I've recently come to notice your website, and I can tell you are passionate about providing the most amount of aid to people who are new to the experience.

It needs to be faster and more broad and by that trying to send the message to the public about the quality of products you provide, but it doesn't reach out to the number of clients you want.

The initiative is there, as well as the desire to let more people know the location of your business.

Considering there are only two locations but only one is open to the public, and of course, you want to spread the business to other locations.

But the amount of clients you currently have is not what you expected, correct?

As I went past your website I had 4 ideas for minor improvements to increase the attention of the website and provide more information to the clients so they don't have second doubts when arriving at the only location available to the public.

We can schedule an appointment via Zoom or in person to further understand your business, my availability is Tuesday and Wednesday at 12 pm.

You can contact me through my business email: dbagigi@gmail.com

Best regards, Daniela.
