CERTIFICATIONS

Certification demonstrate technical competency and knowledge for some positions. In reverse chronological order, list the school, institution, company or organization, the certification title and the date you received it.

For example:

- American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA), Advanced Veterinary Clinician, 2021
 - The International Academy of Pain Management (IVAPM), Certified Veterinary Pain Practitioner (CVPP), 2015
 - American Board of Veterinary Practitioners (ABVP), Avian Practice, 2014
 - American Board of Veterinary Practitioners (ABVP), Board-Certification in Canine & Feline Practice, 2013

CERTIFICATIONS AND LICENSES

Create a separate section for licenses if they are required for your line of work. Write the name of the school, organization, company or institution you obtained your license from, the type of license you obtained, and the year you obtained it. If you have more than one license, list them in reverse chronological order using bullet points.

For example:

Licensed Veterinary Clinician, Pennsylvania Veterinary Medical Board (PVMB), 2013

AWARDS AND HONORS

This section can carry a lot of weight, so don't be shy if you've been recognized for your achievements. If you have more than one honor to show, create a bulleted list and display the most recent one first, like so: Organization, school, or company name, honor received and the year you received it.

For example:

- World Small Animal Veterinary Association (WSAVA), Future Leader Award 2020
- California Veterinary Medical Association (CVMA), Meritorious Service Award, 2016
- American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA), Animal Welfare Award, 2014
