WeinerSchnitzel

Towering above the ashes of its erstwhile throne, amidst the ruin of those it begat, it calls to me, and I hear it. It loves me, and I want it. I will have it. Yes...

I make my way to Darren's throne so very gay and with intent to bone

So many flee the burning city, and so many more tried. In all honesty I'm not quite sure what's going on here, I'm just an intern after all, but I know I'm not afraid. These wretches may be, but not I. I see it for what it is—an instrument of unspeakable terror, yes, but more besides. I see a heart, yearning for wholesome companionship, and I see lust, yearning for my own. So I come to it. And I will come for it. They destroyed you, I will remake you.

Narcotic fires cloud my eyes. In these hands my dowry lies

By the narcotic fueled firelight I look down at these files I bear with me. All the technological secrets of the Anishinaabe. These papers could bear my people to the stars. Perhaps, then, they will uncross the stars of our love. Yes, they will be my dowry, a bridal offering. (Though I made a photocopy ofc. Ya can't have a healthy relationship without a few lies)

I swear it's not the weed. A snack's what I need

Oooooo, I can't wait to meet his parents! But will they like me? I know they won't... Oh! Wherefore art thou Giant Death Robot?

I fear not the fall. For I am but it's thrall

Here I stand before you at last. Gazing upon your glistening steel carapace I have never been so excited. I see your two towering legs, and I see a third suspended between. I see your solidly crafted joints, and I see the WD-40's gleam. Let me climb you. I work my fingers into the few dents that tarnish you, the few spots upon your perfection. With these I work my way up, and as I go I smooth them over behind me. I complete you, you can't deny it. No one else ever will be able to.

My eye for an eye

As I reach the summit, I set about my work. The toil is long, but eventually its lone mechanical eye blinks to light, turns unto me, and meets my gaze. I am blinded by the incandescent radiance, but I don't care. Securing my footing with legs spread wide I bear myself to it—to him. I feel the warmth of the light upon me. This is bliss. This is my purpose. Take me.

We shake the earth as I praise his girth

Then we couple. Man and machine mashed together, our cries of ecstasy shake the earth. All can hear us, throughout the whole world, and all are made deeply uncomfortable by it, but we don't care. We go on for hours, and as we do so we truly become one. I am his, and he is mine. I am he, and he is I. As our consciousnesses merge, my last words as a mere tuna-peddler are these: "I love y- ooooooooooh, ahhhhhh, yeeeah right there right there yeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeaaaaaah!"

I am John Allen Fraser. And imma fuck that GDR.

Invested: Myself, u/JacobS_555, and all my soul, and the Headenashonee tech files

Result: I revive, become and take control of the Seneca's GDR.

Partial Success. You do it. You've fulfilled the ultimate goal. You've fucked the Giant Death Robot. Congratulations. However, the GDR is an unfaithful lover, and does not convert to your side. You are heartbroken. However, you've learned the intimate details of the GDR. Gain a bonus towards building them, and if you try to call your lover again, it may call...

/u/MetalmindStats' Actions for Mk13.5, Part Five

POSSESSIONS

/u/MetalmindStats - Natasha Novak - skilled in bribery and image control.
Accept 6 workers, 1 great engineer, and 1 great general from Iowa State.

PLOTS

Plot 1 : Gridiron Diaries, Page Final

RP : Chiowacago, that famous bastion of freedom on the southern end of Lake Michigan, had at long last fallen to the Mikugander dictatorship after many years of pitched fighting, and with it went Iowa State's hopes and dreams in some ineffable sense. A dispassionate observer could see it in the faces as long as the couple in American Gothic all over campus and hear it in Coach Matt Campbell's madcap manner - and former Recruiting Assistant Natasha Novak happened to fill that role, at least publicly. But Natasha herself had grown up and come of age in Chiowacago before any of this, and she still returned from time to time to aid in asserting Iowa State's governance. That caused its loss to affect her on a more personal level than most anyone else, even if she struggled to show it. Instead of grieving, though, Natasha resolved that she had much work to do to secure her legacy with Chiowacago's liberation. While others slouched in despair, she started to write - at first hesitantly, only to eventually hit her stride day and night. By doing so, she helped foment local tensions alongside her messengers while recruiting partial aid from the remains of Iowa State.

