

Coin Listing Alerts - Beginners Manual

(Or: How To Make Some $$$)

Coin Listing Alerts channels provide different types of alert for various exchanges. The service consists of 2 channel “Coin Listing Alerts”, and “Coin Listing Alerts - Premium”.

General notes

- The main idea is: a certain coin is being listed on exchange A, so you buy it (and later sell it) on exchange B, where it's already listed and where the price will rise as a result of A's listing.
- In this guide we will focus on the Premium version, as it provides alerts for the exchanges which move the market and their listings have a direct effect on the coin's price.
These exchanges are:
Binance, Bittrex, Huobi, HADAX, OKEx, KuCoin, Bitfinex, Kraken, Bithumb, Upbit, Zebpay, Coinbase, Coinone.
- Since not all of the alerts from this channel are profitable, we will go over the different types and I will recommend what I think is the best strategy.
- These recommendations are based on my experience with the bot. There is no guarantee to a certain profit, and behavior might vary from time to time. Use on your own risk and don't be greedy!
- I recommend creating an account (at least) on Binance (top volume exchange) and IDEX (decentralized exchange, with a large variety of ERC-20 tokens), and have some BTC/ETH ready in both. IDEX might be a bit tricky for new users, but they do have some good guides on their website.
- Always look for the listed coin in IDEX. “Already traded in” doesn't always mention IDEX, but if it's an ERC-20 token - it's probably there.

OK, so let's begin

In general, the alerts are divided into 3 types:

- 1) Alerts which start with “Upcoming coin in...” : means that the coin was not yet announced on the exchange or anywhere in the news (Relevant for Huobi, HADAX, Bittrex, Binance, Coinone (still testing), Kucoin, Bitfinex, Zebpay). We will focus on this one, since it's the most profitable.
- 2) Alerts which start with “<exchange> announced a new coin”, means that the information is public, but the coin is not traded yet.
- 3) The rest of the alerts start with “New coin in.. ” . This usually (not always) indicates that the coin is now tradeable, or soon will be, and that this information is usually public.

To make it as clear as possible, I've created a table with different scenarios and how to handle them. Highlighted in yellow are the ones I recommend the most, especially for beginners.

There are probably more scenarios where you can take some profits, but these are the ones I chose to elaborate on.

You can always ask for advice in the group chat, or search the channel for previous alerts and look at the charts to see the past behavior. (If it's a TradingView based chart, hit ALT+G and jump to a specific time and date).

Exchange	Alert type	Typical time in advance	Risk	Profit	Notes
Huobi/Hadax	Upcoming	1-3 days	Low	Medium	This one is easy to work with, since you have a lot of time in advance. Buy in parts and try to catch the dips. Sell soon after the announcement.
Binance	Upcoming	Usually seconds, sometimes minutes.	High	High	Risky to buy if you already see a pump going on. Once the trading begins, the coin's value is volatile and unpredictable.
Binance	Trading competition for a coin	Instant	High	High	This is not a listing alert, but an alert when a Binance announces a trading competition for a certain coin. Usually not enough time to get in.
Bittrex	Upcoming	Few minutes	Medium	High	Head over to Binance or IDEX and buy!
Bittrex/Upbit	New trading pairs	Instant	High	High	Very profitable, yet very risky and hard to catch.
Kucoin	Upcoming	Few hours	Low	Low	Not Pumping so much anymore
Bitfinex	Upcoming	Few hours	Low	Low	Can probably get 5%
OKEx	Upcoming	Minutes	Low	Medium	You might see the price going up, but if you're quick you can catch it and sell it a few minutes later when it's announced.
Bithumb	Upcoming	Hours	Medium	High	Buy and try to sell before the listing - high gain potential. (see PPT for example)
Coinbase/Coinone	-	-	-	-	Probably high gains, but we haven't seen an alert yet.
Zebpay	-	-	-	-	Unclear. Only had 1 alert for this exchanges so far.

Additional Tips which were posted in our group chat's history

14.8.18

2 tips from recent alerts (for a bit more advanced traders):

1) RVN on Bittrex and Upbit:

As I said in the past, Upbit usually lists the same coin shortly after Bittrex does, and it happened again today.

RVN was listed on Bittrex, and the price started going down. At that point we could have placed several buy orders down the order book, to catch the coin as it dips.

About an hour after RVN trading began, Upbit listed it as well, and it jumped 60%+.

This is a risky method, as we don't know how deep it will go before pumping (falling knife), and since Upbit doesn't always list the same coin shortly after.

2) XZC on Huobi/HADAX:

The pump started as soon as the bot alerted, but we still had 2 options to take profit (and maybe still have, it's not announced yet):

a. Buy right after the alert (seemed risky, but turned out to be profitable).

b. Wait for a dip. Shortly after the initial pump, we saw the price touching 0.00194, before pumping again. Looking at an hourly chart shows that this level (194) acted as support a few times before, so it makes sense to place a buy order around this price.

I recommend trying this method only on big exchanges like Binance, which have enough volume to move the price like that.

18.9.18

1) EdenChain (EDN) looks like a good project to invest at the moment. (Hidden GEM as they say). I think it's only listed on IDEX, But being listed on Kucoin tomorrow, and rumors for others as well. And as for as I know, this is a Korean project, so good chances we will see it on one of the Korean exchanges in the near future (and you know what that means 🤔).

2) Allegedly, when Bithumb was hacked these upcoming listings were leaked:

POA

Bytom

ENJ

OCN

IOT

IOST

Theta

Linker

VIN

VIB

Theta and IOT are already listed. So if you Hold any of the others - keep an eye every Friday :)
