

Page Turns

Page Turning Solutions

- Look off a neighbor's music for a few measures
 - Have your neighbor turn your page/play a bell
 - Write your notes at the bottom/top of the page as a reminder
 - Memorize a few measures
 - Use electronic device with a foot pedal
 - Turn early or late
 - No gloves
 - Four in Hand (or more) for a few measures
 - Ring-Hook-Damp for sustained note page turns
 - Photocopy a few measures or an extra page (use cardstock to make it sturdier)
 - Cut the music at the seam and change which side the hole punch is on
 - If you have the same number of systems on the front and back, you can cut the music horizontally between the systems at the point where you can turn the page. This creates a "small page" which will allow you to turn it at a more convenient time. You may need to attach an index card or card stock to the pages you cut to allow them to remain in the holes on a binder. Make sure you have permission from the owner or a copy of the page before you cut it!
- ♦ Disclaimer: Please obtain copyright permission to use music digitally. Also, when using a partial copy of music for page turning purposes, please destroy after the performance.

Ask your director or work with fellow ringers to figure out a tricky page turn RiverBells Sacramento director Paul shared about using tablets to reduce page turns during a Spring Ring workshop in Cupertino last weekend with the assistance of several members of our group. For about a year now, RiverBells has used the tablets to go paperless. While we have had our share of glitches to sort out in the process, It also means we now use foot pedals to turn pages instead of having to put down our bells. That has been quite handy!

RiverBells Sacramento is with Jason Gould and 4 others.
