

Educational Philosophy

Why have you chosen to teach? What attracts you to your field?

I chose to teach because I like kids. They are full of energy and I would like to ensure the education of the kids since they are the future. I feel I like math one because I am good at it. Another reason is I want to teach math is because I want to show them that math is fun and can be easy if they would try.

Teaching is, to some extent, a researched based profession. What do you hope to emphasize in your teaching and what do you want to research?

I want to emphasize positiveness. I want to be able to help the kids with whatever they need and ensure the idea that they can succeed with effort. I want to research self-discipline and how it can help an individual's character and boost their moral.
