The work force 1 centers are what YOU make of them. They actually have a superb stock of resources. Five years ago I went in expecting them to find me a job. The interviews they were sending me on were jobs I could have found on my own. So I stopped going & found a job on my own/independently, They offer career counseling, resume help & updating or interview coaching- which I didnt need. But this is wonderful for those new to, or returning to the work force. The facility is state of the arts, very clean & modern with all the current softwares.

Its a busy place & people come there for different reasons. Ive seen inexperienced & ghetto people in the waiting area getting anxious and distracted & frustrated by the overwhelming traffic. These are sometimes the same people with no work experience but either want an advanced grant or to apply for the same position as some one with 15 years in their field. Thats unrealistic. Work force 1 offers several training programs in order to build skills & make some one a more attractive candidate/job seeker. From what ive seen/heard from my visits is that most people naively expect to walk in, and walk out employed with a great high paying job, whether they have the credentials or not. Ive also seen incidents of highly skilled/educated people offered marginal positions. The job counselors mostly try to place people in jobs ASAP. There is a difference between a job and a career.

Self-Employment Assistance

Purpose

Self-Employment Assistance offers dislocated workers the opportunity for early re-employment. The program is designed to encourage and enable unemployed workers to create their own jobs by starting their own small businesses. Under these programs, States can pay a SEA allowance, instead of regular unemployment insurance benefits, to help unemployed workers while they are establishing businesses and becoming self-employed. Participants receive weekly allowances while they are getting their businesses off the ground.

This is a voluntary program for States and, to date, Delaware, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, and Oregon have active Self-Employment Assistance programs. The State Workforce Agency websites for these states can be accessed at <http://www.servicelocator.org/QWSLinks.asp>.

Eligibility

Generally, in order to receive these benefits, an individual must first be eligible to receive regular unemployment insurance under State law. Individuals who have been permanently laid off from their previous jobs and are identified (through a State's profiling system) as likely to exhaust regular unemployment benefits are eligible to participate in the program.

Individuals may be eligible even if they are engaged full-time in self-employment activities - including entrepreneurial training, business counseling, and technical assistance.

Benefits

SEA allowances are the same weekly amounts as the worker's regular unemployment insurance benefits. Participants work full-time on starting their business instead of looking for wage and salary jobs.

Filing A Claim

You should contact the State Unemployment Insurance agency as soon as possible after becoming unemployed. At the time you file your claim you should ask whether a Self-Employment Assistance program operates in your State.

Unemployment Insurance Extended Benefits

Purpose

Extended Benefits are available to workers who have exhausted regular unemployment insurance benefits during periods of high unemployment. The basic Extended Benefits program provides up to 13 additional weeks of benefits when a State is experiencing high unemployment. Some States have also enacted a voluntary program to pay up to 7 additional weeks (20 weeks maximum) of Extended Benefits during periods of extremely high unemployment.

Eligibility

Extended Benefits may start after an individual exhausts other unemployment insurance benefits (not including Disaster Unemployment Assistance or Trade Readjustment Allowances).

Not everyone who qualified for regular benefits qualifies for Extended Benefits. The State agency will advise you of your eligibility for Extended Benefits.

Benefits

The weekly benefit amount of Extended Benefits is the same as the individual received for regular unemployment compensation. The total amount of Extended Benefits that an individual could receive may be fewer than 13 weeks (or fewer than 20 weeks).

Filing A Claim

When a State begins an Extended Benefit period, it notifies those who have received all of their regular benefits that they may be eligible for Extended Benefits. You may contact the State Unemployment Insurance agency to ask whether Extended Benefits are available.

Trade Readjustment Allowances

Purpose

TRA - Trade Readjustment Allowances are income support payments to individuals who have exhausted Unemployment Compensation and whose jobs were affected by foreign imports as determined by a certification of group coverage issued by the Department of Labor.

Eligibility

The Federal Trade Act provides special benefits under the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program to those who were laid off or had hours reduced because their employer was adversely affected by increased imports from other countries. These benefits include paid training for a new job, financial help in making a job search in other areas, or relocation to an area where jobs are more plentiful. Those who qualify may be entitled to weekly TRA after their unemployment compensation is exhausted.

Filing A Claim

Contact the State Unemployment Insurance agency or One-Stop Employment Service office and ask for information about filing a Petition for Trade Adjustment Assistance. The Petition for Trade Adjustment Assistance must be filed with the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). If DOL approves and certifies the petition, the affected workers will be entitled to file a claim under the TAA program. Assistance for workers laid off for other reasons may be provided by the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (WIA)

The Trade Act (TAA) assists workers whose employment is adversely affected by imports. Assistance includes help in preparing for and obtaining new employment. Eligible workers may also receive training, job search and relocation allowances. Additionally, Trade Readjustment Allowances (TRA) may be payable to eligible workers following exhaustion of their unemployment insurance benefits.

Veteran's services include the Disabled Veterans Outreach Program (DVOP) which is an outreach program designed to meet the needs of veterans, especially disabled veterans.

Independent Living Case Management and Transitional Living Services

The Department provides independent living services to assist youth, ages 14 and older, who are in foster care, and youth who have exited care after their 18th birthday but have not reached age 21. Services are designed to promote self-sufficiency and responsible living for young adults. Participants receive training in life skills and personal development, mentoring, tuition assistance, and support with transitional living. Participants may also qualify to receive needs-based stipends through ASSIST (Achieving Self Sufficiency & Independence through Supported Transition) to help with living expenses.