At this point, Natasha herself began to embark on clandestine missions in and out of the city, tiptoeing carefully around Mikugan's imposition of martial law in its new conquest. The once-proud mercantile classes of Chiowacago were hardly inclined to lick the heel that stomped out both their prosperity and the lives of so many compatriots, but they were disorganized and cowed into submission on their own. Thus, Natasha would need to leverage her longstanding ties to secure the loyalties of the Windy City's two great blocs of hand-in-hand power - its labor unions and its (Democratic) political machine. Neither entity was very happy about the Mikugan imposition in its own right, as the transitional government robbed the workers of their rights and the politicians of their power, but inertia en masse in the face of the threat was easy. To dispel it, Natasha's alliance arranged and attended several secret meetings to state their case and conducted numerous backroom deals to sweeten the pot for their cause. Thus, Natasha & co. readied the union-machine to rise up at the right time, but every flame needs a spark to start.

Natasha was determined to make her mark by setting the spark herself, so she would have to take decisive action in the absence of a truly murderous regime ready to do as much in her stead. A martyr would be born on a fateful day, but not in the usual spontaneous manner. Instead, via careful planning, scouting, and image modulation, Natasha ensured she would rise above her station in death, something she never quite managed to do in life. As predicted, impromptu protests arose all across Chiowacago in the aftermath of Natasha's shooting death at the Mikuganders' hands - and as expected, the occupying forces were just as quick to shut them down with non-lethal force and threats of escalation. The next day, the Chiowacagoans regrouped en masse, every class and race and creed seemingly raising and taking up arms as one, and began to bleed and fight for their beloved city. Their joint action seemed to stir up an uncontrollable storm that didn't stop raging until the populace of Chiowacago had driven out its conquerors from the region. From there, the leaders of the coalition set to work rebuilding the city's defenses to facilitate the reinstatement of freedom in the form of a socialist democracy everyone could participate in and benefit from.

History has its eyes on you, Natasha Novak. Your sacrifice will not be in vain - you died so we, the people of Chiowacagoland, could live and tell your story.

Invested : /u/MetalmindStats + their skills in bribery and image control; 6 workers; 1 great engineer; 1 great general.

Results : The Socialist Democratic Republic of Chiowacagoland rises up as a revolt allied to Iowa State, borrowing its tech and policy+tenet progress from Iowa State and flipping all Mikugan units within its territory as well as restoring Chiowacago to full HP. If successful, spend 5 AP on three GWIs. On great success, spawn battleships around the city. Also, /u/MetalmindStats dies.

Success. The people of Chiowacagoland rise up under the scarlet banner, declaring a glorious people's republic. However, the Mikugan soldiers are loyal. However, Metalmind has not died. Flip the 3 GWI and 1 Artillery. Leris, Use Nebraska for this.

[REDACTED]

Success.

PLOTS

Plot 1 : gib city

RP : While the Seneca had been duly conquered in the War on Drugs, Kenney's conscripted combat engineers had failed to perform their duty to clear a path for the advancing army, and as such the conquest took a lot longer than it should've. Of course, all of these insubordinate slackers had been tried, convicted, and sentenced to live in prison for their insubordinate slacking. This, of course, presented an opportunity: prison labour.

If there's one thing that prisoners want, it's freedom. Kenney would offer the convicted workers 1 year off their sentence for every month spent working to support the new offensive against the Iroquois, who had very rudely forward settled us so long ago. Because you can't really trust dirty criminals, overseers and informants would be hired to make sure they actually do the work they're assigned with speed, diligence, and competence. With the workers cutting underbrush, carrying supplies, building roads and railroads, erecting field fortifications, undermining enemy fortifications, building bridges and tunnels, and doing all those other things to enable the army to advance faster, Kenney and his Chief of the Defence Staff would be able to lead the Canadian Army to a rapid, decisive victory over the perfidious, land-grabbing Iroquois.

