

Tab 1

Order the following events in your zoo trip groups from yesterday

1. 🦁 Africa Safari Track
2. 🦘 Australia Bush Track
3. 🐅 South East Asia Jungle Track
4. 🐒 South America Rainforest Track
5. Te Wao Nui - Native New Zealand wildlife
6. 🦖 Dinosaur Discovery Track
7. Lunch
8. Learning session
9. Bus ride to the zoo
10. Bus ride Home

Each paragraph must include:

Purpose: Tell the reader the important background information – who, what, where, when, and why.

What to include:

When did it happen?

Where did you go?

Who was there?

What was the event or reason?

Why did you go

Boring

Yesterday, we went to the zoo. We left school and got on the bus. The bus ride took a while. When we arrived, we got off the bus and walked to the gate. Then we went inside.

We walked through the zoo. We went to the African Safari area. While we were walking, we saw a giraffe. Then we saw a porcupine. After that, we saw a lion. We also saw a flamingo. We kept walking.

Interesting

Trip to the Zoo!

Yesterday was an exciting day—we went on a class trip to the zoo! Everyone was buzzing with excitement as we lined up to board the bus. I sat by the window with my friend and we spent the whole ride pointing out things we saw along the way, like busy shops, parks, and even a digger working on the side of the road.

The first animal we spotted was a tall, gentle giraffe munching leaves from the top of a tree. Its long neck moved so smoothly. Not far from the giraffe, a prickly porcupine shuffled slowly along a path, its quills sticking up like little toothpicks.

We were all suddenly quiet when we saw a lion stretched out under a tree. Its golden fur glowed in the sun and it let out a huge yawn. It looked sleepy but powerful. Just around the corner, a group of flamingos stood on one leg, their bright pink feathers glowing against the green background. They looked like they were dancing in slow motion.

After seeing so many amazing animals, it was time to head back. We walked slowly to the bus, still chatting about our favourite animals. On the ride back to school, some of us dozed off, tired but happy. It was a zoo adventure I won't forget!