Day In The Life of Amine The Algerian Blooded

- I wake up with insane self-talk energy that leaves my weak voice with no chance to protest at 4 AM or 30mn before Fajr to pray Qiyam, Witr, Subh and Fajr. I read the Quran with angelic focus (khouchoua) to gain endless insights and blessings by Allah's guidance.
- Then I excitedly read my new identity doc and goals list for the next 3 months, knowing that I can crystallize them into reality. I start my day immediately with ALGERIAN ELECTRIC FIRE BLOOD, doing my daily Copywriting exercises sacredly and precisely to extract golden insights and upgrade my brain. Then, I hammer through endless, grueling and laser-focused G-work sessions on client work and meta progression.
- Then, I pray Dhuhr salat gracefully and gratefully, eat a light lunch with satisfaction, and restore my energy levels to 100% with INSANELY DOMINATING self-talk that seem insane to the average man.
- After that I work again either on client work ferociously or on the meta progression of figuring out how to scale up to the Milky Way's stretched inches.
- Then I receive a picture of a check from MB that indicates that I have reached at least 3K $ in revenue, thanks to Allah. I celebrate for a few seconds and post my win so other students congratulate me and then redirect that energy to working harder now that I have positive achievements to feed off from.
- After that, I pray Assr Salat with grace and gratefulness to Allah for His blessings and favors for me. I immediately start planning my next projects that will rain money for me.
- I pray Maghrib at 8 PM-ish, eat my dinner thankfully; OODA Loop like a genius autistic accountant and prepare my next day on my Google calendar with stressful readiness. I then do my sleeping routine that consists of reading my Identity doc, saying Dhikr, reading ayats, and saying shahada. Then I start positively future pacing into the next 6 months with a psychopath's grin until I fall asleep.

- I could take care of Ibrahim and free him of sickness and make him smile again

- I could be living my best life with the best people in my life
- Why am I afraid of the work required to get to this point?

- Why am I not making sure this is impossible to happen to me?
- I don't want my family, friends and people who I want to impress to be eternally disappointed in me
- Why am I not making sure that won't ever happen?
