

What is an installation break?

Stuffed Royale installation breaks are pretty rare for the Stuffed Royale community. How does this work? Well it's pretty simple to explain. Basically the Stuffed Royale team shuts down the website for some time because engineers and website designers work on the current website server to make it better and change up huge things. These breaks usually take up to about 1-3 days. Stuffed Royale usually does this to also change the whole website up. It's supposed to block out all viewers until the website is ready to be launched.