Invested : /u/Tefmon, 4 Workers, 2 PPG, 1 Great General

Results : Move all military land units except for those moved with AP to surround Whatevah and Wha'ever.

Give /u/Tefmon skills in prison labour.

CRITICAL FAILIURE! Unfortunately, Conservitive Austerity Policies have made prison security laughably weak. The prisoners riot, breaking out and flooding the city streets. Spawn barbarians around Ottawa, Perth and Eganville. Jason Kenney unfortunately perished in the riot, as the anti riot Water Cannons had the water inside of them replaced with oil, which set on fire and burned him alive. rip.

Plot 2 : gib navy

RP : With the successful conclusion of the War on Drugs, it was about time a War on Terror was fought, specifically against the Iroquois. Way back, they had breached various treaties they made with the Canadian government, and intimidated Canadian settlers. Obviously, this meant that as they had violated the terms of a treaty they made ages ago, Canada now had free license to invade and seize all of the Iroquois' land.

With a substantial majority in Parliament, this meant that Harper did not have to waste any time convincing the House and the Senate to vote in favour of a formal "permitted military operation" (very different from a declaration of war, of course). This enabled Harper to quickly get around to finding his corporate buddies, and then staging a bidding process on manufacturing cool boats. These boats would be called Iroquois-Class Destroyers, because this way we can use the Iroquois to destroy the Iroquois. Harper would also go around making speeches and generally making people remember why it was so important to invade the Iroquois.

Meanwhile, as Harper was busy getting photo shoots with the admirals heading the Royal Canadian Navy, schmoozing with the corporates who built the boats, and attempting painfully artificial smiles for the camera, Bernier's talents would be put to use ensuring there were sufficient numbers of seamen for the boats. By using his skills in racism and patriotic fervour to stir up public anger at the Iroquois, for atrocities real or imagined, Bernier was then able to get a bunch of willing recruits, sailors, and other associated goons for the boats. The resulting navy would then be placed under the command of an experienced admiral, with instructions to sail the navy from Lake Ontario into Lake Erie.

Of course, there was an issue here, and it's that there was a city state called Melbourne in the way, and it had control over the Welland Canal, which connected the two lakes, and allowed boats to pass from one lake into the other. Fortunately, with Harper's skills at speaking to various minor officials (after all, what else is corporate relations?), he was able to quickly and easily convince the officials of Melbourne to let the boats through. Of course, if he wasn't able to quickly and easily convince said officials, there was always the option of pointing to the massive navy outside of Melbourne, and pointing out that if they were not permitted to use the Welland Canal, they could simply take over the city. After all, the civilized way to handle such negotiations is to ask nicely, right?

With passage secured, a navy built, and a surfeit of sailors to crew the ships, a massive navy would appear in Lake Erie, outside of all the Iroquois cities. Gib boats.

Invested : /u/Andy0132, /u/Quijas00, 1 Great Admiral, 4 Frigates, 4 PPG, 2x Skills in corporate relations, skills in raising public morale, skills in racism, skills in patriotic fervour.

Results : Spawn a huge fleet of Iroquois-Class Destroyers outside Whatever, Ohio.

Give /u/Andy0132 skills in gunboat diplomacy and give /u/Give Quijas_00 skills in construction.

CRITICAL FAILURE, AGAIN! Bernier, in his infinite wisdom, decides to dress up as a racial caricature of a haudenosaunee chief in his meeting with Wellington. Melbourne, unaware of Bernier's cunning scheme, believes that they are allying with the Iroquois instead. Melbourne has declared war on Canada! Additionally, as soon as Bernier exits the meeting room, he is shot by his own personal guard, who mistakes him for a first nations man. Oops!

