

TRU 10Q: Real-World Curriculum Builder

THE FRAMEWORK

1. What's one skill or truth I wish every student actually retained from this class 5 years from now?

TRU Boost: Forget the standards for a second. What do you hope they remember when no one's watching?

ANSWER:

2. What problem in the real world could this subject actually help them solve?

TRU Boost: Algebra? History? Art? Every subject connects to something deeper. Find the link.

ANSWER:

3. Where could AI already answer this lesson's question — and what would I still need to teach?

TRU Boost: If ChatGPT can write it, your job is to teach why it matters, when to use it, and how to think beyond it.

ANSWER:

4. What's one assignment I could redesign to reflect a real-world skill or deliverable?

TRU Boost: Portfolios. Slide decks. Feedback memos. Product pitches. Brand campaigns. Not just test prep.

ANSWER:

5. What would a recruiter or employer wish I taught better?

TRU Boost: Think beyond resumes — focus on clarity, teamwork, integrity, initiative, communication.

ANSWER:

6. What can only be taught through lived experience — and how can I facilitate it?

TRU Boost: Move from passive to active. Guest speakers. Local problems. Real deadlines. AI projects.

ANSWER:

7. How could I use AI to model clarity, not confusion?

TRU Boost: Let students prompt with purpose. Compare outputs. Spot flaws. Sharpen judgment. AI is a mirror.

ANSWER:

8. What am I currently teaching out of habit, not relevance?

TRU Boost: Be honest. What's in the unit because it's tradition, not because it's transformational?

ANSWER:

9. Who could I collaborate with to bridge this subject to real life?

TRU Boost: Invite people. Local businesses, nonprofits, alumni, departments. Real-world bridges exist — build them.

ANSWER:

10. If I stopped trying to be “perfect” and focused on purpose — what would I create this year?

TRU Boost: Your most powerful curriculum won't be the safest. It'll be the most honest.

ANSWER:

CLOSING MESSAGE TO EDUCATORS:

This is not about adding more.

It's about making what you teach matter more.

Coach TRU was built to bring clarity back to education — not through content overload, but through purpose-led design.

If this resonated with you, you're not behind.

You're ahead — because you're willing to realign.

Now let's help your curriculum catch up to your conviction.