ABSTRACT

The abstract should be written in English, and presented in a single paragraph of 150–300 words. It should cover the study's background, objective, methodology, primary results, and conclusions while avoiding abbreviations and references.

Keywords: 3–5 words or phrases, listed alphabetically and separated by semicolons (;)

INTRODUCTION

Highlight the target population by describing the context in which they live, along with the facts or phenomena that serve as the foundation for implementing community empowerment initiatives. Include details of actions taken by other parties to address these issues. Clearly define the research objectives and the goals of community empowerment efforts, aligning them with the identified problems, challenges, or needs of the community.

It is also important to explicitly outline the forms of participation and interaction with the community in the engagement program. To strengthen the study or activity background, authors should include empirical evidence and conceptual frameworks based on reviews of relevant prior studies published within the last five years.

Subsequent paragraphs should be indented throughout the article. The article must be typed in Tahoma font, size 11pt, 1,5-spaced, and submitted in .docx or .doc format. The total word count should not exceed 10,000 words, including references, tables, figures, and appendices. The file size should be no larger than 5 MB.

METHOD

Explain the methods employed to address the issues, challenges, or problems and achieve the research objectives. This should include details such as data collection techniques (e.g., sampling methods, and the validity and reliability of data collection tools), data analysis methods, as well as the location, timing, and duration of activities. Authors should provide justification for the conditions or situations prior to the implementation of the programs or activities and describe the expected outcomes.

Abbreviations must be defined upon their first use and consistently applied throughout the article. If referencing a previously published method, cite the original work appropriately and provide detailed explanations if modifications were made.

RESULT AND DISCUSSION

Provide relevant documentation with a focus on community empowerment initiatives. Photos and images should have a minimum resolution of 300 dpi and be in JPEG format (.jpg). Results should be presented accurately and explained clearly without referring to literature. Highlight significant and original findings, supporting them with figures or tables as needed, though their use should be limited. Avoid including detailed discussions, interpretations, or speculations in the results section; these belong in the discussion section. Subtitles must follow sentence case formatting.

In this section, authors should emphasize the analysis of conditions before and after the implementation of community engagement programs or activities. The analysis should include further discussion on community participation and the outcomes achieved. Adding content on how innovations were adopted by the community would be a valuable enhancement.

1. Tables

   All tables in this manuscript must be cited and incorporated into the analysis, highlighting their relevance and significance to the community engagement programs or activities. Each table should be pertinent to the study and provide meaningful contributions to the discussion. Tables should be formatted with single spacing and should use only horizontal lines for borders. For example:

Table 1. Table name

AAA	BBB	CCC	DDD
BBB	xxx	xxx	xxx
CCC	xxx	xxx	xxx
DDD	xxx	xxx	xxx

AAA	BBB	CCC
xxx	xxx	xxx

2. Graphs

   All graphs in this manuscript must be cited and incorporated into the analysis, demonstrating their relevance and significance to the community engagement programs or activities. Each graph should directly relate to the study and contribute to its findings. Graphs created using Microsoft Excel should be submitted in their original Excel file format. Ensure that graphs are presented in 2D, avoiding 3D styles, shadows, or additional effects, and exclude gridlines for a clear and professional appearance.

3. Pictures or Photos

All figures and photos in the manuscript must be referenced and integrated into the analysis, demonstrating their relevance and importance to the community engagement programs or activities. Photos and figures should align with the study's focus. If a series of photos or figures illustrates a process, they should be grouped and treated as a single figure. Each group should include a descriptive explanation that links and contextualizes the figures.

Ensure that documentation emphasizes activities related to community empowerment. Photos and images must have a resolution of at least 300 dpi and be saved in JPEG format (.jpg). Use image editing software to confirm the resolution meets these requirements.

The discussion should provide an interpretation of the findings presented in the results section, connecting them to the existing body of knowledge without reiterating the results. It should emphasize novel contributions. Clearly articulate each assumption made during the analysis. Discuss how the findings relate to the target population and explore their potential applicability to other populations. Highlight the strengths and limitations of the community empowerment activities in relation to the specific conditions of the surrounding community.

CONCLUSION

Evaluate the level of target achievement in community empowerment activities based on established indicators. Analyze the alignment of the applied empowerment methods with the existing problems, needs, and challenges in the implementation area. Present conclusions regarding the impact and benefits of community empowerment activities on community sustainability and well-being. Finally, provide strategic recommendations for the development and enhancement of future community empowerment programs.