Educational and Training Vouchers

Education and Training Vouchers (ETV) provide financial assistance for eligible youth to pursue a post-secondary education or training program. Eligible youth are youth who aged out of foster care at age 18, or youth who exited foster care after the age of 16 to adoption or guardianship. ETV funds can be used by students to cover the costs related to attendance at a post-secondary education or training program and can include direct costs (i.e. tuition, books, campus housing) and indirect costs (i.e. transportation, childcare, off-campus housing). ETV funds are available to eligible youth up to the age of 26 and participation is limited to a total of 5 years.

Paralegic veterans eligible for benefits will receive a pension from the State of $3,000 per year, payable in equal monthly installments. To qualify, veterans must provide evidence to the Pension Office demonstrating that they are paralegic and fully disabled, with the disability being a direct result of service in the armed forces of the United States during a period of war.

Veterans Opportunity Credit

Employers who hire qualified veterans are eligible for a tax credit of 10 percent of the veteran's wages, up to a maximum of $1,500, for the year the veteran is hired and for the two subsequent taxable years. A qualified veteran is someone who has served in a hostile environment, such as Iraq and Afghanistan.

The main content area explains that the WOTC is a federal tax credit for hiring individuals from certain targeted groups who have consistently faced significant barriers to employment. It also mentions that the WOTC joins other workforce programs that incentivize workplace diversity and facilitate access to good jobs for American workers. A paragraph at the bottom discusses the Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes Act of 2015 (the PATH Act), which retroactively allows eligible employers to claim the WOTC for all targeted group employee categories that were in effect prior to the enactment of the PATH Act, if the individual began or begins work for the employer after December 31, 2014 and before January 1, 2021. For tax-exempt employers, the PATH Act retroactively allows them to claim the WOTC for qualified veterans who begin work for the employer after December 31, 2014 and before January 1, 2021. The PATH Act also added a new targeted group category to include qualified long-term unemployment recipients.

Programs

The Dislocated Worker Program assists individuals laid off from a job to obtain employment through training and related employment services. Programs are conducted in cooperation with employers or labor organizations to provide early intervention in the event of closures of plants or facilities.

The Migrant and Seasonal Farmworkers Program includes a variety of services to help migrant and seasonal farmworkers and their families find alternative job opportunities in year-round employment or to improve their well being if they remain in seasonal agricultural work. Vocational counseling and referrals to training, help with childcare, medical aid, legal aid, food stamps or other needed services are also available. This program also assists farmers and growers in job recruitment, placement, and information in the form of federal and state laws, rules, and regulations.

The State Summer Youth Employment Program is a jobs program that awards grants to qualifying non-profit agencies and organizations for the hiring of Delaware youth during the summer months. The program targets economically disadvantaged households and should be of some benefit to the community. The work performed by the youth should be meaningful and teach some basic pre-requisites for career employment.

The Trade Act (TAA) assists workers whose employment is adversely affected by imports. Assistance includes help in preparing for and obtaining new employment. Eligible workers may also receive training, job search and relocation allowances. Additionally, Trade Readjustment Allowances (TRA) may be payable to eligible workers following exhaustion of their unemployment insurance benefits.

Veteran's services include the Disabled Veterans Outreach Program (DVOP) which is an outreach program designed to meet the needs of veterans, especially disabled veterans.

Automobile allowance and adaptive equipment

If you have a disability related to your service that prevents you from driving, you may be able to get money to help you buy or change a vehicle so you can drive. Types of vehicles covered by VA automobile allowance include cars, vans, motor homes, commercial trucks, and farm machines like tractors. Keep reading to find out if you may be eligible.

Am I eligible for these benefits from VA?

Eligibility requirements

You may be eligible for VA automobile allowance or adaptive-equipment benefits if you have a disability that's related to your service (called a service-connected disability) and that includes at least one of these conditions.

JOB RESOURCE CENTERS

To Improve Quality of Life Through the Power of Work!

WHAT ARE JOB RESOURCE CENTERS?

Goodwill operates four community-focused Job Resource Centers in the Delaware and Delaware County region. Each center is equipped with state-of-the-art computers and copiers and high-quality wifi. Our centers also host job fairs, offer employment skills training, and provide computer workshops.

Visitors to these centers can get personalized assistance in writing or editing a resume, creating an email account, navigating the internet for job searches, and taking assessments for job applications. We also track your progress and experience with the centers to ensure we are constantly improving and giving our visitors the best possible outcomes.

Online Application

The Office of Human Resources is pleased to offer online employment applications through NEOGOV, a very user-friendly online application interface. You can view posted positions online.

You can apply online by clicking on the job title in which you are interested, and clicking on the "Apply" link. If this is the first time you are applying using NEOGOV, you will need to create an account and select a Username and Password. After your account has been established, you can build an application by clicking on the "Build Job Application" link. This application can be saved and used to apply for future job openings.

You may also elect to receive notifications when jobs in which you are interested are posted in NeoGOV by clicking on Menu, Subscribe to Receive Job Notifications on the County's career pages on the NEOGOV site.

It should be a very intuitive process for applicants, but in the event you need assistance, NEOGOV offers an applicant support help desk which is available Monday through Friday:

The office of your elected officials can be the best place to turn to get free help. They are in the best position to be aware of the free help and services that are available in your community as well as the state or national level. Your representatives also have the most power to help and have the biggest motive to help.

- Their Power... The government bureaucracy that provides money and services to the community relies on the elected officials for their money. You may pay the taxes, but it is the elected officials who “control the purse strings” and determine the budgets and salaries for government bureaucrats. These government agencies have special back door phone numbers to handle requests from elected officials while you and I have to wait in line at the front door.
- Their Motive... Elected officials WANT to help you because if they are able to make a phone call and get you the help you need, you will vote for this official no matter how many sex scandals they have.

To find your elected official, put in your zip code here:
