Well this is an interesting turn of events. You seem to have “no u’d” me. So why did my action fail on you but yours succeed?

Hi! I can only assume I was hit with Scatter again. Which would be a natural thing to do to keep me in the suspicious realm.

I picked you as my new mason because I now find you to be the most trustworthy and I also felt like the discussion between Jeod and I had pretty much exhausted itself, though he happened to add a good bit after I had decided for a new target that might have changed my mind if I were home to change it.

So I have some catching up to do. Seems the votes are piling onto you today, and iLTS’ ability does not help that fact.

Well, it looks like day end has come up and you are in the lead. I have time for a vote to make it 50/50, if iLTS truly is the scum we have been looking for.

You have also volunteered yourself for the lynch, so it is a wonder you did not place the vote on yourself. Naturally I can think why anyone wouldn’t but still, far too many distractions.

50/50 vote submitted. May RNG be in our favor. Or maybe just yours?
