

AlertedDragon account investigation

Original by @minisbett

This document was written in chronological order as events happened and investigation was done.

Preamble

At around Feb 2024 (might be earlier, this is my earliest record of this existing), osu! account seller “dqnnny” listed the following on his shop on the osu! marketplace (osu! account boosting / selling Discord server):

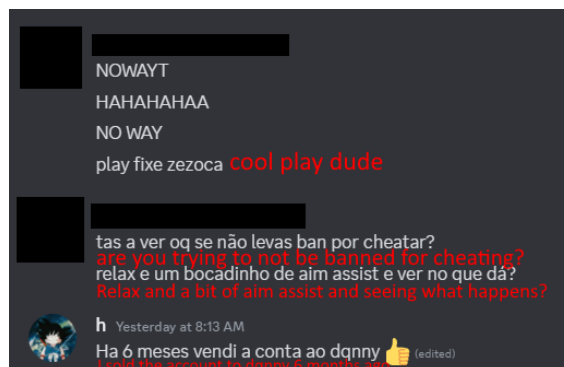

At that time I was thinking about who this account could be, with the first two people coming to mind being AlertedDragon and maika, both of which pretty much quit osu! / took a break. The store listing still states this offer, but this might not be a reliable indicator that no trade has been done yet as this could easily be purposefully done to not make people aware of that the trade was made.

On the 1st of April, a friend from the portugese osu! community reached out to me asking about analysis of replays potentially done by replay submitters, later on elaborating that there are rumors around Alerted having sold his account. I immediately remembered my thoughts on this topic and decided to investigate. Upon asking for the source of those rumors, the following was said:

“I had a friend, which was the one that started the rumor, which has been "teasing" this outcome for a few months already, and ended up telling that the account was sold months ago, but given he usually liked to troll it was never brought up that hard”

Later on, the same person sent the following screenshot to me, showing a private conversation between a person from the PT osu! community and Alerted, happening after the Horrible Kids #1:

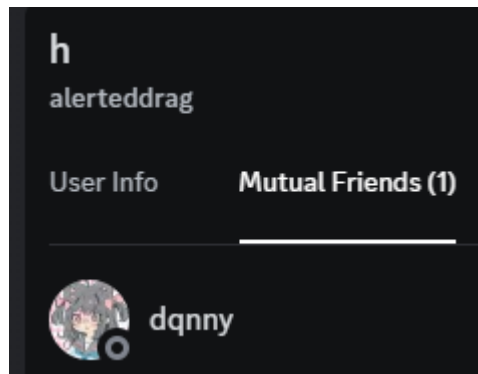

In this screenshot, Alerted seems states that he had sold his account to dqnnny 6 months ago, which matches with what dqnnny is listing in his shop on the osu! marketplace.

Behavior on Social Media

I contacted another person who I knew spent time playing osu! with Altered, and asked them about him. They stated that Altered had left all Discord servers, and unfriended everyone on march 31st and disabled DMs from people that aren't friended with him.

Except for at least dqnnny apparently.

The person mentioned in the preamble noted that Altered deleted his YouTube channel, the Twitch channel got wiped (apparently yesterday, on April 1st) but is still available. Although here are indices against Altered selling his account.

When checking altereddragon - Streamer Overview & Stats · TwitchTracker, we can see that Altered did stream in March, the VODs, clips etc. are simply unavailable.

He might still be sharing the account with the buyer? Or dqnnny hasn't sold it yet?
