

Hey everyone,

I'm going to provide you all with a quick yet important update regarding my future at BW: Origins.

I'll start off by just saying it:

I will be stepping down as the Block Wars Origins Manager until further notice.

I have been running different events almost constantly since July, and over time the constant stress of having to organize new events, and making tons of difficult decisions has really weighed on me, and my mental health and overall productivity has suffered as a result. I believe the best course of action is to take an extended break from my current position at Block Wars, until I believe I've improved enough to run things more properly.

I will not be leaving, but will instead become a regular staff member, mainly managing Origins social media. I will not be involved in player management at all.

Who will be running Origins going forward?

My two assistant origins managers, EpicFH and ShadowDrago, have agreed to take over for me during my absence. They will be the new lead Origins Player Managers.

All player vouches, questions, and other important things should be sent to either of them.

They've both been working with me for two years at this point, and I fully trust them to handle player management.

I don't know when I'll be back. I hope to eventually return better than ever, but for now, I ask you all to give EpicFH and ShadowDrago the utmost respect and support as they take on this new position.

Thank you all so much for the support over the last 2 years.

(Also quick side note, this does not affect my position in Pandora's Box at all. I will remain the Player Manager for Pandora's Box: Ascension)

- MasterGarf