Abstract

Abstracts are written in English. Font Cambria (10 pt) Italic and preferably not more than 300 words. The abstract should be clear, concise, and descriptive. This abstract should provide a brief introduction to the problem, objective of paper, followed by a statement regarding the methodology and a brief summary of results. For example: This article analyses the fourth amendment 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia leaving academic debate, not only in terms of the substance of the constitution that still has weaknesses and needs to be improved and perfected through the fifth amendment of The 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia, but also in terms of process changes that lead to refractive mainly against the spirit of Constitutional Commission, Refraction spirit of the Constitutional Commission took place on two points: first, the establishment of the Constitutional Commission which was formed to have lost momentum, as well as the tasks assigned by the Assembly to the Constitutional Commission so minimalist that is limited to conduct a comprehensive review and was impressed merely fix systematize and writing of the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia which have been produced by the Assembly.

1. Introduction

The introduction should be clear and provide the issue to be discussed in the manuscript. Before the objective, authors should provide an adequate background, and very short literature survey in order to record the existing solutions, to show which is the best of previous researches, to show the main limitation of the previous researches, to show what do you hope to achieve (to solve the limitation), and to show the scientific merit or novelties of the paper.

At the end of the paragraph, the author/s should end with a comment on the significance concerning identification of the issue and objective of the research. This article analyses a constitutional change that is also something that determines the implementation of constitutional life of a country, even John Burgens argues that constitutional change is something that is very strategic in the constitutional state and determine the constitutional development of a nation , since changes to the constitution, especially article that govern it, will be able to determine the political actors can make changes to the existing legal norms in the constitution or do redesign of norms that are fundamental. Written constitutions are not only likely to give rise to greater problems of interpretation than unwritten ones, but they are also harder to change.
