

S.F.: Mini Lesson #2

Varying Sentence Beginnings

[illegible]

Part of Speech Review

(Different Ways to Start Sentences)

Caroline threw an adorable smile towards the boy in the cafeteria.

He cried himself to sleep because he had no valentine.

The boy dreamed that night about this girl smiling at him in the lunchroom.

In the middle of his dream, Ross awoke and knew he needed to find that girl.

To see the young girl smile at him again was all Ross wanted.

Searching fervently, Ross located 12 perfect red roses for his new love.

Lovely, Caroline looked just lovely when Ross laid his eyes on her at school.

As Ross sweated, he gathered up the courage to walk over to Caroline.

Happy and surprised, Caroline accepted the flowers; however, she had a boyfriend.