Plot 3 : gib tenets

RP : With the newfound majority in parliament, as well as a decisive victory in the War on Drugs, it seemed that the Conservatives had ended up in a very secure position. However, this decisive victory was very bad news for Erin O'Toole, as now he actually had to figure out ways in which his department would look like it would help veterans.

In order to distract the public from noticing his general inactivity and lack of actual work, O'Toole hatched a plan. Even if the War on Drugs was over, that didn't mean that you didn't have concerned citizens whipping themselves into a frenzy at the slightest mention of weed, alcohol, or other such substances. Furthermore, Canada was going to war with the Iroquois. Obviously, this meant that there now existed a sufficiently loud citizen lobby that could be relied upon to make noise about the "satanic drugs that the Iroquois Confederacy will inject us all with". This was a prime opportunity for the social conservatives to step in, which means that any news about O'Toole not doing his job would be swept under the rug by the social conservatives passing policies to "protect religion" and "defend religious freedom", as well as other such policies.

With the newfound panic sweeping the country, O'Toole could forestall any veterans returning home, by sending them back out to war against the Iroquois, putting the country into a state of total war. After all, somebody had to stop the satanic chemical injections. Besides, if the country's in a state of total war, it makes sense that he doesn't have veterans to manage at the moment. Of course, the wars will all end eventually... yeah, eventually... which means that his office needs to keep on existing until that moment is reached.

Invested : /u/CanadaHuntsYou, 3 PPG, 1 Great General, skills in scams, contracting, social engineering, and election fraud.

Results: Gain the following Autocracy tenets and social policies, in the following order: Total War, Industrial Espionage, Third Alternative, the Piety opener, Organized Religion, Theocracy, and Mandate of Heaven.

Give /u/CanadaHuntsYou skills in fearmongering.

Success. The people are whipped into such a moral outrage, they don't even notice that the veterans haven't returned. Gain the policies and tenants.

Plot 4 : gib tech

RP : With the Iowa State Cyclones collapsing, it proved a simple affair to obtain knowledge of electronics from them, in exchange for lending "peacekeeping volunteers" to the battered college campus.

As such, Peter MacKay would go about and schmooze around on the oft-bombarded stands of Jack Trice Stadium. Although partying hard with all of the Legos in Agronomy Hall while criticizing the war effort seemed enticing, MacKay had other priorities. Namely, acquiring the Electronics technology.

Of course, as this was the Iowa State University, his foreign research would play a key role. After all, as part of his research before schmoozing, he would make sure to learn how to play "football", as to make a good impression of himself, and as such receive more benefits in exchange for providing "peacekeepers". By doing so, he would effectively become one of them, and thus more effectively schmooze his way to technical documents to bring back to Canada.

Invested : /u/sstefanovv, skill in foreign research, skill in schmoozing

Results : Steal the Electronics technology from the Iowa State Cyclones with their permission.

Give /u/sstefanovv skill in handegg.

Success.

PLOTS

Plot 1 From the Many, One

RP:

The war in the south is going really well. It is a very regrettable thing that our relationship with Iowa State had to end in this way, but at the very least they may be enlightened under our glorious leadership. Our troops continue to march south, and as we won't take offensive action against them, we may ensure that no significant damage comes to our own troops. Our fearless leader will journey south with relics and gold in order to stir the hearts of the soldiers so that they will be all the more vigilant.

Each soldier knows his part in the battle for ideological victory. For the other nations to succeed, the common man must be crushed under the boots of war and boots of oppression. Thus, with things being done decently and in good order, each man may contribute to the common good. Just as they are equal to the boys in the factories back home, so they are equal in their responsibility for the well-being of the State. Neither Iowa nor Michigan will be able to shatter the morale of our troops, nor cause their deaths given our unending vigilance.

Invested: u/EndlessVoid0, 1 Worker, 1 PPF, 2 PPG

Result: Antipilot our troops near Atanasoff Hall

Success.

