

Examples: <https://www.blaseball.wiki/w/Teams>

Team Overview

The Atlantis Georgias are a team of researchers from the Georgian Triangle who wish to learn more about the splort of Blaseball, mainly through first-hand experience. This method of research began during the [REDACTED], where the Georgias played in the [REDACTED]. Using this method, the team was able to win four championships.

With Blaseball's return, a new team had to be created in order to research the sudden appearance of peanuts, incinerations, and rogue umpires.

The modern form of the Atlantis Georgias is a combination pirate and scientist crew, led by head of research Niq Nyong'o. Their goal: Figure out what the heck happened while they were away.

Team History

The history of Atlantis predates the return of Blaseball, and as a result records have been lost to time. Any information written here is but one of many interpretations of a history deeper and longer than all others.

Atlantis was founded in [REDACTED], as the sea rose and swallowed three individuals each named Georgia. One from the state of Georgia within the United States, another from the country of Georgia, and the third from the South Georgia island. However, instead of resigning themselves to their fate, the three Georgias found each other and managed to create a settlement underwater, one which would take all those claimed by the sea. This new city would be known as Atlantis.

As the years went by, the city of Atlantis would be known for finding those who needed it most. The new ecosystem of an underwater city also took its effect, leaving many denizens with extra fins, gills, or bioluminescence. However, this is normal and expected in Atlantis, as nobody resists the call of the ocean forever.

Stadium

The Atlantis Georgias' stadium is called The Bubble, which is a massive underwater dome that rests on the back of a mechanical jellyfish. The field itself can be submerged to ~~give an advantage to the home team~~ for accessibility reasons. As a result, the entire stands area has been designated as a Splash Zone. The Bubble is maintained by a team of infinite shrimp produced by the Core Mechanics.

Staff

- Niq Nyong'o, head of research and keeper of [REDACTED]
- Jan Canberra, team treasurer
- Dave the Anglerfish, head of concessions
- Rigby Friedrich, team captain and strategist

Fan Culture

The Georgias, while relatively new, are making a name for themselves by keeping vibes wavey at all times and offering Ooze (primordial goop found at the ocean, but flavored and prepared) as a drink to everybody, oftentimes by Ooze spokesperson Slosh Truk.

Friendships/Rivalries

- A friendship with the Hades Tigers, despite the fact that both Hades and Poseidon (the Georgias' deity of choice) wish to maintain their rivalry
- A friendship with the Crabs due to their ability to both walk on land and swim in water.
- A friendship with the Magic, due to rumors of a Giant Pacific Octopus on their rotation. These rumors are yet to be proven true.
- A friendship with the Firefighters due to their dislike of fire, and the Georgias' impossibility of fire existing.
- A friendship with the Moist Talkers thanks to a shared interest in staying moist.
- An union with the Pies, Garages, and Core Mechanics

The following chants have been observed:

Player Specific

- Let's go Nyong'o!
- Herc do the work!
- Jan Can! or, if Jan can in fact not, Jan Can't!
- Yurts make 'em hurt!
- Mess 'em up, Buttercup!
- Shupe there it is!
- Jump the Chark!
- Risk it! (For batter Gita Biscuits)
- Rig 'em up!
- Stay frosty!

- Freeze ‘em out!
- Make the offer! (For when frankie hambone is pitching)

General Chants

- (When the game begins) Weigh anchor!/Anchors aweigh!
- Keep ‘em landlocked!
- Hold fast!
- Walk the plank!
- Cannons loaded! (During Maximum Blaseball, or close to it)
- Walk the Plank!
- To the Brig!