

Each pair of mobile notifications (distinguishable by shading) cover the same story as delivered via different media outlets (FOX News, New York Times or Washington Post). By analyzing word choice in each alert, try to infer the posting publication's political leanings. In the Clues column, write the words that helped you decide. In the right-hand column, compare how word choice changes the readers' understanding of the story before reading it.

	Political leaning	Clues	How do these notifications set up the story differently?
House Republican leaders move to strip Rep. Steve King of his committee assignments over comments about white nationalism
House Republicans strip Rep. Steve King of all committee assignments in wake of racist comments
Dow rallies over 700 points, best performance on a jobs report day since 2002
Stocks surged, with the S&P 500 rising more than 3 percent Friday, after the jobs report and the Fed chairman both reassured investors.
Nancy Pelosi reclaims the House speaker's gavel on Day One of a new, divided Congress that is more likely to confront Trump
Nancy Pelosi elected speaker of the House, reclaiming gavel in 220-192 vote

Trump announces Mattis will leave as defense secretary at the end of February
Defense Secretary James Mattis to retire at the end of February, Trump says
Top U.S. envoy to anti-ISIS coalition quits in protest of Trump's decision to withdraw troops from Syria
Brett McGurk, the US envoy in fight against ISIS, resigns in wake of President Trump's decision to pull troops out of Syria
Dow Jones plunges more than 600 points on shortened trading day, closes below 22,000 points
Stocks had another day of big losses. The Treasury secretary's push to calm the markets, and a new Trump tweet criticizing the Fed, did...
Trump denies Pelosi aircraft for foreign trip in response to call for State of the Union delay
Trump says he's cancelling Pelosi's foreign trips a day after she asked him to delay his State of the Union address

Venezuelan opposition leader declares himself interim president amid reports that US will officially recognize him as country's legitima...
President Trump recognized Venezuela's opposition leader as the interim president on a day of nationwide protest against the gov...
Michael Cohen says he will postpone testimony before a House committee, citing 'ongoing threats against his family from President Tr...
Michael Cohen, President Trump's ex-lawyer, indefinitely postponed his congressional testimony. His lawyer cited Mr. Trump's attacks on his fa...
Amazon pulls out of plan to build New York City headquarters
Amazon said it was canceling plans to build a corporate campus in New York City.
Michael Cohen says he will postpone testimony before a House committee, citing 'ongoing threats against his family from President Tr...
Michael Cohen, President Trump's ex-lawyer, indefinitely postponed his congressional testimony. His lawyer cited Mr. Trump's attacks on his fa...

Sen. Cory Booker, D-NJ, jumps into 2020 White House race
Cory Booker, the senator from New Jersey, is running for president. He's offering an upbeat political message at a deeply polarized time.
Kamala Harris announces 2020 White House bid. The senator from California is known for sharp questioning on Capitol Hill.
Taking on Trump Democratic Sen. Kamala Harris kicks off presidential run slamming border wall, pushing 'Medicare for all'
MLB legend Frank Robinson dead at 83, reports say
Baseball trailblazer Frank Robinson dies at 83. He was the first black manager and an MVP in the American and National leagues.
The shutdown is over, with President Trump signing a bill that will fund the government for 3 weeks. There is no money for a border wall.
Trump signs bill to temporarily open the government, ending partial shutdown
Senate passes spending bill to avert shutdown, sends to House

Senate approves border deal to avert shutdown, as House prepares to vote and Trump pledges to sign it into law
Roger Stone says he's been falsely accused in special counsel probe and 'will not testify against the president'
Breaking News Roger Stone indicted on several charges as part of Mueller's Russia collusion probe
Trump announces deal for government to reopen for three weeks, ending longest shutdown; no money for his border wall
President Trump agrees to continuing resolution to fund the government through February 15; border wall funding still uncertain
Trump signs bill to temporarily open the government, ending partial shutdown
The shutdown is over, with President Trump signing a bill that will fund the government for 3 weeks. There is no money for a border wall.

Virginia Gov. Northam confirms that he's in 'racist and offensive' photo in 1984 yearbook, says he's 'deeply sorry'
Virginia Gov. Ralph Northam apologizes for 'racist and offensive' yearbook photos
Venezuelan opposition leader declares himself interim president amid reports that US will officially recognize him as country's legitima...
President Trump recognized Venezuela's opposition leader as the interim president on a day of nationwide protest against the gov...

