Dear Director of Hiring for the Phlebotomist position at Peace Health,

I have a long history of medical caregivers in my family. My mother worked for over {XX} years in Corvallis as a {enter occupation}. My grandmother is an RN, my Aunt has her BSN, another Aunt owned and operated a very successful and recognized assisted living home in Colorado, and my Uncle also owned and operated a Home-Assisted Living for several years, right here in Oregon.

Now it is my turn to be the hero of so many people in need of excellent medical care.

It's my turn to follow in the footsteps of those who have devoted their lives to the well-being of others. I understand that being a full-time caregiver takes hard work and stamina no matter what medical branch you are involved in. More importantly, I know this job takes a special kind of heart; one that is compassionate, understanding, and patient.

I am equipped with knowledge in the field of Phlebotomy that is fresh and up-to-date. My studies surpass the six-month training period of many young Phlebotomists, as I have completed a full year of courses, including laboratory. Not only am I certified as a Phlebotomist and Laboratory Technician, but I also have my CPR certification. My experience in dietary and my years of experience in other areas have greatly contributed to my excellent interpersonal and communication skills.

When you work with me, you can expect a professional, highly skilled, and hard-working individual on your team.

Sincerely,
