Logline

In the near future, a jaded police officer tracks down a band of rogue androids who seek a longer life.

Characters

Rick Deckard - A retired police officer who hunted down and "retired" genetically manufactured replicants. He's been through the bureaucracy long enough and is happy his own retirement. But the LAPD has other plans for him.

Roy Batty - The leader of the replicants Deckard seeks. The others include PRIS STRATTON, LEON KOWALSKI, and ZHORA SALOME.

Dr. Eldon Tyrell - The founder of The Tyrell Corporation, who manufacture the replicants.

Rachel - Tyrell's assistant, who is also a replicant.

Synopsis

In 2018, a police officer tours through Los Angeles -- now a Dystopian megacity -- to find DECKARD. Deckard is told to hunt down four rogue Replicants who have traveled to Earth.

Replicants, once used for off-world slave labor, are dangerous and illegal. So police officers like Deckard, called Blade Runners, "retire" them.

Deckard starts by interviewing TYRELL to see if his replicant testing mechanism work. Tyrell has him test it on RACHEL.

Deckard follows a string of clues which lead him to ZHORA, who he retires.