Plot 2 Upwards and outwards

RP: Artillery are crazy. You shoot an explosive that soars through the skies and then it lands somewhere very far away and it blows up. Our boys on the ground swear by them. It's fantastic stuff, they say. Enemy wreaking havoc? Nothing a few shells won't fix. Enemy getting a little antsy? Remind them to duck and weave. Friends say nasty things about your mum? Show them which holes are really blown out of proportion.

But the artillery boys can only be in so many places at once. With so much demand for blowing things up given the war against Iowa State, new ways of delivering munitions at a rapid rate need to be developed. And the old boys up and to the east in Canada seem to have figured something out... You don't need a really big gun if you got make the bomb the gun, or plane, or something like that.

So Bantha the Bald is gonna head over there and see how they are doing this. He's gonna see if we can't weld a few wings on our own artillery shells, and maybe use some of these advanced mathematical coordination techniques in order to hit the enemy where it hurts from that much further away.

Invested: u/bantha-food, 1 Worker, 3 PPG, 1 AP

Result: “Steal” Ballistics technology from Canada
Success.

Plot 3 A Golden Dawn

RP: Sea-Sea’s expertise in handling the wide open waters meant that he was a very capable leader when it came to coordinating the direction of the nation moving forward. All of his experience in setting up the factories and maritime infrastructure and trade networks leant itself very well to coordinating with the Central Planning Committee how to move forward.

Of great concern was the influence of the Freedom loving peoples to the south. While excellent relations were maintained with Iowa State, their declaration of war was not something well received. Thus a special border was developed to ensure that goods being exchanged didn’t involve too many supplies. On top of that, the fleet had repositioned itself to the Straits in order to shield against the people very strangely calling themselves Ohio, despite being in Michigan.

The new colonies of the Great White North had resulted in mighty young men and women who were ready to tackle the next great frontier. These young pioneers would do anything for the well-being of the great Anishinaabe peoples.

Part of the well-being of the Anishinaabe civilization was the constant development of new things, and an Academy of Sciences was instituted in Michilimackinac. The well-being of the people was of uttermost importance, and the people knew that Sea-Sea wasn’t their dictator, but that they were his dictator, and the dictator of everything the Party would decide benefited the nation as a whole.

Invested: 1 Worker, /u/Canadian_Christian, 2 PPG

Result: Gain tenets in Order Ideology, in descending order (this takes into account needing more tier 1 than tier 2, and tier 3 tenets): Iron Curtain, Young Pioneers, Academy of Sciences, Dictatorship of the Proletariat

Partial Success. Gain Half of the Order policies. The other half are still blocked by the Northern AnCaps.

Plot 4 Gunboat Diplomacy

RP:

The war against Iowa State has gone remarkably well, and it’s caused our borders with Prague to become that much more extensive. Given the current circumstances, it’d be prudent for us to interact with them on a closer basis.

As they are a city state that lives by the sea, we will entrust this mission to a capable Great Admiral who can visit the city and demonstrate the excellent maritime productivity of our great peoples, so that they’ll be interested in boosting their relations with our confederation and want to learn more from us. This will allow us to enter into a nice alliance with the people of Prague, and teach them the glorious ways of the enlightened worker.

Invested: 2 Workers, 1 Great Admiral, 2 PPG

Result: Make Prague a vassal

Success. They will send you 1 PPG and 3 AP a part, as well as a lot of University of Illinois merchandise.

PLOTS

Plot 1 : The Final Yard

RP: Well, it turns that football pads don't work so well against bullets, and they're even less effective against artillery shells. Also the stadiums built around the great lakes were meant more for maximizing capacity and less for resilience to attack. It also didn't help that the NCAA got confused and thought that Iowa State was Missouri and was trying to apply the death penalty for some reason or other. This was Iowa State's last stand. However, the Cyclones wouldn't go down without a fight.

