

Tina Antolini 01F is a Peabody Award-winning journalist and audio producer at The New York Times. Before joining the Times, she was on staff at NPR, Pop-Up Magazine, and served as the founding host/producer of the James Beard Award-winning podcast Gravy. She's also the coauthor of a cookbook with New Orleans chef Alon Shaya.

She studied ethnomusicology and American Studies at Hampshire, and her Div III was a series of radio stories about music in Maine, one of which aired nationally on public radio.