrow me and save the day but she couldn't her precious savior named Horizon that was born under the moon was suppose to do it, but now that she's dead my dear sister has failed, and since you worked along with her, you must also face the punishment" Celestia said and put a magical spell around them that teleported them to a unknown location. Just as that happened, Luna came running out but was too late. Her plan had failed, Celestia thought she was trying to overthrow her but was only trying to impress her by doing something important. Luna looked up to see a normal sky glittered with sunlight, storm clouds came in and started pouring. My vision was blurred and I couldn't feel my body, I struggled to move but to no avail. I started hearing voices and footsteps shuffling around. It was cold, I opened my eyes to see a blue waveform shield like thing in front of me, it was one of those force fields in those books I read, they were created by some sort of two-legged creature. I saw a shadow and a figure appeared. It was a human. Humans were another myth. The books said they lived in another dimension then us. Whatever happened, I wasn't in the same universe as before.

// 4 Hours prior to Horizons awake\\

Year: 2458

"Main propulsion system offline!" Yelled one of the engineers as he checked his digital screen flashing red "What the hell was that? Solar Flare?" Asked the captain still shaken from the jolt of the explosion "I don't know but I believe it was a electrical discharge..... Wait, thousands of unidentified aircrafts have just been picked up by the radar!" Replied the engineer. Ships came into view bashing into each other, destroying themselves by the sheer impact. "Detecting life signs outside in the vacuum of space, but they are failing fast! What should we do?" Asked the engineer 'Save as many as possible and lock them up for questioning, I want to know what the hell they did to me ship" The captain fiercely responded. The ship turned to the nearest sign of life.

//Present\\

I heard clanging and looked out the force field to see a couple of more cells but with metal bars instead, they weren't human either, some of them had tentacles, most of them seemed to be messed up versions of a human. I looked down at myself hoping the same thing did not happen to me.