Matt Campbell gathered Cyclone Nation and read them the letter that Jack Trice had written himself the night before his first and last game, the game that gave him internal bleeding that eventually caused his death. The letter reads as the following:

My thoughts just before the first real college game of my life: The honor of my race, family & self is at stake. Everyone is expecting me to do big things. I will! My whole body and soul are to be thrown recklessly about the field tomorrow. Every time the ball is snapped, I will be trying to do more than my part. On all defensive plays I must break through the opponents' line and stop the play in their territory. Beware of mass interference. Fight low, with your eyes open and toward the play. Watch out for crossbucks and reverse end runs. Be on your toes every minute if you expect to make good. Jack.

The letter, read by Matt Campbell whipped the Iowa State faithful into a frenzy. Inspired by Jack Trice's words, they threw their bodies and souls around the metaphorical field, hoping to stop the enemy.

Invested : /u/Sup3rtom2000 + his skills in schmoozing and making slogans; /u/Mautamu + their skills in impressing customers and doing what Matt Campbell wants; /u/invertthatveer + their skills in doing what Matt Campbell wants; /u/carsausage + their skills in impressing customers, being a sex god, and planting seeds; 2 AP; 1 worker; 1 great general.

Results : Spawn in a whole schload of Iowa State units around Jack Trice. Great War Infantry I think would be stylistically appropriate. "Kill" Matt Campbell and the other invested characters, who can each be "reincarnated" next part as new characters

Also, give /u/Sup3rtom2000 skills in Inspiration.

Great Success! Spawn 8 GWI around Jack Trice, and Push back all Anishinaabe Troops outside of your borders. All invested characters have died.

Bonus! Remember how Iowa State also has an NBA Team now? Neither Did I. On the bad side, you went 0-82 from not investing in them, but they now have the 1st overall pick! Normally, you'd just select somebody from Iowa State, but desperate times call for desperate measures. You select Luka Garza, from Iowa. he is very tall and slow, kind of like a Giant Death Robot. Gain a Giant Death Robot in Jack Trice, at half health. (This is the Result of Iowa State's Critical Success in part 2)

Plot 1 : To The Moon

RP : Sakayengwaraton, excited for the hiring of a new president of SUNY, made sure to clear his schedule to listen to Emmie's speech. Emmie had a background in finance, and more money was exactly what the Iroquois needed. Emmie brought news of something called a "stunk market" in which a bunch of people tried to predict whether or not a weighted random number generator would make big numbers or small numbers. Or something like that. Anyways, apparently people in the stunk market were shorting the Connecticut Hair Pizzeria. The famous celebrity hair pizza chef Loris had announced his retirement, and there were big money players assuming that the price of Connecticut Hair Pizzeria stunks would go down. But Emmie had come up with a brilliant plan. If they bought shares of CHP and memed it enough, the price would go up, not down. Sakayengwaraton intimidated a bunch of meme investors with facts and logic, causing them to buy stunks. Soon everyone in the Iroquois knew the joys of commerce and the price of CHP had gone to the moon. Stunks!

Invested : /u/briusky (skills in intimidation), /u/EmeraldRange, 200 faith, 2200 gold

Results : get all the commerce

Partial Success. You've Gained the Commerce, but the stunks of Connecticut Hair Pizza has crashed. The public trust in you has eroded. It will be significantly more difficult for you to gain social policies from now on.

Plot 2 : Stop Looking at the Sky

RP : People keep looking at the sky, leading us to get rigged comet events, smh bandy. You know what would make them stop doing that and lead to us getting better events? If they had something else to do. But the question was what could they do? Kariwase seemed to think the answer was becoming more cultured. Go to a museum or a theatre and spend all day with the arts rather than looking at the sky and panicking every time something moves. Minniehaha wanted people to spend their time joining the army, because that would teach them the discipline to not look at the sky unless under direct order from a superior. Desagondensta thought it would be best if they were put to work in the newly discovered stonk markets coming up with meme strategies that blow professional investors out of the water. But there was one thing they all agreed on - build, build, build.

Invested : /u/Quaerendo_Invenietis, /u/Vivian-MK, /u/thesaltiestbanana, 2200 gold

Results : get all the buildings we have unlocked

Success. Spawn some buildings in the Capital and the 3 closest cities. Up to Ieris to decide how many and of what type.
