

Character Creation and Advancement Rules

Note this is an Order faction focused campaign. If you wish to play a Destruction or Death aligned race or archetype (no Chaos) you must present your character concept beforehand and narratively explain why your character is working with the forces of Order instead (a detailed background is not required). Some races and archetypes are easier to justify than others. You must keep that character or swap to an Order character if you decide you don't want to play it. You will also likely face challenges that Order aligned races wouldn't such as more difficult rolls when interacting with npcs at my discretion.

If you are an order aligned race or archetype you have more leeway. I don't need you to give me any background info on your character beforehand and you are free to make that up as you go over the course of the game. You can use the point buy character creation rules or even create your own race.

You start with 10xp on top of whatever your archetype gives you. I will be rewarding everyone with 3xp per session instead of using the standard rules regarding advancement. All characters, including stormcasts, kharadron and ossiarch bonereapers may do 2 endeavors in-between adventures. This will likely be every two sessions or so. I will not require you to waste an endeavor based on your archetype choice.

Session Zero

During session zero we will spend an hour or so introducing characters, going over expressed lines or veils and cover the specifics of the campaign not outlined here. If you want I am willing to do a brief combat scenario for you to try out your character's build before play officially begins.

Tardiness and Absence

If you miss two out of the first five sessions you will be removed from the game. Players will be removed if they fail to show up for session zero for any reason which will likely be on the 15th.

Tone of the Campaign

The game will have a mature rating in keeping with the tone of the setting so I'm looking for players who are 18+. During session Zero or beforehand you are encouraged to notify me of any lines or veils you have. Any content you don't want to see in the campaign. I am personally not big on sexual roleplay. Jokes concerning sexual innuendo (jokes related to sex) are fine but I am not interested in engaging in phone sex with strangers or roleplaying a character's love interest.

Metagaming

Strategizing out of character during a combat encounter is perfectly fine so long as it doesn't take too long. I am not opposed to a little metagaming during combat but don't try to pressure a player into doing something you want them to do.
