Letter To The Editor
UFO Magazine

Dear Graham,

In the Nov.-Dec. Issue of UFO Magazine (UK), [p. 54], debunking arguments by Stanton Friedman directed at Michael Wolf, M.D., Ph.D., ScD, J.D. appeared in a sidebar. Dr. Wolf is a member of the scientists group within MJ-12, the UFO information-control agency which is an unacknowledged subcommittee of the U.S. White House's National Security Council.

Dr. Wolf has gained broad notice within UFO investigation circles for his UFO/ET disclosures in his recent book, "The Catchers of Heaven" (Dorrance Publ., 1996; ISBN# 0-8059-3907-5; U.S dealer: Mandala Books 1-(412) 422-6623). In Catchers, Dr. Wolf reveals that the U.S. Government did retrieve two extraterrestrial spacecraft in 1947, one northwest of Roswell, and the other from west of Socorro, New Mexico. Dr. Wolf acknowledged that in the 1950s, the U.S. government secretly entered into treaty terms with the so-called Grey extraterrestrials from the fourth planet of the star system Zeta Reticuli. The Greys then shared certain of their technological advances with military and government scientists, including Dr. Wolf. While "inside", Dr. Wolf learned that certain compartments within agencies were holding other captured extraterrestrials as prisoners within secure underground military/scientific installations in Nevada and New Mexico. Wolf revealed considerable additional information gained in his position inside the official government's UFO cover-up organization.

I will be soon be submitting a full-length article to UFO Magazine, detailing Dr. Wolf's startling revelations since his book came out.

Stanton Friedman, with a master's in physics, worked in Top Secret projects on classified nuclear-powered spacecraft engines. Yet he publicly puts forth the impression that he finds it inconceivable that Dr. Wolf, with a doctorate in physics, could work in Above Top Secret projects on extraterrestrial technology. Is this the same Stanton Friedman who portrays himself as a crusader to pry UFO secrets out of government agencies? Apparently when the secrets do come out, Mr. Friedman doesn't want them, unless he personally pried them out.

In December's UFO, Friedman attacks Dr. Wolf's educational background and certain personal life details. It is telling that Friedman does not attack the UFO disclosures Dr. Wolf has made, but instead engages in personal attacks. His simplistic arguments might not surprise if they came from a debunker, but for government scientist-insider Friedman, who has operated in a high-security environment, his supposed naivete about National Security procedures strains credulity.

For example, Friedman claims that it isn't true that Dr. Wolf has a Ph.D. in Theoretical Physics from MIT and MD from McGill University. Friedman offers as "proof" Dr. Wolf's refusal to identify his MIT dissertation advisor, because that professor still does classified Star Wars research for the Defense Department, and the dissertation is classified. As a Top Secret-cleared insider, Friedman has to know that disclosing classified projects and personnel is unlawful. Friedman himself complies with this requirement in his own denial statement in the same article, "I never worked on any 'black budget' programmes (sic)". Dr. Wolf knows that Friedman did.

Friedman's only other "proof" was his flawed inquiry: "I checked MIT's registrar, alumni, Physics Dept., and no one had every heard of Michael Wolf Kruffaut." Of course not. Dr. Wolf's family name was Kruvant, not "Kruffaut"! Later Michael had his last name legally changed to his middle name, Wolf. So he has some degrees in each name.

Furthermore, as fellow classified-projects worker Friedman knows, Intelligence officials can arrange "erasure" of documentary evidence like degrees of an individual like Dr. Wolf with a super-sensitive assignment. Because Dr. Wolf's medical school research at McGill University included neurobiological techniques which were later employed by the CIA to extract information out of Soviet defectors, Intelligence officials instructed McGill not to acknowledge Dr. Wolf's studies there. So, while Mr. Friedman found nothing, it is an elementary rule of logic that you cannot prove a negative. "Absence of evidence is not evidence of absence."

Friedman does admit that Dr. Wolf is a member of the New York Academy of Sciences and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, but then criticizes Wolf for joining in the current decade. Dr. Wolf was deeply involved in most sensitive research in the 1970s and 1980s: extraterrestrial communication, SDI projects, cloning ET genetic material, etc. His NSC bosses would not therefore permit him to maintain a high profile. No surprise there. Friedman is quite familiar with many of the restrictions of working in Top Secret projects. Why is he trying to portray himself as some naive Boy Scout, unfamiliar with national security measures?

The appalling level of Friedman's "investigation" is revealed by his admission that he used as "proof" some unnamed person's search of an Internet webpage. Quoting this webpage's false information on Dr. Wolf, Friedman claims that Dr. Wolf was never married, and never had any children. Researcher James Courant talked to Dr. Wolf's brother, who said that this information came from a mentally-disturbed sister, who was turned against Michael's father and himself by his mother, after the father and Michael left the home in a bitter divorce. Who would know better than Dr. Wolf that he was married, and that his wife was carrying their unborn child, when she and their other son were involved in a fatal car crash. Such insensitive pettiness. But there is more.

Friedman claims that Dr. Wolf "spent time in a mental hospital." The clear intent of that statement is to discredit him as mentally unstable. But the fact is that medical doctor Wolf worked professionally as a physician in a mental hospital at one time. Quite a different picture.

Grasping at straws, Friedman next falsely claims that the New England Research Institute that Dr. Wolf is affiliated with shares the same address as Wolf's residence. The fact is that the Institute is located in Bloomfield, Connecticut [U.S.]; whereas Dr. Wolf lives in a different city.

Friedman calls Dr. Wolf's book, The Catchers of Heaven, "total science fiction". Many astute UFOlogists have read Catchers, and quickly discerned the extensive and detailed factual information contained in it, following a pro-forma opening statement declaring it a work of "fiction", as required by Wolf's National Security Council bosses to provide plausible denial. Evidently, Friedman either didn't "get it", or prefers the cheap shot.

Friedman's final debunkery-by-proclamation is: "There is no 'Element 115' and [Robert] Lazar's scheme won't work." Mr. Friedman fails to inform us of his tour of the universe, wherein he catalogued all the elements. Nor can Friedman have it both ways. If he truly has left the classified world some years ago, as he claimed on the Internet, how can he know what recent developments using ET technological information have taken place? Numerous researchers, including myself, have seen U.S.-manufactured antigravity craft fly. Bob Lazar worked in super-classified projects, as Dr. Wolf did, and like Wolf had his educational history erased by Intelligence. Yet they missed a few records, which diligent researchers have discovered and published.

Friedman's attempts to discredit Dr. Wolf and his book hurt the nonprofit Daniel Wolf Foundation for children, which Dr. Wolf ordered all royalties sent to. He doesn't take a dime from his book.

Friedman likes to call other UFO researchers "frauds". Unfortunately, it is Friedman who leaves the reader gypped, serving up debunkery masquerading as "UFO expose".

Sincerely,

Richard Boylan, Ph.D.
