

The show I watched recently & watching on the loop

The predictable chances of liking or loving any show or movie are immensely high. 80% of the time people fall in love with movies/shows — the storyline, the timing, the dialogue, & whatnot. The 90s era used to produce fantastic film concepts & this was the time when my favourite show was launched — FRIENDS

It would be funny to hear, I was not even born by then. LOL!!

It's been 28 years & people still watch this show & definitely love it. This blog will contain some memorable dialogues & images that will surely reminisce the old days of FRIENDS.

Why do I love this show?

Let me be honest with you, I do not have one reason I love this show. I HAVE THOUSANDS OF THEM.

Yes, you read that absolutely right. There are many & many reasons to love this show & you can't even figure out where to start. Let's list out the goodies of each character. VIOLA!!

Let's start with Phoebe Buffay

Okay, I accept one of the silliest remarks of me I said about Phoebe when I saw the first episode — Phoebe is so dumb & boring character.

Pardon me!!

But, Phoebe is now one of my favourite characters in the show. She is of course funny, this character is a little different from others. Phoebe's role was a mixture of emotions, anger, smartness, dumbness, sometimes scary, & much more.

This character is something I can't get bored of. Phoebe is my spirit soul though!!

What, what did you say? Ross Geller

Well, this man is the saddest character in the show who has been suffering from the very beginning & never was served as he deserved. Ross is funny, of course, but he was in eternal pain (that's what I think at least).

He wanted to be loved, married, & a beautiful life with his family. But, you know what Carol turned out to be.

And, here comes Rachel Green

Ahh!! She was the most beautiful character. God!! Rach, who dumped his fiance on their wedding day & ended up in "The Central Perk Cafe".

There she met Monica & the rest of the FREINDS squad & of course Ross (again, after high school). And, Ross somehow fell for her (again).

And, the rest is history.

By the way, “They Were On A Break”

Oh, hey!! How you doin’?

I know you know who this is, of course, Joey Tribbiani

My second foodie spirit soul!! Joe, again the funny & really dumb character who understands things late & last.

Remember, when he didn’t share his food with even Emma?

I know, you can hear this image!! That is why I love Joey (even though I don’t love to share my food).

And, here comes the best couple of the show — Monica Geller & Chandler Bing

The tidy Mon & messed Bing set up our expectations so high in Love. There could be no better two people like them for themselves.

The more I talk about them individually or as a couple, the less it is. Know that, they were incredible together & forever.

A loving note for you my people:

“Why don't you stop worrying about sounding smart
and just be yourself.”

Let's play with some meme

(because I can't stay calm until I enjoy my humour)

Here we go:

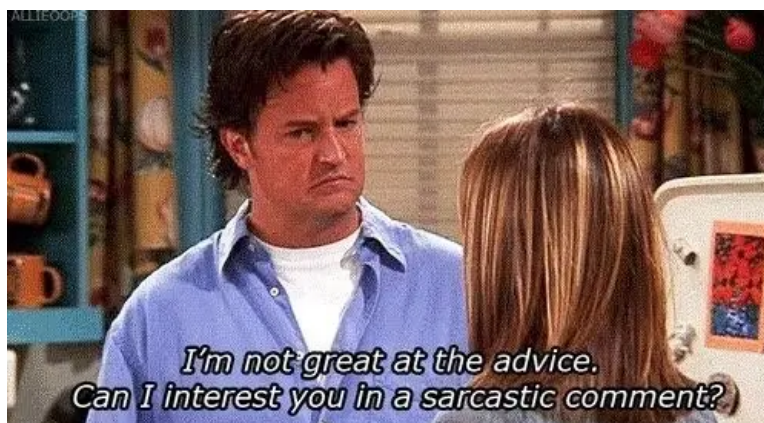

1. When it's too cold outside

Me: Could I be wearing any more clothes?

2. When someone asks for advice & I am me:

So, here is the show I'm watching on the loop & gonna watch this 'Jab Tak Hai Jaan'

5 reasons why you should too watch this show

1. This show will make you realise how much life has been busy since you learnt the art of earning money & still things are messed up. (this was a little negative but it is what it is)
2. You will understand the core value of having good friends with the same level of mindsets & love as you have for others.
3. You will understand that friends are underrated & families are overrated. (don't hate me for this but you were once there)
4. This show will definitely teach you how to love & care. You will observe some fabulous scenes where you'll always be wanting to get loved by someone. (that's an adult thing but who doesn't crave love?)
5. Last but not least, this show will make you learn how to manage life, how to prioritise things, & how to make time for loved ones.

But, please, don't leave for the office at 11 though your office time is 9 am sharp.
