Festival of New Life DTE + Mini EVENT

[Having trouble reading this document? Try switching your browser to Firefox!]

After a long and rather dreary winter, the first signs of Spring were finally beginning to show through, poking up as fresh grasses and flowers beneath the melting snow. As Spring starts to come into its full bloom, the time has come once again to celebrate the Festival of New Life— it's time for another Great Egg Hunt!

As the legends are told...

Long ago, when food was scarce and most Chimereons were too nomadic and scattered to grow crops together, many Chimereons found their main food source in the form of eggs.

As thanks to the creatures who laid those eggs, as well as thanks for the comfortable lives that many Chimereons have now in modern times, the Great Egg Hunt is held in celebration!

These eggs aren't real ones—they're prettily painted containers that hold special prizes inside! But it seems they have a magic spell on them—they won't open until the event's festivities are over.

What sort of prizes might be found in these eggs?
Any of the following things can pop out at the end of this event:

Additionally, as with many of our events, we have a few Chimereons who will be going home to some lucky winners at the end of the event! By joining the event with a valid entry, you'll automatically be put into a raffle with these adopts as the prizes!

This big ol' marshmallowy friend is affectionately nicknamed Cheep!

(Y'know like... like... Chimereon... Peep... HEH...)

They just love eggs, and they insist on coming with you on your egg hunt! When you draw your entry, you MUST include Cheep somewhere in your image/story—and/or one or more of their small Hivemind bodies!

(Also, if Cheep happens to go home with you at the end of the event, you're obviously allowed to change their name and any personality details about them!)

This isn't the only Chimereon we're raffling off! But it IS the only Chimereon you'll get to see before the end of the event! The rest of them are all silhouetted, shrouded in mystery until the festivities are complete!

(More will be added as the event goes on!)

PRIZES

By completing a valid entry, you will receive one type of egg as determined by our good friend Ozymandias, who somehow got roped into painting eggs with the help of his many arms after all that Dirt Pearl magic from the Mystic Harvest event temporarily woke him up from his statue form—in other words, it will be random which type of egg you receive!

You won't know what prize is inside this egg until the end of the event. We moderators will handle recording your prize in the bank, your inventory, whatever is applicable—so don't worry about that part!

With a valid entry, you also automatically are entered into a raffle where you could win one of the adopts shown above! Since each user can only enter 1 time, each user only has 1 ticket!

Please remember that our moderators are merely human—and so it may take some time to deliver your egg! Don't panic; rest assured, as long as your entry is in the folder, you will receive either a prize comment, or a comment requesting changes to your entry to make it a valid entry!
