SL: The Most Romantic Present for Valentine's Day

I couldn't have been more happy, she made me feel like the luckiest man in the world…

Days and months went by so quickly with her, I knew she was the right person

It was a night in december, it was cold outside and we were all alone,

I knew that I would buy the whole world for her if I could, just so I can see that gorgeous smile on her face

Nothing could have stopped me from making this memory with her…

The finest memory that we carry every single day with ourselves physically and mentally

Now 20 years have gone by and I can't do anything but smile when remembering that day

And I have this little thing to thank for replaying the image in my head every single day…
